"Everybody is Somebody in Thief River Falls"

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES 20¢

Volume 75 (USPS 627-360) Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, July 23, 1986 Number 59

DEVELOPING A SWEET BEAK, Baltimore orioles at the Randall Noper yard on Oakland Park Road in Thief River Falls are hooked on marshmallows. Noper impales the sweet treats on nails driven into a piece of wood suspended from a wire at his bird feeding station. On a full day, if Noper actively refills the four nails he uses, it is not unusual for the birds to do away with three or four dozen full-sized marshmallows. Oranges are also favored food for orioles, but are costly bird feed. By shopping specials in the Times (pardon the plug), Noper can frequently buy marshmallows at a cost of about a penny each. "It took them awhile to get started," he said, "but now the orioles all seem to like them." Other birds, such as rose-breasted grosbeaks, have also developed an affection for the confection.

Mattson has been involved in the newspaper business since a youngster in Thief River Falls and involved directly in the operation for about 40 years. He will be retiring at the end of July.

Winners Listed In County Fair Open Horse Show

Open class horse show at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls attracted a large number of entries this year, according to Ron Broten, superintendent of the horse department at the fair. He listed the following top winners of open class competition.

Grand champion female of the show was "Bean," owned by Shelly Swanson of Goodridge, while reserve champion female was "Sero Jet Anne," owned by Leonard Furuseth.

Grand champion male was "Jack Fire Cody," owned by Lynnae Broten of Thief River Falls, with reserve championship going to "Shashall," owned by Rhoda Berg of Gonvick.

Broten said he was pleased with the number of entries which taxed the capacity of barn space at the fairgrounds but that he expected an even larger number of entries next year.

Swimming Pool Committee Reports Success At Fair

Swimming pool committee member Charlie Oakes reported that booths and fund raising efforts at the Pennington county fair were successful. In the two and a half week period since the committee began fund raising it has raised over $21,000, $5,500 of which was raised during the fair.

The $5,500 was raised with the dunking booth raising $1,344, pledges of $3,000, donations of over $500, $326 from the Bridgeman's ice cream social and a $308 from other activities.

Oakes said they were also going through questionnaires which were completed at the fair about site locations. He said so far citizens have indicated opposition to plans of locating the pool in Floyd B. Olson park.

City And County Work Together On Assessments

Assessments on a 1985 improvement project which involved placing water mains to Arctco, the ODC, Hi-Performance Engineering and Future Fuel were worked out in city and county commission meeting Tuesday night. County commissioners at their regular meeting Tuesday night agreed to a project increase in their share of the assessments from $30,800 to $36,388.02 with Future Fuel paying an additional $7,158.21.

City council members heard planning commission recommendations to approve corrections in the city zoning map, deny a zoning variance for a request by Country Acres apartments to build new garages, approve an off-street parking variance for Ted and Deborah Hamness and to pass an ordinance regarding TV satellite dishes.

City council members also passed a resolution to accept a tipping fee increase request by Future Fuel to $10.17 per yard and resolutions requesting the city attorney to draft an ordinance to change electric utility rate ordinance sections, and approve dual fuel and the electric rate format programs.

Due to significant changes in a project which involved placing water mains to Arctco, the ODC, Hi-Performance and Future Fuel, changes in assessments were necessary, according to city officials. The project was originally scheduled to cost $107,000, but because of approved engineering changes requested by the businesses and other requirements, including pipe sizes, the cost of the project will end up costing about $174,000. The assessment changes come on the heels of an announcement by Future Fuel that tipping fees will need to be increased if it is to stay in business.

Councilman Kenneth Murphy and other councilmen pointed out, however, that the increased assessment to the county and Future Fuel had no relation to the proposed tipping fees by Future Fuel.

Councilman Clayton Restad said the sanitation committee has made a recommendation to approve the

Regional Commission Holds Annual Meeting

Northwest Regional Development commission (NWRDC) elected one new member, reelected nine present members, hired an executive director and heard an appeal for cooperation and growth at the annual meeting conducted Tuesday evening at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls. Joe Bouvette of Hallock was elected commission chairman for the coming year.

The commission also set its 1987 fiscal year budget at the meeting at $375,687 with $102,906 to be raised by local levy from the counties involved. The commission is authorized to levy up to one-sixth mill which would bring in $113,913 if fully utilized. The $102,906 includes $11,319 from Kittson county, $17,494 from Marshall, $12,348 from Norman, $10,290 from Pennington, $34,988 from Polk, $5,145 from Red Lake and $11,319 from Roseau.

Norman Hanson of Goodridge was elected to the commission to represent the special interest area of agriculture, succeeding Marville Magnusson of Argyle. Mrs. Hanson received 15 votes to 13 for Magnusson on a second ballot. Eliminated on the first ballot were Sam Genereux and Lucille Weiss.

Reelected were Harold Thomforde, Crookston, representing business, John Carpenter, Hallock, financial institutions; Ray Beauchamp, Thief River Falls, industry, Lowell Enerson, Oklee, low income; Verne Green, Newfolden, soil and water conservation districts; Harvey Tripp, East Grand Forks, vocational schools; Rudee Anderson, Greenbush, watershed districts, and Treasure Omdahl, Warren, women.

George Wikstrom Jr. of Karlstad withdrew from the industry position on the board to permit Joe Bouvette to be nominated and elected in that area. Bouvette, who has been a city official on the commission, has filed for county commissioner in Kittson county where Charles Lindberg will serve until at least 1988 as county government representative. Bouvette had been elected chairman of the commission at the last meeting following the resignation of Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire.

One other change was made in commission membership where Cleo Cleveland of East Grand Forks was replaced by Sue Jevning of Warren. Cleveland had been nominated for reelection by school districts in the region but was defeated 14-12 on a write-in ballot for Jevning. Results of that election held previously were announced Tuesday evening. Mrs. Cleveland was nominated for the special interest post representing women on the board but defeated 16-11 by incumbent Treasure Omdahl.

Each county is represented on the commission by one person from the areas of city, county and township government. Those representatives serve for the duration of their elected terms. Two representatives at large from school districts in the region also serve. Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire is the second school district representative.

Other carry-over members of the commission not involved in the annual meeting election are William Gatheridge, Humboldt, Charles Lindberg, Kennedy, Vernon Gunderson, Newfolden, DelRay Larson, Gatzke; Ervin Strandquist, Newfolden; John Storsved, Hendrum, Cary Sip and Floyd Hovland, Ada, Kermit Finstad and Donald Grabanski, Thief River Falls and Karen Young, St. Hilaire.

Also Eugene Mattson, East Grand Forks; Duane Knutson, Fertile, Gary Letnes, Crookston; Ralph Berg, Brooks; Russell Pahlen, Plummer; Willard Purath, Red Lake Falls; Donald Fast and Gary Hendrickson, Warroad, and Wayne Juhl, Greenbush.

County caucuses were held to elect one person from each county to the NWRDC board of directors and one person to serve as alternate. Directors and alternates, respectively, include the following: Kittson — Charles Lindberg and John Carpenter; Pennington — Karen Young and Ray Beauchamp; Red Lake — Lowell Enerson and Willard Purath, Polk — Duane Knutson and Eugene Mattson; Marshall — DelRay Larson and Vern Gunderson; Roseau — Wayne Juhl and Rudee Anderson, Norman — Floyd Hovland and Cary Sip.

Joe Bouvette was elected by vote of the entire commission to serve as chairman of the commission and the board of directors. The board elected DelRay Larson as vice chairman and

Belinda Walter - Jeffrey Panek United In Marriage June 21

The Bethany Mennonite church of Freeman, SD, was the setting for the June 21 wedding of Belinda Kay Walter and Jeffrey Allen Panek. Rev. George Leppert and Rev. Eugene Tjarks officiated at the 6 p.m. candlelight ceremony, performed jointly in sign language. Parents of the couple are Mrs. Judy Walter and the late Kenneth J. Walter of Freeman, SD, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Panek Jr. of Goodridge.

Debra Schmeichel, cousin of the bride, was organist, and Renee Hartman, friend of the bride, was at the piano. Cousin of the bride, John Kiehl, played trumpet, and sang duets, along with cousin Rhonda Kiehl, of "He Has Chosen You For Me" and "I Could Never Promise You." "The Lord's Prayer" was signed by Sharon Rademacher from St. Cloud, friend of the couple. Friends of the bride, Rhonda Ofstad of Madison, SD, and Lita Priebe of Sioux Falls, SD, lit the candles, wearing dresses similar to those of the bridal attendants.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her mother. For her wedding she chose a white organza gown with high Victorian collar edged in Chantilly lace, and lace-appliqued bodice sprinkled with pearls and sequins. Leg-o-mutton sleeves were bordered at the wrist with Chantilly lace, and the full, circular skirt flowed to a three-tiered cathedral train of the same lace. A wired organza ruffle edged the skirt hemline. She wore a derby hat of Chantilly lace with white fingertip veil trimmed in seed pearls, and her bouquet was of miniature burgundy carnations, stephanotis, Rubrum lilies and babies' breath. Personal attendant of the bride was her cousin, Julaine Waltner.

Amy Walter served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were friend, Ginger Smith, Milbank, SD, and Kathy Panek, sister of the groom, Goodridge. They wore floor-length gowns of mauve taffeta with sheer, flocked yoke and full, puffed sleeves topped by fabric bows. They wore babies' breath in their hair and carried bouquets of burgundy and pink pixy carnations, Alstroemeria lilies, stephanotis and babies' breath.

Kimberly Waltner, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a white taffeta gown similar to those of the bridal attendants, with a mauve sash to correspond with the wedding colors. She wore babies' breath in her hair and carried a basket of burgundy and mauve blossoms. Jared Hofer, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. He wore a white tuxedo to match that of the groom, with mauve tie and cummerbund.

The groom wore white tails, tie and cummerbund, with Alstroemeria lily boutonniere. His best man was his brother, Jim Panek, of Fargo, ND. Groomsmen were friend, Jeff Rademacher of Belgrade, and brother of the groom, Scott Panek of Goodridge. They wore silver grey tuxedos with mauve ties and cummerbunds, and boutonnieres of burgundy carnations. James Hanskutt, Donald and Duane Schmeichel, all cousins of the bride, served as ushers. They wore silver grey tuxedos with corresponding ties and cummerbunds.

The groom's aunt, Betty Harder, presided at the guest book, and flower attendants were the bride's aunt, Betty Schmeichel, and cousin, Vernette Waltner. Friends of the couple, Sandy Maronde and Mrs. Eugene Tjarks, acted as interpreters.

Host couples at the reception dinner held in the Pioneer hall following the ceremony were Barb and Eddie Schmeichel and Gladys and Don Hanskutt, aunts and uncles of the bride. Joan Peterson and Rhonda Khiel, cousins of the bride, served punch, and gift attendants were Jackie Hofer, Jennifer Hofer and Melissa Deckert, cousins of the bride. Janice Hofer and Karen McBrady, the bride's aunts, cut and served the wedding cake. Rev. Charles Asche served as master of ceremonies for a short program presented at the reception dinner.

The couple will reside in Pierre, SD, where both are employed by the state department. The bride was guest of honor at several showers given in Pierre and Freeman, SD, prior to the wedding.

DID YOU KNOW?

Saloon (or Tavern) Keepers' Prayer

Satan, send me hundreds of boys and girls, teenagers and young married couples, for most of my old customers are dropping out.

Satan, you know that ten committed suicide last week, fifteen are in jail, eight are on a chain gang, twenty-five were killed in drunken driving, fifteen were sent to the poor house, thirty-five were sent to the insane asylum, five died in the electric chair, three in the gas chamber, and one was hanged.

Satan, it does not make any difference whose boys and girls they are — just send them here. I'll wreck them, ruin them, and then send 'em down to you. I cannot carry on my business without your influence. Satan I am totally depending on you to place the idea in their minds that here is where they will find a good time.

You know, Satan, that you and I have always worked together, hand in hand. And you know that my merchandise is a sure way to Hell.

Satan, I am depending on you.

"Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest thy bottle to him, and makest him drunken . . ." (Habakkuk 2:15).

NWRDC Chooses Board Members At Annual Meeting

Duane Knutson as secretary-treasurer. Eugene Mattson was appointed by Bouvette to replace Cleo Cleveland on the commission's personnel committee.

Hired by the commission to serve as the new director was Jay A. Brunner of Anchorage, AK. Norman P. Peterson of Thief River Falls has been serving as acting director during the interim and will continue to serve until Brunner arrives in late August.

Brunner, 33, has been senior planner and acting supervisor in the municipal and regional assistance division in the department of community and regional affairs for the state of Alaska. He has previously worked with the Minnesota energy agency, been community development director in Zumbrota, a senior regional planner in the southeastern Minnesota RDC at Rochester, regional planner for the Arrowhead RDC at Duluth and a planning intern at Austin, TX.

Norman Peterson said he wanted to publicly commend the NWRDC staff for its cooperation and "doing yeoman work" in attempting to keep the office and programs operating. Eleven of 14 staff members, including director Tom Jorgens, left their positions when the commission offices were moved from Crookston to Thief River Falls in June. Peterson was in turn commended by the commission on suggestion by commission member Rudee Anderson.

Speaking at a dinner preceding the commission meeting, Terence Stone of Madelia, executive director of the Region Nine development commission, called on the northwest commissioners to work toward future growth and program development.

"There is enough blame to go around if you want to look for it," he said, "but if you want a strong agency you have to put that behind you, take everything from today and go forward. I find county lines don't make a great deal of difference in regional programs and you should take pride in being able to work across county lines.

"What you need to do," Stone said, "is to set the direction for the commission to bring it back to its previous high level of service. Hire a good director, give him policy and rules he can live with, and let him go with it. Your staff needs the utmost commitment of all commission members, but don't try to take over the day-to-day activity of the organization. No one is indispensable and the new director should be extremely optimistic about the future."

Stone said this might be a good time to examine the work program but not get caught up in "what if we had done this" or "what if we hadn't done that". He cited the government version of the golden rule (he who has the gold makes the rules) and reminded commission members not to forget who they work for — the local units of government.

Noting that he could speak as someone coming into the community for a day and then going home to a different area, he minced no words about commitment to the regional program. "If you don't feel you can give your undivided support to the agency," he said, "then maybe you should give someone else a chance."

He concluded by saying the NWRDC can excel if it wants to do so and that all other regions in the state will provide help and support because the conditions in any region reflect on the others.

At the conclusion of the talent and fashion revue, several awards were presented. Skip Swanson, a fair director, presented the 1986 hall of fame award to Marie Svendsgaard of Thief River Falls. He also presented the friends of the fair award to Sharron and Larry Molstad. The fair beautification award was presented to the City View 4-H club and the herdsmanship award was presented to the Smiley 4-H club.

In between sets of performances 4-H members demonstrated a variety of clothing fashions and skill, leaving judges some difficult decisions to make. Much of the judging of the fashions had already been done and Sunday was a last opportunity for 4-H members to show off their purcahses and hard work.

City And County Work Together On Assessments

tipping fee increase because the county's obligation for Future Fuel is $1.3 million and Thief River Falls comprises 65 per cent of the county; Gentilly landfill is increasing its costs; transportation costs are prohibitive; and if the city does not support Future Fuel it will "go belly up."

It was not determined when the rate increase to the city will be passed on to Thief River Falls citizens, but an October 1 date was discussed along with an increase of 80 cents to $1. Presently most city customers pay $5.75 per month on their utility bill for garbage disposal.

Councilman Milan Borshiem would not agree to the increase unless a January 1 review date was set on the increase. Borsheim said he did not "want to be sending bad money after bad money." He told Future Fuel director Rick Nordhagen that by January 1 he should know from experience whether the operation will be viable. The council did pass a resolution which agreed to the increased tipping fee and set a review date of Jan. 1, 1987 on the increase.

Sections of the electric rate ordinance will be modified. Among the changes, primarily definitions and repositioning of rates, a new rate for 100 per cent water heater control was recommended. Utility Superintendant John T. Anderson explained that the city utility department is in the process of developing a new rate for water heaters. For an estimated installation cost between $30 and $40 customers in the program can have a device installed in their water heater which will control the temperature 100 per cent. Anderson said it would amount to substantial savings to the city and its customers.

The 1986 dual heat promotion will include: guaranteed dual heat rate through Sept. 1, 1990; interest free financing for installations; deferred payment of loans until Jan. 10, 1987 for the first 50 installations approved; a $200 rebate if the installation is not financed; budgeting of heating KWHs on rate number three and rate number six; all financing will be based upon one of two formulas — $60 per installed Kilowatt of approved types of dual heating or up to $1,200 per installation, whichever is greater.

A new ordinance pertaining to TV satellite dishes was given a first reading and adopted by the city council Tuesday night. The ordinance of the city changes the land use regulation by amending the definition of structure. It now reads: "anything constructed, the use of which requires permanent location on the ground; or is attached to something having a permanent location on the ground; including all antennas whether earth stations, dishes, towers or other shapes; antennas to have same setback requirements as accessory buildings." It was pointed out that the city is legally unable to control where a person chooses to place a satellite dish as long as it meets set back requirements.

When Ted and Deborah Hamness came to the city planner to get permits for building and construction they found out that their building was no longer in a zoned business district. City planner Don Stewart discovered that it was an oversight in the zoning map and also that the zoning map had never been approved. The city approved both actions, rezoning the Hamness property at 115 Sixth street and approving the zoning map. The Hamnesses were also granted an off-street parking variance because the size of the building does not allow any parking on the lot, off-street parking would not interupt traffic flow in the area and the neighbors did not object.

While the Hamnesses received a variance, Country Acres apartments did not. The apartment owners were asking for a variance to set back requirements to build two garages which would house 16 stalls and 16 storage stalls. The variance was not granted mainly because of potential safety hazards created for vehicular traffic.

Worried about the lack of safety warning devices for recent construction sites throughout the city that are part of the street and utility improvement project, city councilmen directed City Engineer Dave Kildahl to withhold payments if the contractors do not improve their safety records.

In other business the city: decided to study whether Jack Limanen, 1601 Cardinal Dr., should get some compensation for damage done by a contractor to his trees and power hook-up which resulted in damage to his freezer; granted permits for beer in Oakland park for Bridgeman's on August 16 and for Land O'Lakes on August 7, with one nay vote by Councilman Murphy; granted a request by the city park department to recind a grant to use $5,000 for playground equipment and instead allow $1,500 to go for playground equipment and $6,000 to go for the purchase of an 11-acre park; accepted the immediate resignation of Cliff Larson from the HRA board; granted a progression raise for Barry Newton of the fire department; granted a request to fly flags for Northwest Dairy Day; and noted a public meeting August 1 at 3 p.m. to discuss float plane landings.

The city council went into a closed session at the end of its regular session to discuss disciplinary action against an employee and to also discuss the Sue Beito conciliation meeting.

MN Farmers And Ranchers To Join National Group

Central Minnesota farmers and ranchers will attend a grassroots meeting in Belgrade this week to discuss policy options and elect delegates to the national "United Farmer and Rancher Congress" in St. Louis, September 11 through 13.

The Belgrade meeting, set for 8:30 p.m., July 16 in the municipal hall is the first of a series of 15 area meetings to be held in Minnesota. Similar meetings will be held on the same day in 31 states. The July 16 meetings are the first of nearly 500 caucuses being held around the nation in July and August to elect over 1,500 delegates to the St. Louis congress, according to Jim Hare, Minnesota coordinator for the congress.

Funding for the Saint Louis congress and the coordination of the grassroots delegate-selection meetings has been provided by a $250,000 grant from Willie Nelson's Farm Aid, Inc.

"Willie Nelson and Farm Aid have given the American farmer and rancher a once in a lifetime opportunity to come together and speak in one voice directly to the American people," Hare said. "At each of the local meetings, and again at the St. Louis congress in September, individual producers will be getting together to hammer out a unified program to save family farm agriculture and the rural economy."

"We are committed to making all of the meetings as inclusive and democratic as we know how," Hare stressed. "We want every producer to participate in the policy discussion and delegate selection process. To keep it representative, we will be electing one delegate for each 10 participants at each meeting and 50 per cent of the delegate slots will be designated for women producers."

Bob Hanson, organizer of the Belgrade meeting said, "It's time we made solving the rural crisis this nation's top priority. As farmers and rural people, we know the devastation out here first hand. Together we know how to put this economy back in order. This farmers congress is a rare opportunity for farmers in this area to have their ideas heard in Washington without being filtered by our politicians. This is our chance to make our opinions count."

Hare said the united farmer and rancher congress has been endorsed by a wide variety of farm and church groups, including the National farmers union, National farmers organization, the American agriculture movement, Inc., the National grange, the North American farm alliance, the Federation of Southern cooperatives, the National Catholic rural life conference and the National conference of churches.

Asks Action To Ease Shortage Of Grain Storage

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has called on U.S. agriculture secretary Richard Lyng to take administrative action to ease the growing shortage of grain storage capacity across the Midwest.

In two Capitol Hill meetings, he urged Lyng to consider a number of options that could decrease the jam of wheat and grains that is over-flowing silos and elevators.

"We could rapidly expand exports if USDA would implement a marketing loan," Stangeland said. "That option is available to the administration under the 1985 farm bill, and since the U.S. imported more food than it exported last month, we need to take effective action in the overseas markets."

Stangeland also noted that Lyng could issue additional "handling only loading orders" in areas where the shortage of storage space is greatest.

As of June 1, there was an estimated 4.99 billion bushels of corn in storage in the Midwest, 75 per cent more than on June 1, 1985. Stored soybeans are up 79 per cent and wheat storage is up 33 per cent in the same period.

"Until we can get USDA to implement the marketing loan and trigger a jump in U.S. food exports, the administrative needs to take firm action to alleviate the storage crunch with a "handling loading orders only" announcement," Congressman Stangeland said.

Rules Developed For Implementing Omnibus Farm Act

The 1986 omnibus farm act contained a debt restructuring provision for farmers and this new program is coming quickly together, according to State Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls.

Public members of the Rural Finance administration board (RFA), the programs' governing agency, have been appointed by Gov. Rudy Perpich. They are David Smith, banker from Jasper; David Velde, attorney from Carlos; and Andrew L. Walters, farmer from Balaton. In addition, the commissioner of agriculture, commissioner of commerce, commissioner of finance and state auditor serve as members of the board.

Sparby said the board held its first meeting and draft rules have been developed, with final rules expected before the end of the month. A bond sale to finance the program is due within the next few weeks and the program should be operational by mid-August.

The program will provide farmers and lenders an opportunity to refinance real estate debt at current real estate values. The average acre of Minnesota farm land has declined 40 per cent in value since 1981. The RFA will participate by buying a 25 per cent interest (up to $50,000) in the new mortgage. This will improve the bank's cash flow and encourage lenders to take part in the program.

According to Sparby, an eligible farmer must be a Minnesota resident who is the principal operator of a Minnesota farm and who earns at least half of his or her gross annual income from farming. The farmer must have a debt-asset ratio of 50 per cent or greater, yet show promise of continuing a viable farming operation if assisted by the RFA program.

"I am most anxious to see this program get started and hope it will provide much needed assistance to many of our farmers in Minnesota," concluded Sparby.

Farmers who are interested in the program should watch their local papers for an announcement that the program is operational and that applications are being taken by local lending institutions.

Program Extended For Dislocated Family Farmers

Funding of the dislocated family farmer project has been extended through December 31 to allow the department of jobs and training to provide employment assistance to more farm families, department spokesman Don Buckner said today.

Farm families with cash flow problems and those facing bankruptcy or foreclosure are offering counseling, on-the-job training, classroom training and help in finding full-time jobs through this special project.

These employment oportunities are being provided through local job service offices in 20 Minnesota counties. Counties in the project are Big Stone, Brown, Fillmore, Goodhue, Lincoln, Kandiyohi, Marshall, Martin, Meeker, Morrison, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Stearns, Stevens, Swift, Todd, Wabasha, Watonwan and Winona.

Farm families facing this predicament are encouraged to contact the nearest job service office.

"We believe many of the farm families eligible for this assistance are putting off applying until fall," Buckner said. "But it's important that necessary paperwork be started soon, as no further expenditures can be made once the funding expires."

The project was scheduled to end June 30, but was extended six months to serve more of the growing number of dislocated farmers and their families, Buckner said.

Since the project started last August, 511 people have enrolled and 115 have found jobs through the project, Buckner reported.

The farm employment project was developed by the Minnesota department of jobs and training in cooperation with the Minnesota department of agriculture under a $1,019,600 grant from the U.S. department of labor.

More information on the dislocated family farmer project is available from local job service offices.

Ely College Will Offer Aviation This September

In an effort to meet the growing demand for well trained professional pilots, Vermilion community college at Ely will begin three aviation programs this September.

Thomas Wise of Armandale has been selected to head Vermilion's aviation department. He is a certified instrument and multi-engine flight instructor and has given over 3,000 hours of instruction in land and sea aircraft as well as in sailplanes.

"The major airlines are now losing pilots to retirement who began their careers between the end of World War II and the beginning of the Korean conflict," Wise said. "Their diminishing number is creating a ripple effect throughout the entire aviation industry. Flight instructors are moving into the commuter airlines as the commuter pilots advance to the major airlines. Current projections indicate that the trend will last into the mid-1990s."

According to Wise, Vermilion will be offering three pilot training programs as part of its fall schedule. The professional pilot course will consist of 96 credits and graduates will receive an Associate in Applied Science degree. After completion of the two-year program, participants will have earned a commercial pilot's license with the addition of certified flight instructor and multi-engine ratings. All credits will be transferable should the student decide to attain a four-year degree at St. Cloud state university.

Vermilion is also offering a one or two-year wilderness pilot program (49 and 77 credits respectively). Both courses have been designed to equip the student with the skills and knowledge necessary to act as a pilot-for-hire in remote areas. Graduates of both courses will have obtained commercial licenses with a variety of flying experiences including seaplanes, taildraggers and ski-equipped planes.

Wise emphasizes that most students will qualify for grants and low interest loans to help finance their aviation training costs.

Further information may be obtained by calling Tom Wise at 1-800-652-9747 (ask the connecting operator for Vermilion) extension 52.

Congressmen Ask Dole To Push For Summit Meeting

Two Minnesota Congressmen have asked U.S. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole to join them in pushing for a Congressional summit meeting on agricultural issues with President Reagan.

In a joint letter, Congressmen Arlan Stangeland and Vin Weber asked Dole to pressure the White House for an extended meeting on the farm situation.

"The facts are sobering," the two Minnesotans said. "Our exports have fallen off almost 37 per cent since their peak five years ago. In May, we posted our first agricultural trade deficit in almost 30 years."

"The administration has not forcefully responded to this problem," they said. "The concerns of the treasury and state departments often overshadow the needs of America's farmers, resulting in a lack of aggressive action by the administration to regain our overseas markets."

"Unless Congress and the President take action soon to reverse this trend, pressure will grow for dangerous protectionist legislation, which will lock farmers out of many of their remaining overseas markets."

If such a meeting with the President can be arranged, Stangeland hopes to renew his argument that a "marketing loan" proposal he authored last year will be adopted by the President.

Senator Seeks To Alleviate Grain Storage Shortage

Minnesota farmers face the possibility of a severe shortage of storage facilities for their crops if action isn't taken immediately to free up existing storage facilities and provide markets for our agricultural commodities, Senator Dave Durenberger said in a letter sent to Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng.

"With a record '86 crop on the way," the letter says, "farmers in the upper midwest could be in a situation this fall with grain in the field ready for harvest but no place to put it."

The letter, signed by six other upper midwest farm senators, urges the secretary to provide a facility loan program so that farmers who are forced to make use of temporary and emergency storage facilities will have the option of putting up bins on their farms and thereby assuring the quality of the stored grain.

There are currently 722 million bushels of corn and wheat stocks in storage in Minnesota. According to Durenberger, the storage facilities are nearly full, which means there isn't any storage space available for this year's harvest.

"If we don't do something immediately, farmers aren't going to have any choice but to store the grain on the ground and throw a tarp over it," Durenberger said. "This is unacceptable."

The letter also urges the secretary to utilize the export enhancement program to a greater degree by making it available across the board and using all available commodities, and to put a port rollover program in place to free up port terminals for grain moving through the market.

"Recent reports indicate that port terminals are nearly full and ships have had to travel to four ports in order to get a full load," says the letter. "Freeing up these terminals would greatly assist the movement of grain on both the domestic and world markets."

Durenberger said he and Lyng discussed several short-term solutions, including transporting the grain to states with available storage space at the cost of $.85 per bushel, "but that would just be transferring the problem, not solving it."

"These band-aid solutions won't work without a long-term solution," Durenberger said. "If farmers can't store or sell their crops, they're going to pile up higher and higher. We need to address the heart of the problem, our huge surplus of grain. That grain needs to be moved into the market and used."

Seat Belt Law In Minnesota To Start August 1

Minnesota became the 20th state in the nation to pass a mandatory seat belt use law earlier this year. The legislation takes effect Friday, August 1.

"This law is needed in Minnesota," said Public Safety Commissioner Paul Tschida. "It has been demonstrated again and again that people who wear seat belts are safer in motor vehicles than those who do not." Seat belt usage has been stressed in the state for many years, Tschida said. Earlier in the 1980s, a child seat law was passed. Later a penalty for violation was added.

Minnesota department of public safety, Minnesota occupant restraint program and the seatbelt coalition are continuing educational campaigns pursuant to the law's taking effect. At least four seat belt surveys (three this year and one next year) will measure the public's response.

The new law, Minnesota Statute 169.686, requires that "a properly adjusted and fastened seat belt" shall be worn by the driver of a passenger vehicle, any passengers riding in the front seat of a passenger vehicle and all passengers under the age of 11 riding in any seat of a passenger vehicle.

The new law also states that a violation will not result in a fine but that violators will be issued a safety warning. Violations may not be recorded on a person's driving record.

The new law makes the following exemptions:

(1) A person driving a passenger vehicle in reverse;

(2) A person riding in a seat in which all the seating positions equipped with safety belts are occupied by other persons;

(3) A person who is in possession of a written certificate from a licensed physician verifying that because of medical unfitness or physical disability, the person is unable to wear a seat belt;

(4) A person who is actually engaged in work that requires him to alight from and re-enter a passenger vehicle at frequent intervals and who, while engaged in that work, does not drive or travel in that vehicle at a speed exceeding 25 miles per hour;

(5) A rural mail carrier of the United States postal service while in the performance of his or her duties;

(6) A person driving or riding in a passenger vehicle manufactured before Jan. 1, 1965; and

(7) A person driving or riding in a pickup truck, as defined in Section 168.011, Subdivision 29, while engaged in normal farming work or activity.

KIM CARLSON of the Satellite 4-H club was the 4-H grand champion in the advanced foods division at the 85th county fair in Thief River Falls.

Since Minnesota legislators approved the law this spring, the number of states now requiring seat belts is 26.

Japanese Students Visit BSU July 18 Through August 9

Japanese students from Kyushu university will gain first-hand perceptions of life in America when they are hosted by Bemidji state university through August 9.

The Kyushu students will be participating in activities which provide a broad overview of life in north central Minnesota. Using the university residence halls as a home base, the visitors will stay at Itasca state park, explore various attractions on the Iron Range, see a local farm, take a horseback ride in Nevis, and hike the nature trails at Bemidji state park. They will also tour such local institutions as city hall, a fire station, the county courthouse and area schools.

In addition to experiencing the northern portion of the state, the participants hope to improve their application of the English language. The Japanese educational system requires several years of English study with reading and writing emphasized. The BSU program will reinforce listening comprehension and speaking skills.

While at the university, faculty and staff will present lectures in such areas as political science, theater, health care systems, history and life in the U.S.

A major facet of the program is the homestay visit which places individuals in community homes for a weekend. The students will share their culture with families throughout the area while enhancing their understanding of American life.

More information concerning the program may be obtained by contacting Jan Weiskopf, International Studies, Deputy Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 5660 (218-755-3829).

Unresolvable Tax Problems Tackled By IRS Offices

Taxpayers with an "unresolved" federal tax problem can help from a special Internal Revenue Service office. It is called the Problem Resolution Program (PRP) office, and it gives personal attention to taxpayers whose previous contacts through normal IRS channels have not helped.

The most common complaints brought to Problem Resolution are about delayed refunds. Sometimes these are caused by incorrect or duplicated social security numbers or by taxpayers who change their names and do not inform the Social Security Administration. Taxpayers who move after filing a return without providing a forwarding address may also have their refunds delayed.

The IRS stressed that PRP is not a substitute for normal IRS channels and cannot be used to appeal technical decisions in an examination. The PRP office usually takes complaints only after there has been at least one unsuccessful contact with the IRS.

Taxpayers can reach the PRP office by calling the IRS number listed in their phonebook and ask for Problem Resolution.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

In the 10 years I've been an observer of the water carnival parade at Detroit Lakes, I have never been so proud of the Thief River Falls high school band as I was this Sunday — and I think the entire band, director and chaperones should be publicly congratulated!

I still recall, with utter dismay, the year the band wore jeans and sloppy shirts and the jeers and criticisms we heard from viewers near us. No matter how perfectly they may have marched or how well they may have played, their unconventional uniforms were what people remembered.

Yet today I was very proud of "our band" for though we have lived in Detroit Lakes for over a year, I still consider Thief River Falls as home — to some degree.

So — thanks to all — you did a fine job and looked mighty sharp! I only hope you enjoyed it as much as you appeared to be enjoying it. I couldn't help but think: "now there is the pride of the northwest!"

Thief River Falls, after bouncing through an inconsistent 11-18 regular season, will be cast in the role of underdog this week when the 1986 Ninth District Class AA American Legion baseball tournament is played at Crookston.

Moorhead Blues, Fergus Falls and defending champion East Grand Forks rate as the favorites in the six-team, double-elimination tournament that starts Thursday and continues through the weekend. Crookston, Detroit Lakes and Thief River Falls form the second half of what appears to be a decidedly split field.

Thief River Falls went just 1-6 this summer against Ninth District Class AA competition, splitting with Crookston while losing three times to East Grand Forks and twice to the Moorhead Blues. Post 117 did not play Detroit Lakes, Thief River Falls' first round post-season opponent, or Fergus Falls this season.

East Grand Forks edged Thief River Falls 9-8 in a close June 17 meeting, then won a lopsided 15-5 decision in the East Grand Forks Invitational July 13. The two met the very next day in a regularly scheduled contest, and East Grand Forks rolled to another easy win, this time 13-1.

In contrast, the Moorhead Blues had to work hard for a pair of extra inning wins over Thief River Falls in a long July 2 doubleheader, winning 7-6 in eight innings and 4-3 in 17 innings.

Thief River Falls beat Crookston 6-4 in a June 24 match-up, but blew a 10-1 sixth inning lead in an 11-10 loss at Crookston just last Thursday.

Mick Garry of the Crookston Times and members of the Crookston squad weren't kind to the Thief River Falls team in the post-game write-up that appeared in the Crookston paper Friday. "The (TRF) pitchers weren't throwing anything," Chuck Picard told Garry. "When they did throw it across we were hitting them."

Picard, who knocked in the winning run with two out in the seventh inning against Moorhead last week, came through twice against Thief River Falls, coming up with an RBI double in the sixth and a two-out, bases-loaded single in the seventh that produced the tying and winning runs.

Garry, describing Crookston's sixth inning rally, noted that Tony Degnan singled home two runs before Picard came to the plate. "Now the score is 10-6, and one could almost see the boys from Thief River reaching for their necks. Pichard's double made it 10-7 going into the seventh," he wrote.

After the score began 10-9, Garry said, "TRF had a pretty firm grip on the windpipes by now," obviously figuring it was a "choke" job by the losers.

"I didn't think there was any way we could win that game," said Degnan. "We just went up there trying to rip the ball. It was a team effort."

Ending a season in that fashion doesn't do much for your confidence, but Thief River Falls still could make things interesting for the rest of the tournament field. The 11-18 record included eight one-run losses, four of them in extra innings. With a little luck, and some consistency, the team's fortune could have been much improved.

The inconsistency can be attributed to the team's youth. With the injury to Newfolden's Jon Kragness, who suffered a broken arm in a July 7 game against Bemidji, Thief River Falls has just one senior on the squad — pitcher Kevin Nelson, who has missed portions of the season because of work commitments. To show just how young the Thief River Falls squad is, the entire squad, save for junior Kory Joppru and Nelson, will be playing in the VFW district tournament for 16-year-olds beginning Monday in East Grand Forks. And three of the players, including starting pitcher-shortstop Dean DuChamp, are members of the state tournament-bound Babe Ruth TG Sporting Goods team for 14-15-year-olds. Hunter Boldt and Rob Coltom, both parttime Legion performers with some starting assignments, are also Babe Ruth regulars, producing some conflicts this weekend when the Legion team is playing in Crookston and the Babe Ruth squad is in Moorhead.

Thief River Falls begins post-season American Legion play in the same fashion as the Prowlers did in high school baseball this spring — against Detroit Lakes. Thief River Falls beat the Lakers 11-1 in the opening round of the North Sub-Region 8AA playoffs before losing a 7-6 semifinal decision to Moorhead.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

Lowbush blueberries are harvested from Maine to Minnesota and in the Canadian provinces. The plants grow wild and are from 3 to 15 inches in height. They can be found most often on old pine cutover areas or any soil suitable for blueberries. To thrive the bushes require a moist, acid, soil with good drainage, report Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry officials in Warroad.

Millions of pounds of blueberries are harvested annually. They end up eaten fresh, canned, frozen or up into pies. There is nothing that can compare to a fresh blueberry pie, say some berry fans.

In the early days, settlers picked blueberries and canned them, adding greatly to their otherwise not so exciting winter diet. They probably added greatly to the diet of the Indian, also, long before the white man was here.

Now people look on berry picking more as a recreation. Going out in the forest for a Sunday afternoon drive, and maybe picking enough berries to make pie. They are always looking for the bonanza patch, but this does not happen too often, said the DNR officials.

Burning is one thing that can help set up the conditions needed for the bonanza patch.

In the early days with the opening of land by fire and the logging that was taking place, there was always some area that would produce a good crop of berries.

Periodic burning of blueberry plants stimulate vigorous new stems and remove the old stems.

Conditions have to favor a proper burn. It cannot burn so that the ground is charred and smoldering. This will kill the plants. The burn is best done when the ground is frozen or at least wet.

Burning should be done in the early spring, or late fall, after the leaves have dropped.

First growing season after the burn there is limited new vegetative growth, but the next two seasons should produce a berry crop.

Foresters at Warroad completed three small burns in the fall of 1985 and will be attempting several each year if the conditions are right. Hopefully this will increase the chances of being able to find one of those bonanza patches.

A poem found by Karen, his daughter:

So many times we've longed for you
So many times we've cried
And if love could have saved you
You never would have died
It broke our hearts to lose you
But you did not go alone
For part of us went with you

Suggestions Given For Renting Cars

Although we're a car-owning society, most of us rent cars now and then, particularly on vacation. There are several ways to find the best consumer deals on rental cars, according to the state attorney general's office.

First of all, it pays to call around to compare rates and to ask each company whether you're being offered the lowest possible rate. Many offer specials or lower weekend or weekly rates that save money. A five-day rate may be more economic than the daily rate for four days, for instance. In addition, the major companies offer sizeable discounts to members of organizations. If you belong to a group, ask about discount opportunities. Find out, too, whether your company gets a discount on business car rentals; the savings may also be available for your private use. And keep your eye out for special promotions — fly-drive packages are often available and some hotel chains offer discounts on rental cars.

A major cost consideration in car rentals is insurance coverage. The biggest money saver is doing without the insurance add-ons. The biggest possible money loser is doing without insurance if you need it.

Car rental companies offer three different kinds of insurance, although not all offer all three. The first is Personal Effects Coverage, which is inexpensive (about $1 a day), and reimburses you if your possessions are stolen or damaged while you're using the car. If you have a homeowner's policy, however, this coverage is usually redundant. The same is true of what's typically called Personal Accident Insurance which costs $2 or $3 a day, if you already have adequate medical coverage. Ask your insurance agent if your policy isn't clear.

What you're most likely to need is the Collision-Damage Waiver (CDW), which shields you from financial responsibility if the car is damaged (if someone else is injured, you're usually protected; the major companies include this type of insurance in your daily rate.) If you don't accept the CDW and your own insurance doesn't cover you, you'll have to pay at least something out of your pocket.

If you carry insurance on your own car that includes personal liability or collision insurance, that may cover any damage you do to a rental car, although if you have a deductible, that will apply here too. How much rental car coverage policies provide varies among insurance companies, so ask your insurance agent to explain your coverage.

Even if you accept the CDW, you may not be covered if someone else is driving the car when the damage occurs. Prices vary among rental companies, but typically a family member who is a licensed driver old enough to drive under the company requirements is covered. To be super safe, ask the counter clerk which drivers are covered and to point out the language that says so in the fine print in the contract.

Planning ahead will usually provide better service in renting a car. All the car rental companies emphasize the importance of making reservations at least one week ahead of the date you plan to pick up the car. Then you have a better chance of getting the type of car you want, and you save yourself the trouble of standing at the car rental counter while the rental agent verifies everything. You'll also be insured availability which especially necessary if you're renting over a holiday weekend.

When making reservations, ask about any additional charges you may have to pay. Depending on the location, many car rental companies add on a "drop" charge if you do not return your rental car to the outlet where you picked it up. This incidental fee can add from $20 and up to your basic rental rate — another reason to arm yourself with the proper information before you sign a contract.

Even with a signed agreement in hand, you can never be too careful. Before you drive off, check to see that the car — in particular the brakes and lights — is in perfect working order. Make sure there's an inflated spare tire and a set of tools with which to change a flat. Also, try the radio, air conditioner, heater, door locks and horn. If anything doesn't work properly, ask for a new car immediately. Most car rental companies will comply. And, if the rental agent tries to talk you out of it, be adamant.

Remember, too, to check the gas gauge. You're entitled to a full tank before leaving. When the car is returned, the tank should also be full. Otherwise, you'll be charged for a tank fill-up.

You should also note the emergency service number the rental company maintains throughout the area that you plan to travel. Some numbers are staffed 24 hours a day; others are answered at the local rental office only during regular business hours.

For further information about consumer choices in car rentals, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Division. In St. Paul: 117 University Ave., St. Paul, MN 55155, (612) 296-3353; in Duluth: 610 Government Service Center Building, 320 West 2nd Street, Duluth, MN 55802, (218) 723-4891.

Sparby-Rogalla On UND Law Listing

W. Jeremy Davis, dean of the University of North Dakota law school, announced two area law school students named to the dean's listing for the spring semester: Delray Sparby, Thief River Falls, second year; and Alan Rogalla, Goodridge, first year.

To be placed on this listing, students must achieve a 3.0 semester grade point average on a 4.0 scale for at least 10 hours of graded law school courses.

July Starwatch Will End With Meteor Shower

The skies of July are the setting for some spectacular celestial rendezvous involving planets, the moon and stars. July also offers its standard light show, which includes a meteor shower, the Milky Way and the Summer Triangle of bright stars.

The moon takes part in three conjunctions of heavenly bodies this month. On the 10th, the young moon passed very close to Venus and Regulus, the brightest star in the constellation Leo, the lion.

In the late evening of the 17th and moon will occult Antares, the bright red star in the constellation Scorpio. The exact time of Antares' disappearance behind the moon varies with the viewer's location. Two nights later, stargazers can watch the moon approach Mars, which is now near the "teapot" in Sagittarius. The full "buck" moon will occur in the early morning hours of the 21st.

Mars is very bright and made its closest approach to Earth in more than a decade on the 10th. It was only 37.5 million miles away — much closer than its maximum distance of 234.6 million miles, which occurs when the red planet is on the other side of the sun from Earth. Besides the brilliant Venus, Mars is rivaled in brightness by Jupiter, which rises in late evening, and Saturn, the bright object to the upper right of Antares.

The Delta Aquarid meteor shower will occur in the pre-dawn darkness during the last three or four days of the month. It won't be as good as the Perseid shower in August, though, especially since the light of the waning moon may interfere somewhat. The Delta Aquarids are caused by the burnup in the atmosphere of sand-sized particles that probably are remnants of two or more old comets. The meteors will appear to radiate from the southern sky.

The Summer Triangle is prominent in July. It comprises the stars Deneb, Vega and Altair, each of which is the brightest in its own constellation. Deneb lies in Cygnus, the swan, a cross-shaped constellation that's almost directly overhead at midnight. To the southwest of Cygnus is Vega, reigning over the otherwise dim constellation Lyra, the lyre. Completing the triangle is Altair, in the constellation Aquila, the eagle, southeast of Deneb and Vega.

The triangle is pretty big and is bright enough to stand out from even a light-polluted sky. A good way to find it is to watch the darkening sky and note the first three stars to come out in the east.

Dark skies are best to see the central part of the Milky Way galaxy, which lies in Sagittarius and rises over the southern horizon late in the evening. This is the hub of a giant disk of billions of stars, including the sun. A small telescope can pick out some of the individual stars whose combined brightness make up this river of light across the sky.

Another object for stargazers with telescopes is the spectacular cluster in the constellation Hercules. Known as Messier 13, this star cluster can be found by following the line joining the northern- and southernmost stars of the trapezoid of Hercules.

Most of us were sleeping when Earth reached aphelion, its farthest distance from the sun. At 5 a.m. CDT on the fifth the sun was 94.5 million miles away. Warm sunny weather will go on because the Northern Hemisphere is tilted toward the sun and will continue to be until the autumnal equinox.

The American Bible Society

I work with people and raise roses. Both fascinate me. And both are so similar.

Roses require tremendous attention. They must be cared for, talked to, fed and watered regularly, and protected from foreign matter that would harm. All of which must be done with extreme care.

You never hold a rose too tightly or its thorns will give painful notice of your indiscretion. You move about rose bushes with careful caution lest they snag you. They demand room to grow and fulfill their purpose in life.

And each rose bush has its own nature. You can perform all the proper acts of care and love, but the rose will be what its inward nature (its God-purpose) determines: a red rose will be a red rose; a yellow rose a yellow rose. You have absolutely no control over its nature (color).

In working with people that's the hardest lesson to learn. We can apply influence, give guidance, exert persuasion, but each person's individuality must be respected. His or her nature (God-purpose) must be allowed fulfillment. Refusing such freedom stunts people and kills roses.

Reforming Tax Reform

Following editorial comments were written by Richard W. Rahn, vice president and chief economist for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

The tax reform bill approved by the Senate would have a positive impact on long-term economic growth. That's why the U.S. Chamber of Commerce supports it. Unfortunately, the bill has several flaws which would have a negative effect on the economy for the first two years. Four major changes in the bill would avoid an economic downturn in the short term. The tax rates should be reduced at the same time the tax base is broadened. The capital gains tax rate needs to be reduced. The minimum tax needs to be modified. The investment tax credit should not be repealed retroactively.

The bill as passed by the Senate would not reduce tax rates until July 1, 1987, even though it broadens the base on Jan. 1. Thus, the top individual rate for 1987 actually would be 38.5 per cent instead of 27 per cent. This means taxpayers would be hit with a $23 billion tax increase for fiscal 1987. The economic recovery would be slowed, resulting in a loss of personal income, higher unemployment and a large deficit. The House-Senate conference committee should make sure the new tax law broadens the tax base and reduces tax rates on the same date.

Raising the capital gains rate from 20 per cent to 27 per cent would discourage venture capitalists from making the risky investments that promote innovation and technological advancement. Higher capital gains rates reduce the liquidity and efficiency of capital markets. Moreover, taxpayers would be discouraged from realizing capital gains, thus reducing federal tax revenues.

The government actually gained revenue from the capital gains tax rate reductions of 1978 and 1981. Changing the Senate bill either by retaining the present 20 per cent rate, or by reducing the amount of taxable capital gains to the extent that such gains reflect inflation, would reduce this flaw in the Senate bill.

Several changes need to be made in the proposal's corporate minimum tax. For example, under the proposed minimum tax, a major portion of depreciation allowances would be considered a tax preference item and would be taxed under the alternative corporate minimum tax. Thus, many capital-intensive industries would find the capital cost recovery system used for regular tax purposes irrelevant. The Senate's minimum tax proposal would cause the after-tax cost of capital to skyrocket for some firms, and investment and growth would decline. The best solution is to include a smaller portion of depreciation as a tax preference item.

Both the House and Senate bills repeal the investment tax credit retroactively to Jan. 1, 1986. That is a pure revenue grab. Because businesses would have no compensating rate reduction, investments this year have already become less attractive.

The four changes I have suggested would cost, on a static basis, $63.6 billion over a five-year period. But not making these changes would cost many more billions of dollars during that period. The combination of the uncertainty over the tax treatment of capital investment, the effective tax increase over this year and next, and the incentive for taxpayers to delay realization of income until the lower rates take effect will reduce economic growth in the short-term. This reduction in potential GNP growth would actually increase the deficit next year. In contrast, the shortfall that might emerge from speeding up the date for the tax-rate reductions would be quickly offset by the higher revenues from faster economic growth. Overall, the four changes I suggest probably would lower the deficit in each of the next five years.

Uncertainty over tax reform already has had a negative effect. Taxpayers who might be hurt by the various tax proposals assume that they will, in fact, be hurt, and do not invest. Taxpayers who might benefit from the various tax proposals assume that they will not get those benefits and, as a result, also do not invest. A recent survey of the chamber's members found that 42 per cent have delayed investment decisions. Other surveys show that investment spending this year is going to be woefully weak.

The House and Senate conference must make these changes in order to avoid an economic downturn during the transition period and to make the long-term impact of the bill even more economically constructive than it is now. Let's do tax reform right this time.

Pay Increases On Merit

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Pay increases based on merit?

A novel idea, it seems, in state government but one that is an everyday occurrence in the average work place.

The Citizens League of the Twin Cities, a nonprofit public affairs group not unlike the Northern Minnesota Citizens League based in Grand Rapids, released a study Tuesday that was critical of the way state employees are granted wage increases. Most are based on longevity and pay raises are given at regulated intervals. According to the report, people who perform in an exemplary manner are paid at the same rate as employees in like positions who plod along and do nothing above ordinary job expectations.

Government should not be singled out for that criticism. The same charges could be leveled against many in the private employment sector. However, it is easy to point fingers at government. Being an election year and all, it seems convenient that the issue raises its head again so it can become a hot issue for politicians to defend or deploy between now and primary and general election time.

There are about 26,000 state employees. Some of them are your next door neighbors; in a small town it is not unlikely that most readers know one or more of them. You attend church with them; your kids play together. You will notice, too, that they are just like the rest of us.

The Citizens League report should not be constructed to mean that state employees lack a respectable work ethic or that the quality of their work is lacking. While some individuals could be looked upon as fitting the less than desirable mold of a model employee, the majority deserve the positions they hold and the pay they earn. The work on some individual projects may not be top notch but the majority is of a quality no one in the private sector can challenge legitimately.

Regardless, the state's public generally respects state employees and their work.

The Citizen League points out in the report that the state's employment system is too complex and too rigid. That may be true. Highly motivated employees often become the victims of such a system. They go unrewarded for work above and beyond the usual call of duty.

The state Department of Employee Relations (DOER) is the regulating and operating agency for personnel decisions. It is headed by commissioner Nina Rothchild who admits that changes have to be made. She fears, however, that the Civil Service system might be destroyed in the process. A merit pay plan is usually opposed by labor unions and most government employees are members of the American Federation of State, county and Municipal Employees union. It is a strong organization and serves a useful purpose for its members. In collective bargaining history between state employees and their union, merit pay has been discussed but has not become part of any pact. One of the arguments against merit pay inclusion in contracts is that there appears to be little proof that merit pay results in better employment performance or productivity.

Reform appears to be needed in the state's Civil Service system. Caution is advised, however, to assure that baby, so to speak, is not thrown out with the wash water. Careful consideration by employees, labor organizations, government officials and the legislature should result in fine tuning the system. In the end the result should be continued quality work by qualified state employees.

Jackie Forsberg In TRF Pageant

(This is the ninth and final story in the series of personal interviews with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the official Miss America preliminary scholarship pageant. The annual event will be conducted Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln high school auditorium.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

High school activities for Jackie Forsberg have centered around two career-oriented organizations — the Distributive Education Clubs of American (DECA) and the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) she has been vice president of the latter organization for two years.

Jacqueline Marie, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Forsberg of Thief River Falls and a 1986 graduate of Lincoln high school. She is five feet three inches tall, weighs 101 pounds, has blonde hair and blue eyes. Her pageant talent number will be a combination gymnastic and jazz dance to the theme song from "Beverly Hills Cop".

While living in Detroit Lakes for three years, Jackie was involved in gymnastics for two years and has continued an interest in that activity. Her other hobbies include cross-stitch projects for gifts, collecting photos of friends and family and compiling them in scrapbooks, riding bicycle and water skiing.

Jackie has participated in regional job interview competition for two years and as a junior advanced to state competition where she earned an honorable mention. She also joined with Jennifer Anderson in a team health skills presentation at the regional level. At the senior awards banquet this spring she received class personality awards as best dancer and life of the party.

Accepted for enrollment at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks this fall, she plans to major in accounting and eventually become a certified public accountant. She has a brother, Kelly, 21, who is serving in the U.S. army in Georgia, a brother Wade, 16, at home and a sister Kristy who will soon be married to Lon Aune. For the past two years she has worked as a check-out counter attendant at the Red Owl store.

Property Tax Now At 10-Year Record

Property tax mill rates in Minnesota in 1986 rose to their highest level in over 10 years, according to the Minnesota Taxpayers association. Combined with rising property taxes and very slow growth in property values, the statewide average mill rate rose to 105 mills, an increase of 6.2 per cent and the highest statewide tax rate since 1975.

In Pennington county, net property taxes increased $17,056 or .35 per cent. Assessed values decreased $5,386,876 or 7.18 per cent and the average mill rate rose from 91.36 to 102.29 mills or 11.97 per cent.

According to Don Paterick, executive director of the association, "The principal culprit behind this high mill rate is depressed property values. In 20 counties total assessed values dropped by over ten per cent. Jackson County alone had an alarming 23 per cent drop in its taxable property value and a 23 per cent increase in its mill rate. With property tax bills rising faster than property values, the rate of taxation is forced higher."

According to MTA data, based on information gathered by the Department of Revenue, total property taxes levied in the state increased to over $3 billion, a 7.3 per cent increase over last year. Property tax credits paid by the state increased 10 per cent to $715 million, leaving taxpayers with a $2.4 billion property tax bill, 6.4 per cent more than in 1985. This is before the subtraction of the state paid property tax refund which should amount to about $176 million. This six per cent increase comes on top of a 62 per cent increase experienced from 1981 to 1985.

The 1986 data shows that assessed property values increased only one per cent. These values are property market values after application of legislatively determined classification ratios, which vary by type of property. Most of the counties with large decreases in assessed values are concentrated in the southwest and northwest counties of the state. All these figures are county averages; there can be substantial variation within counties.

According to Paterick, "This is a

Northwest regional library will not be hosting movies for children this year, but KKAQ radio station is planning an event for children. Kmart will be sponsoring Hot Wheels races, and the Jaycees will be sponsoring jail bail for the Memorial heart fund.

Cash prizes will be awarded for costumes. A $50 cash prize will be awarded for first prize and $35, $25 and $15 for second, third and fourth places respectively. The judging will be held at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. to allow merchants with more than one shift of employees access to the judges.

USDA To Reopen Its Conservation Reserve Signup

United States department of agriculture will be holding another sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve program (CRP) from August 4-15. The CRP takes highly erodible cropland out of production and requires it to be seeded down to grass or trees for 10 years.

Landowners who have eligible land must submit a bid at the ASCS office during August 4-15. Land that is accepted this sign-up period must be seeded to grass or trees in 1987.

Land enrolled in CRP cannot be harvested or grazed during the 10-year contract.

USDA plans to hold more sign-ups for CRP in 1988, 1989 and 1990. The goal is to take 40 to 45 million acres of erodible cropland out of production.

For more information, stop by the ASCS or soil conservation offices on highway 59 south, Thief River Falls.

Local Citizens To Be 'Jailed' In Heart Fund Event

Several leading citizens of the Thief River Falls area will be arrested Thursday and handed over to custody of the American Heart association (AHA) at a mock jail at 210 LaBree av. N. in Thief River Falls. As part of the heart association's "Jail Bail for Heart" event, the prisoners will be held behind bars until they hand over bail money.

"The money prisoners raise during their terms will support the AHA research, professional and public education, and community service programs. The "Jail Bail for Heart" event is being put on as part of the annual summerfest celebration by the Thief River Falls Jaycees, with the assistance of other community organizations, and will run from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Peggy Mehrkens, event director, said it should fit right in with the atmosphere of "Crazy Days", another summerfest event that also takes place on Thursday and which involves retail businesses in Thief River Falls having sidewalk sales and employees dressing in crazy costumes.

Mehrkens added that although the event is designed to be fun for everyone, the purpose is very serious.

Library To Show Films On Saturday

Library movies to be show on Saturday include "Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein," "Aquarium," and "Helen Keller and Her Teacher." The films will be shown 2 p.m. August 2 at the Northwest Regional library in Thief River Falls.

CAPT. SIGVARTT DAHL of Bergen, Norway, and his wife are pictured during their visit to the Arne Samuelson home in Thief River Falls last week. Capt. Dahl, a commercial shipping captain, was held along with his 14-member crew in Tripoli, Libya, for two months in 1984 as captives of the Khadafy government. One of Capt. Dahl's crew was killed by the Libyans who first said the seaman jumped from a car and later said he fell from a hatch in the cargo hold of the ship. Dahl's mother was a cousin of Arne Samuelson. Although Capt. Dahl has made a number of visits to the United States, this was his first trip inland in this country.

Capt. Dahl Tells of Libyan Captivity . . .

Norwegian Sea Captain Visits Arne Samuelson

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Capt. Sigvartt Dahl of Bergen, Norway, has two years left until he can retire from duty at sea, but for a time two years ago he had cause to wonder if he would live to see that day arrive. For more than two months he, his ship (the Germa Lionel) and 14 member crew were virtual prisoners in the Libyan port of Tripoli.

Capt. Dahl and his wife were visitors in Thief River Falls last week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Samuelson. Capt. Dahl's mother was Arne's cousin and his visit to the United States also included stops with Arne's sisters, Maalfrid Fredrickson in Gladstone, MI, and Solveig Westberg in Minneapolis.

In the fluent English which Capt. Dahl uses most often in foreign trade he explained during a Times interview that he has been a seaman for 40 years and a captain for the past 19 years. He has been employed by a company owned by Alf Mohn, hauling primarily dry cargo along the Norwegian coast. He helped supervise building of the 260 foot vessel which has a dead weight of 5,000 tons in Singapore, quipping that the size of the boat would make it only "a lifeboat for a super tanker."

In 1984 there was fighting at the Libyan embassy in London and an English policeman was killed, Capt. Dahl said. There was a break in diplomatic relations between the two countries. The "Germa Lionel" was in Scotland at the time and received orders to go to London and load a cargo of general materials for Libya.

"We left May 2 from London for the trip to Libya, a journey which takes some nine days," he explained. "During the voyage we listened to the radio and we knew that on May 7 and 8 there had been an attack on Moammar Khadafy. When we came into port at Tripoli, Libya, we had thought of laying a few days at anchor, but the pilot said we were to bring the ship right in to the dock. We tied up about 7 p.m. and as was the usual custom, we had one seaman on watch during the night."

About 3 or 4 a.m. three Libyan policemen came aboard and accused ship personnel of sending Morse code signals. Capt. Dahl denied sending any such signals and about half an hour later other officials came on board and sealed the radio — a common practice in most ports. About [illegible] a.m. the chief customs officer came for Capt. Dahl and brought him ashore to the customs house for questioning.

There were many revolutionary guards around the shore area, Capt. Dahl said, and other crew members had been brought ashore for questioning. All were kept separate so they could not communicate with one another. It was later learned that six of the crewmen had been brought ashore. Interrogation lasted about two hours with the constant accusation that the ship had sent signals.

"We were the only ship in port where such an investigation took place," Capt. Dahl said. "I think it was because we had come to Libya from England and they must have suspected that we were trying to bring someone or something into that country."

One of the crew members taken ashore, referred to by Capt. Dahl as an AB (Able Bodied Seaman), highest ranking crew member below officer status, was tortured and beaten during the interrogation. Capt. Dahl was brought into the room of the customs house where the man was being held, and he complained in Norwegian about being tortured. Capt. Dahl said one of the guards then forcibly pushed a pistol into his [illegible] and ordered him to speak in English.

LHS Class Of 1936 Share Memories At 50 Year Reunion

by David Hill
Times Reporter

"Remember when..." frequently marked the beginning of many conversations at the 50 year reunion of the Lincoln high school class of '36 last weekend. It cued its listeners to bring out and dust off memories carefully tucked away and preserved for half a century.

Curiosity and the desire to rekindle those memories drew people to Thief River Falls from all over the country. Fifty-seven of the 104 members in the class made the journey. They came not only from area states, but California, Florida, Colorado, Georgia, Virginia, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Wisconsin and Illinois. Some have written to each other or kept in touch on a regular basis, but others lost touch with classmates and haven't seen some of them for many years. It was for all of them an opportunity to come together and share the memories of a common experience 50 years ago.

In remembering old memories the class of '36 visited many places in Thief River Falls after an informal social gathering last Friday night. On Saturday they were given a guided tour of the city hosted by Randall Noper, which began at Lincoln high school. The tour of the city concluded at Pennington county Pioneer village. Refreshments were served in the basement of the church and each class member was given a commemorative plate of Pennington county.

Weekend activities also included those activities scheduled in Thief River Falls, like the 85th annual county fair, and arts and crafts exhibits in Floyd B. Olson park.

Sunday afternoon class members gathered at the Elks club for a social hour, pictures, and then a banquet. Robert Bredeson, committee chairman, introduced Stanley Mortenson from St. Petersburg, FL, who was the master of ceremonies. Special guests included former teachers Blanche Larson and Ruth Legvold of Thief River Falls, and Dr. Kyle Montague from St. Peter, MN, who spoke to the group reminiscing about his teaching experiences at Lincoln high school, his first teaching job, shortly after the depression. He recalled that one morning the temperatures dipped to 50 degrees below. He asked the class if they remembered the day when the ducks rained in Thief River Falls.

Victor Jung, former class president from LeMirada, CA, spoke to the group briefly. Classmates then introduced themselves and their guests.

Diane Sadd - Gary Cleveland Exchange Vows In Coon Rapids

Diane Lynn Sadd of Coon Rapids and Gary Allen Cleveland of Shoreview exchanged wedding vows June 28 at Olive Branch Lutheran church in Coon Rapids. Rev. John Imig officiated at the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony, with approximately 100 guests present. Parents of the couple are Helen Sadd and Patricia Cleveland, both of Coon Rapids. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Grindeland of Thief River Falls are the groom's grandparents.

As Steve Simon played the traditional wedding march, the bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Donald Sielski. She wore a white lace, floor-length gown with high collar and sweetheart neckline. Her white, beaded hat matched the beaded bodice of the gown. She carried a bridal fan covered with blue roses.

Peggy Koep of Blaine, a friend of the couple, was maid of honor. She wore an off-the-shoulder, floor-length gown of pale blue with pearl accessories, and carried a bridal fan with blue roses similar to that of the bride.

Dan Cleveland of Ham Lake served as his brother's best man. Ushers were the groom's cousin, Shawn Armstrong from Thief River Falls, and nephew of the bride, Shawn West from Princeton. All gentlemen of the wedding party wore silver grey Dynasty tuxedos with boutonnieres of white carnations with light blue.

Honored guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Grindeland of Thief River Falls, grandparents of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the guests was held at the Bel Rae ballroom. Highlight of the serving table was the three-tiered, marble wedding cake frosted with white icing and decorated with blue roses, forget-me-nots and wedding bells. Cutting and serving the cake were Jackie Hetivie and Jodie Lenfenzik, with Vicki Pearson pouring coffee. Jennifer Cleveland was in charge of the gifts.

Out of town guests were from Rockford, Carmon, Thief River Falls and Phoenix, AZ.

The bride and groom are at home in Shoreview following their wedding trip to Duluth, Thief River Falls, Carmon and the Black Hills. The bride was employed at Cat Pumps in Blaine and the groom at United Scientific in Little Canada. They are both graduates of Coon Rapids senior high school.

Legion Auxiliary Convention Held In Bloomington

Sixty-eighth department convention of the American Legion auxiliary was held July 10 through 12 at the Radisson South in Bloomington. Main order of business was the wrap-up of the year's programs and election of officers for the coming year.

Installed Saturday morning were Marion Head, Sherburn, department president; Leona Rapacz, Argyle, first vice president; and Opal Stokes, Monticello, second vice president. Joyce Erickson of Albert Lea was elected candidate for northwestern division national vice president for 1987-88.

On the convention floor, Leona Rapacz, co-chairman of brain sciences ad hoc study committee, presented findings of studies and a resolution standing behind the Legion in all deliberations and undertakings, including the brain sciences project.

Past department president's project was the purchase of a new school bus for Legionville, the only camp of its kind in the world, where school patrol members are trained. Members gave $11,679 toward the cost, and the bus was displayed for viewing with the past president receiving a charter ride.

The Cabbage Patch doll program raised $17,500 with adoption donations reaching $25 per doll. Some of the dolls were donated to the Children and Youth program. Enough money was raised to provide round trip fare to Minneapolis and back and lodging and care for heart surgery for four children and their chaperones. University doctors and the hospital provide services through an agreement with the Heart Research professorship.

Minnesota auxiliary reached its membership goal April 23 and an all-time high May 23 with 2,841 members, including 676 juniors and 374 new granddaughters. Eleven new junior units and two senior units were formed this year.

Membership dues are needed. If local units do not have a goal, consider signing up a daughter, granddaughter or sister. Units could consider paying dues of an elderly member. Also, there are 20 gold-rimmed "Missing Children" plates left at the department office for anyone interested. This program aids the missing children program. The mold will be broken in Cincinnati.

Argyle won the "Balloon Award" for the most oustanding junior unit in the department. The ninth district band of Legionnaries, only band of its kind in the world, won first place in the drum and bugle contest at Bloomington, and will represent the state in August to welcome the new national president of the American Legion auxiliary, Evelyn Starr of Cambridge, Minnesota, in Cincinnati, OH.

Former Mayor Of TRF Celebrates 90th Birthday

July 22 Agnes Israelson celebrated her 90th birthday. Thursday she received birthday greetings from the White House. The missive had the Presidential seal centered at the top (by the way, the President uses a plain 22 cent stamp just like the rest of us), and read:

"Congratulations and many happy returns of the day. May you have a joyous celebration and all the best in the year to come. Our best wishes are with you for a very Happy Birthday. God bless you." It was signed "Nancy Reagan" and "Ronald Reagan," respectively.

Agnes served as Thief River Falls' mayor from 1953 to 1955. During that time she became known as a strong DFL supporter, so I asked her how she felt about birthday wishes from a Republican president. With a twinkle in her eye and a chuckle, she said, "You know, that crossed my mind too, but I decided what should it matter? We all work for the same things. I would really like to know how they found out about my birthday though."

During her years as mayor, Agnes was also a housewife and mother. She raised six children of her own, plus others she took into her family. "But I enjoyed those years the most. I loved the work."

She said she didn't encounter any particular opposition in being a woman mayor at that time. She felt she "got along just great" with the council members and they were "real gentlemen. We just worked together real well." She said a real "hot subject" during her career was the controversy over whether or not the city should bring in cable television. At the time, television itself was just coming into area homes, and she felt the cable would eventually become a big business asset for the city. Council members disagreed. "And see how it turned out," she quipped, with another twinkle.

As far as seeing a woman serve as mayor again, Agnes would be all for it, but only "if she has a good mind and understands what it's all about." But she feels the country just isn't ready for a woman president. "We proved that in the last election."

She confided, "I just can't believe I'm 90. I just don't feel that old. And I don't look that old either." (She's right — she doesn't look 90 — or act it either!) She lives alone in her own home with the help of a Pine to Prairie home health care aide, who comes in a couple of times a week to help with personal care and housekeeping. Her advice to anyone seeking a long and happy life is to "Keep the mind active and keep working." Although she has enjoyed all of her 90 years immensely, she said, "I never enjoyed anything as much as being mayor."

So if you see Agnes around town, be sure to wish her a belated happy birthday. And I bet she'll be glad to show you the card from the White House too, Republican president or not.

Money For Child Care Available To Some At AVTI

Child care assistance monies for single parents enrolled in any of Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute's (AVTI) offerings of six hours or more will be available through the 1986-87 school year. If eligible, parents may receive up to $1 per hour for child care expenses.

"Many students have found this aid has relieved them from the burden of funding day care," said Jim Fremstad, financial aid counselor at Thief River Falls AVTI.

To be eligible for child care assistance, a student must meet specific income guidelines and demonstrate a need for child care assistance. A single parent is someone who is unmarried or legally separated or divorced from a spouse, and who has a minor child or children in either sole or joint custody.

"This child care assistance is made available for a second year by the Minnesota State board of vocational technical education (SBVTE) to encourage the enrollment and retention of single parents in the AVTI system. There has been a tremendous demand for child care assistance in the Thief River Falls area, and we have decided to offer it again this year," said Pat Gosz, grants program coordinator for the SBVTE.

Child care assistance to single parents is offered at all Minnesota's AVTIs. For more information about Thief River Falls AVTI's single parent child care assistance, contact Jim Fremstad at (218) 681-5424.

Bird Feeder Plans Available Through Area Bookmobile

Watching birds can be fun. It is even more fun when bird feeders, nest boxes or birdbaths are hand made. Younger bookmobile patrons recently had fun making simple bird feeders out of pinecones, peanut butter and birdseed during the first scheduled bookmobile summer '86 children's program.

The older age groups fashioned a variety of creative bird feeder mobiles using small tree branches along with pinecones. For this project hundreds of pinecones were gathered by Lois Raymond, a dedicated Northwest Regional library volunteer worker.

Information sheets explaining what birds need, food suggestions and directions for making the simple pinecone feeders will be available on the bookmobile throughout August for everyone wanting a copy.

Young patrons will also be helping to decorate the bookmobile ceiling with stars this summer. This is take-home project. The stars are colored or decorated at home and brought back to the bookmobile. The stars will compliment the patriotic reading club theme, "Staring Miss Liberty."

There is still time to enter the Big Jar guessing contest. Johnson's Hardware store in Thief River Falls has loaned building nails to fill the jar this summer. The closest guess to the correct number contained in the jar wins a prize.

The next bookmobile program will feature a mime act by Alan Lavalier. The publice is invited.

Computer Course For Teachers Scheduled Here

IBM's Teach the Teachers" computer literacy program has hit the highways this summer with an expanded and enhanced agenda that will involve nearly 400 teachers statewide, 48 computers and 8,000 miles. The next scheduled stop is Thief River Falls, which runs through this week.

The IBM-sponsored road show, now in its fifth year, is designed to give Minnesota's teachers practical and theoretical knowledge of computers in order to bring their expertise to the classroom.

"It's really a great program. A lot of driving, but nontheless a great experience for teachers and a big benefit for their students," said program coordinator Duane Mau, a science teacher and department chairman at Kellogg junior high school in Rochester.

IBM provides the program's instructors and curriculum, software and classroom materials and computers. Instructors are all area educators who have received intensive training in programming techniques, spreadsheets, word processing and data base management.

The "Teach the Teachers" program is accepted as graduate level credits from Bemidji, Mankato, St. Cloud and Winona state universities.

Area Property Taxes Now At 10-Year Record

profoundly important trend that we have been tracking. Most of the valuation declines are in the rural counties and can be attributed to falling farmland values. This began in 1981 and is continuing at a disturbing rate. It reflects depressed farm conditions but also it means that other property in these areas — homes and businesses — just shoulder a larger share of the tax burden."

After local government budgets are determined, county auditors are informed how much is to be raised from the property tax. A mill rate is calculated which applies a rate of taxation to the assessed value of every taxable parcel of real estate. Each mill translates into $1 of taxes for each $1,000 of assessed value.

Mill rates tend to be lower in southern and western Minnesota, while the higher rate counties include some of the metro area counties and the north and central area of the state. The highest countywide average mill rate for 1986 was Koochiching's 163 mills. Renville county was the lowest at 64 mills.

Changes in net property taxes ranged from a 15.4 per cent average increase in Olmstead county to a 13.2 per cent drop in Watonwan county. "The counties with the largest tax increases in 1986 tend to lie along the Mississippi river — in the north central lake area, around the Twin Cities and south along the Wisconsin border," Paterick continued.

The northeastern tip of the state also experienced large increases. Counties with decreases of three per cent or more in taxes tend to be in the west. In many cases, they are the same counties experiencing rapidly falling property values. This occurs because an increase in the state school aid formula is triggered by lower assessed values which in turn results in lower school tax levies in these counties."

"The range in mill rates and the different patterns in taxes and property values within the state point to the disparity among property tax burdens in the state," Paterick said.

"Property values are growing at a healthy rate in the metro area, but taxes there are rising from their already high levels. Meanwhile in other areas of the state, property values are dropping precipitously, raising the pressure on mill rates. There is also a wide disparity among types of property. Some types of property pay, on average, six times as much tax as does other property in relation to property values. Nothing short of a wholesale reform of the system will set things straight."

Where does your property tax dollar go? Public elementary and secondary schools receive 45 cents on the dollar. Counties get a little over a quarter, cities 16 cents, townships two cents and special districts and other levies account for the remaining 11 cents. The county levy increased by a large nine per cent or $71 million; school district levies increased by 5.6 per cent or $73 million; and city taxes increased 7.6 per cent or $36 million. Tax increment levies used to fund municipal development projects receive only three per cent of statewide property tax collections, but this amount increased by over 30 per cent since 1985.

Only seven counties actually reduced total taxes levied by more than one per cent: Jackson, Pipestone, Renville, Rock, Sibley, Watonwan and Yellow Medicine. Nineteen counties remained relatively stable — within two per cent of their 1985 total levies. According to Paterick, "Increased mill rates do not tell the entire story, however. The agricultural credit paid to farmers increased by 18 per cent which helped to soften the blow caused by increased mill rates in the farm areas. The homestead credit increased by almost nine per cent. When all of the property tax credits are deducted there were 41 counties where net property taxes decreased by more than one per cent. Most of these 41 counties are in the farm areas."

The captain was taken back to the ship and told to make ready for discharging the cargo. Work began on that effort and in the evening the AB was brought back aboard under guard, unable to walk on a damaged foot or leg. Crew members were kept under guard during the unloading of cargo and the AB was later taken ashore again.

"The next day the chief customs officer came to me and said that the AB had jumped out of a car, been severely injured and taken to the hospital," Capt. Dahl said. "I asked to go and see him but they said that would be quite impossible. Several days later the same man came on board and said that the AB had died. Another AB had been taken ashore on the third day we were in port and kept in jail for 15 days before being brought back to the ship."

Although the cargo was unloaded by the fourth or fifth day, the ship was kept in port and was constantly being searched by military people and even divers who checked beneath the water line. From May 11 until June 7 the crew was not allowed to leave the superstructure of the ship and two guards with guns were in attendance each day as the Norwegian flag was raised and lowered.

Later another official from Libya told the captain that the AB who had been killed was fatally injured when he jumped down from a hatch into the hold of the ship. The captain said he had been told before that the man had jumped from a car and wanted to know why the story was changed. "Of course, they would not tell me," he said.

In the last days of May a new investigation was started and the captain and 10 crew members were taken to the customs house. The captain was held for eight hours at that time but was aware that the new people in charge were a little more tolerant of better treatment for the crew. On June 7 the crew was again alowed to go on deck but not allowed off the ship.

Because Norway has no consul nor embassy in Libya, there was little that could be done to appeal with their captors for assistance from their government. On June 15 a representative of the government was allowed to come on board the ship, having arrived in Tripoli the day before. On June 21 Capt. Dahl was allowed to go on shore and was able to contact his wife by telephone — the first opportunity he had to speak with her since the ship was impounded May 11.

On June 24 the Libyan government released the body of the AB who had been killed, sending it by air to Norway. An autopsy in Norway revealed three skull fractures, a broken shoulder and badly bruised legs, Capt. Dahl said.

It was July 17 when the ship was finally allowed to leave the port of Tripoli and it sailed for Italy to load cargo for Norway, stopping at Spain before returning to Norway to discharge investigators who came aboard in Italy.

While Capt. Dahl plans to continue in his chosen field until retirement, he said there are four or five other members of his crew "who won't continue to be seamen" as a result of their ordeal in Libya. He said that he and the remainder of the crew have been advised by the government of Norway that they are not to return to the Libyan port again.

Capt. Dahl said he fully intends to comply with that advice.

Next Sign-Up For CRP August 4-15 At County ASCS

C.R.P. are letters becoming very familiar to many Marshall county farmers. They stand for the Conservation reserve program. Unlike the previous soil bank plan, the goal of the conservation reserve program is to establish a conservation cover on fields where soil erosion is a severe problem. So far, county landowners have volunteered over 60,000 acres of land, of which almost 32,000 acres have been accepted.

Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng has announced that the next sign-up period will be August 4-15 at ASCS county offices. During this period, bids will be received for entering fields starting the 10-year contract in 1987.

To qualify for the program, a field must have been cropped two or more years out of the 1981-85 cropping years. The field also must have a potential for severe wind erosion damage. The third hurdle is the dollar figure. ASCS will accept those fields where the rental figure set by the landowner is in the acceptable range of figures.

Fields accepted into the program must be seeded down or planted to trees to provide erosion protection and wildlife habitat for the 10-year reserve contract period.

Charter Bus Trip To Duluth

Leaving the Floyd Olson Park in Thief River Falls Monday morning, July 7, the Overland Travel Club sponsored Carpenter Charter on a bus trip to the Duluth area with a group of 27 passengers. They stopped at Grand Rapids where they had noon dinner. They spent the afternoon in Duluth where they found it difficult to find parking room, due to the all-class reunions and a great number of extra people in the city. They were fortunate to find motel accomodations in Superior. Before taking a cruise on the Fiesta Queen through the Duluth-Superior harbor, they visited the Railroad Depot museum which they found interesting. It was a beautiful, sunny afternoon with no wind — a perfect day for a cruise.

The next morning the group enjoyed a guided tour through the Gleensheen Condon Mansion with 15 people going through every ten minutes. The Condon is open for tourists Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, leaving Wednesdays and Saturdays for vacuuming and other work. It is highly recommended as worth seeing. From there the group enjoyed a scenic drive up the North Shore, stopping at Two Harbors for their noon dinner. The Gooseberry Falls and the Split Rock Lighthouse were of special interest. Later they went through the S-S-Metro Whale Boat, shaped like a whale, on shore and no longer used on the water.

Wednesday morning they left Duluth for Chisholm where they toured the Iron World museum and then drove on to Calumet. They were all brought to the bottom of an open mine in a school bus with an interesting guide. The mine had been opened in 1911 and had not been in operation after 1978, but the shovels, old buildings and so on were still there to make it a fascinating ending for the trip.

They returned to Thief River Falls that evening, reporting and interesting three days of travel. NORTHWEST SENIOR FEDERATION met Thursday in the CNC chapel of Northwest Medical center. David Brown (left), Northwest regional president of the Minnesota Senior federation, and Archie Wilcox (right) president of the Minnesota Senior federation, discussed several important issues with the delegate assembly and made plans for the upcoming regional convention in Thief River Falls on September 25.

Senior Federation President Meets With TRF Assembly

Archie Wilcox, president of the Minnesota Senior federation, and Dave Brown, Northwest regional president of the Minnesota Senior federation, addressed the delegate assembly of the Northwest senior federation Thursday in the CNC chapel of Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Legislative concerns, health, utilities and transportation issues and nuclear waste are all discussed at the meeting. Wilcox said one of the most important issues facing senior citizens today are health related. The primary concern of the group that met Sunday was the quality of care in nursing homes and long term care facilities. Because of reports of inadequate supervision of patients that need constant care, the federation is proposing that the state conduct unannounced inspections to improve the quality of care, he said. Another important issue is health insurance.

Brown said that the upcoming regional meeting of the senior federation in Thief River Falls was also discussed. At that meeting on September 25, new officers will be elected, resolutions made, annual reports heard, and delegates for the state convention selected. Wilcox, Brown and Barbara Ecklund, Minnesota staff director, will be guest speakers at the convention to be held at the American Legion in Thief River Falls. The state convention will be held October 27 and 28.

Gov. Perpich To Discuss ATV Safety Issues At Polaris

Governor Perpich was on hand last year to drive the first Polaris ATV off the production line. He will return to Polaris to speak about the $2 million Polaris plant expansion. He is also expected to discuss several key issues about a possible ban of ATV's, safety issues and other key issues with guests and spectators from 9 to 10 a.m. July 31 at Polaris Industries, highway 89 south, Roseau.

Among the issues to be discussed is ATV safety. The Consumer products safety commission (CPSC) is currently hinting at a possible ban of ATVs, probably three-wheel models only.

Polaris feels that the CPSC may be taking too narrow a view on the ATV issue, focusing only on three-wheel vehicles and not on the safety of four-wheel models and the use of ATVs as vital, low-cost utility vehicles for agriculture and other industries. The company has asked for support from both Governor Perpich and the state of Minnesota to get this message to Washington: a ban on ATVs will harm more than a handful of Japanese companies.

Polaris Industries began manufacturing ATVs in March of 1985. Due to the success of its ATVs and continued strength in the snowmobile industry, Polaris is expanding its facility in Roseau to allow for continued increased employment and better automation systems to help it become more competitive with Japanese manufacturers.

With the success of its 1985 ATV launch, Polaris was able to shift its plant production schedule from a part-time, five-month run to a year-round production schedule, giving its workers year-round employment. The company also was able to boost its work force by 10 per cent during the first year of ATV production.

The Heritage Days committee extends a welcome to anyone in the region who would like to be a part of the celebration. Those interested in taking part in the antique powershow may contact Bob Glass, chairman, or the East Grand Forks chamber of commerce. Energy Expo At Crookston Aimed At Dollar Saving

"A glimpse at the future of the energy industry and a chance to find out how to save energy dollars today" is the theme of Energy Expo '86, according to organizers of the Crookston event. Billed as the energy trade show for northwestern Minnesota, Expo '86 is scheduled for September 19-21 at the city arena in Crookston.

The Energy Expo will have up to 100 displays including the latest in wind energy technology, do-it-yourself log homes, window quilts, steel siding, and 1987 model automobiles. Booth space is still available for displayers by contacting Crookston Jobs, Inc. at (218) 281-7979.

Organizers hope to attract 5,000 to 10,000 people to Energy Expo, believing the combination of free admission, a successful 1985 show and the energy projects in the Crookston area will bring out quite a number of people.

In addition to the Energy Expo, Crookston will also be hosting the Great Plains wind energy conference September 17-19. Internationally renowned speakers at the conference should benefit Expo attendance."

Soo Line Second Quarter Earnings At $2.6 Million

Sale of Soo Line's headquarters building in June enabled the corporation to have a profitable second quarter and first half, Dennis M. Cavanaugh, chairman and chief executive officer announced but over the year the company has also reduced its workforce by over 1,500.

The corporation reported net income of $2.6 million or 28 cents per share in the second quarter of 1986 on total operating revenues of $164.8 million. This year's results compare to a loss of $4.2 million or 55 cents per share in the second quarter of 1985 on total revenues of $169.8 million.

Sale of the corporation's headquarters building in June produced a pre-tax gain of $9.7 million which was recorded in the second quarter. Additional gains will be realized from the $21 million sale and taken into account over the lifespan occupancy leases.

Operating income from transportation operations was $2.5 million in the second quarter compared to a loss of $1.2 million in the same quarter of 1985, and operating income was $6 million for the year-to-date. Transportation revenues of $154 million were down eight per cent from the second quarter of 1985. Total operating expenses were down 10 per cent in this year's quarter over 1985 reflecting significant labor downsizing, reduced fuel prices and lower volume levels.

Total carload and intermodal revenue units handled in the second quarter were four per cent lower than in the second quarter of 1985. Carloads handled during the quarter declined 10 per cent from the prior year with lower volumes in most major commodity areas except farm products where carloads increased. Revenue units of intermodal were up more than 16 per cent in the quarter over the prior year reflecting a growing volume of containers being handled in international service.

For the first half of 1986, Soo had net income of $570,000 or six cents per share compared to a loss of $2 million or 26 cents per share during the first six months of 1985. Revenue units handled for the six month period were 4.5 per cent lower than those handled by the Soo and Milwaukee railroads in 1985.

Interest expense for the quarter at $10.2 million was down 11 per cent from 1985 while interest income of $197,000 declined 72 per cent for the same period due to fewer investments and lower average yields.

Cavanaugh indicated the company is continuing its aggressive cost reduction program and further consolidation of operations. During the quarter Soo began work to restructure freight car maintenance facilities and combine Twin City freight operations at St. Paul. Over the past year, the Company has reduced the size of its workforce by more than 1,500 employees.

Farmers Cut Back On Plantings Of Most Major Crops

Farmers have scaled back plantings of most major crops this year. Fewer acres went for corn and soybeans in Minnesota and the U.S., while the nation's wheat producers cut back all wheat acres, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service.

In Minnesota, producers cut back on every crop except spring and durum wheat, oats, sugarbeets and hay.

A total of 6.4 million acres was planted to corn in Minnesota, 12 per cent less than a year ago and 200,000 less than was reported in this year's March intentions report. Minnesota plantings were the fourth highest in the nation. U.S. producers put in 76.6 million acres of corn, down eight per cent from 1985.

Soybean plantings totaled five million acres for Minnesota, two per cent below a year ago, 50,000 acres less than intended in the March survey, and fourth highest nationally. U.S. soybean acres totaled 61.8 million, down two per cent.

Minnesota boosted its spring wheat acreage by 16 per cent to 2.85 million acres; durum remained stable at 35,000 acres; winter wheat acres were down by about half of last year's level; collectively, Minnesota's all wheat plantings came to 3.07 million acres, up eight per cent. The nation's wheat crop of 72 million acres is down five per cent.

Minnesota sugarbeet growers will again lead the nation with plantings at a record-high 315,000 acres, up 13 per cent from a year ago.

All sunflower plantings fell to the lowest level since 1970 — 155,000 acres. Dry bean acres dropped four per cent to 65,000; flax plantings were at record low levels with 35,000 acres planted. Rye dropped 31 per cent to 100,000 acres. Oat acreage, however, gained three per cent to 1.6 million acres.

Hay for harvest is up eight per cent to 2.95 million, the largest since 1979 and 1980. 1.95 million acres are alfalfa.

Minnesota's winter wheat crop should total 5.2 million bushels with average yields of 40 bushels. The U.S. crop is slated to be the lowest in eight years at 1.55 billion bushels.

Diabetes Camp Now Underway At Arvilla, ND

For the next two weeks, Turtle River state park near Arvilla, ND, will be a little bit busier than usual. Camp Sioux, a summer camp for insulin-dependent children between the ages of eight and 14, will be in session. The two one-week sessions are scheduled for July 27-August 2 and August 3-9.

"The American Diabetes association in North Dakota has operated this Camp since it was founded by Dr Edgar Haunz," stated Dean Midboe, MD, co-chairman of the camp committee. "His concern for children with diabetes was the driving force to the founding of Camp Sioux. His idea to take a few children to Turtle River state park for a fun time has now grown into a fun and learning experience for 90 children from all across North Dakota, western Minnesota and South Dakota."

Both sessions are staffed with a camp director, camp physician and additional medical personnel along with competent youth counselors, many of whom have diabetes.

Camp Sioux is a free camp operated by the American diabetes association in North Dakota and sponsored by the Grand Froks Kiwanis club. Support for the program is provided through public and private donations and a recently named Camp Sioux memorial fund in honor of Dr Edgar Haunz.

For more information on Camp Sioux or other programs on diabetes, contact the American Diabetes Association, P.O. Box 234, Grand Forks, ND 58206-0234 or call (701) 746-4227.

Following opinion was written by Lloyd Omdahl, political columnist for the Fargo (ND) Forum—

In the November general election, the voters of North Dakota will be asked to amend the state Constitution to authorize the Legislature to establish a state-run lottery.

Passage of such an amendment will be only the first hurdle facing lottery supporters.

It will be necessary for lottery backers to get the Legislature to pass a law setting up the system. Regardless of what the Legislature enacts, this legislation will very likely be referred for another vote of the people before any lottery will be established.

According to published poll results, those supporting the lottery seem to have public opinion on their side, with some 60 per cent favoring the lottery.

The current wave of state-run lotteries began in 1964 when new Hampshire decided to experiment. At present, 22 states have entered the field, with varying degrees of success.

Those touting the lottery in North Dakota tend to use the national average of $20 per capita for computing the amount of money a lottery will produce for the state general fund.

They claim that a lottery will produce around $12 million — a mere pittance against an annual budget of $1 billion.

But North Dakota is not likely to achieve the national average. A few states, such as Maryland with $46 per capita, tend to bring up the average for such states as Vermont where the lottery yields a mere $2 per capita.

(Applying Vermont's figures to North Dakota would mean an annual sum of $1.2 million — or one-tenth of what is being predicted.)

For bettors, state-run lotteries are about the worst gambling avenue available.

Because supporters of state lotteries in most states have been forced to give money for certain public expenditures (or the general fund in North Dakota) around 50 per cent of the gross receipts must be diverted from prize money.

This means less for the gamblers. On top of the 50 per cent comes another 10 per cent for administrative costs. That leaves prize money of 40 per cent.

The gambling games that are now being conducted in North Dakota, such as blackjack, pull tabs and bingo, all offer more payback to gamblers than would be the case in a state-run lottery.

Even though the payback would be smaller, a state-run lottery would still tend to attract gambling money from the present games because the prizes, though fewer, would be larger.

Why play bingo for $1,000 when you can play the state lottery for $100,000?

While some would argue against this reasoning, it is founded on the frame of mind with which many gamblers function. They are trying to strike it ruch — take that long shot in spite of the odds.

Since gambling is all pie in the sky for them anyway, they might as well try for the biggest pie in the sky.

Historically, lotteries have not always had an immoral tinge. At one time or another, all thirteen American colonies sponsored lotteries to help pay for public improvement. A number of the ivy league schools, then church-related, were partially funded by lotteries.

As lotteries continued into the 1800's, their less desirable features became more pronounced, especially the exploitation of those least able to afford the activity.

Slowly states began to outlaw their use. Only in recent years have they been resurrected.

Perhaps the most disturbing feature of the present proposal is the idea of substituting lottery income extracted from many people unable to afford it for legitimate taxes fairly imposed and equitably collected.

North Dakota's tax burden is not so onerous that we cannot raise another $12 or $14 million in an equitable manner. (North Dakota's tax effort is only 83 per cent of the national average.)

Whether you're for the lottery or against it, the policy-making procedure in North Dakota will provide ample opportunity for participation.

First, a vote on the constitutional amendment. Second, input in the legislative process. Third, a vote on a referred measure.

Whatever the outcome, it should be a true reflection of what North Dakota as a state wants.

Over-Estimating Time Saving

An editorial in the Sacramento Bee advocates increasing the 55 miles per hour speed limit imposed nationally as a maximum rate. The editorialist notes that the limit of 55 on thinly traveled rural highways is a low "that can add hours to an obedient motorist's travel over the great distances between western cities."

The writer also notes that it is a rare driver who doesn't exceed the speed limit at some point and that resentment over the 55-mile limit has been growing.

Because 65 miles per hour is faster than 55 miles per hour, it is true that an increased speed limit for those who observe it would reduce travel time. But we believe that the length of time to be saved by increasing the limit by 10 miles per hour is over-estimated. And for most people the time saved would be measured in minutes per trip rather than hours.

As a for instance, take a trip from Thief River Falls to Minneapolis, listed as 292 miles on the state highway map. At a constant 55 miles per hour, the trip would take five hours and 18 minutes; at 65 miles per hour, it would take four hours and 30 minutes — a projected 48-minute time saving. Some may consider that saving to be substantial.

But there are variables such as slowing for towns, stopping for food, fuel or rest areas, waiting to pass slower traffic, actual destination in the Twin Cities and others that could well reduce that margin. Not to mention the fudge factor....

The fudge factor is the number of miles per hour beyond the speed limit that a driver feels he or she can drive without risking a speeding ticket. Some use a factor of 58 or 59 mph, others use 61 or 62. Few drivers actually adhere to the 55 mph limit on a 300-mile trip; it is human nature to push that limit at least a little. The fudge factor probably cuts the time saving difference in half. It also increases the injury hazard for accidents.

In visiting with a state patrolman a year or so ago, we were surprised when he said he would rather see the 55 mph speed limit than stiffer laws against driving while under the influence. He was speaking from a number of years of experience in patrolling this rural area and assisting at a number of accident scenes. And he was assuming that all drivers, drunks included, would drive at speeds under 55 miles per hour. Damage and injury increases in a much greater proportional ratio as speed increases.

We wouldn't object to 65 mph speed limits on interstates and four-lane highways where two-way traffic is divided. Accidents are rare in rural areas where this type of roadway exists, and what accidents do occur are reated to factors other than speed.

But we think the 55 mph limit on roads with two-way traffic is reasonable and that time saving from an increased limit would be minimal at best.

Unfortunately life's problems do not all confront us when we are 16 years old and know everything.

The real problem of leisure time, one retired person explains, is to figure out how to keep others from using yours.

Grandma still has a love affair with the spinning wheel, but instead of in the parlor it is now in a Las Vegas casino.

In a store which catered to large women, a husband had been waiting a long time for his wife to select a dress. Emerging from the dressing room with yet another garment, she said to the clerk, "It's lovely, but just a trifle too large."

"For heaven's sake, Florence," the husband blurted, "buy the dress and we'll pick up a quart of ice cream on the way home!"

The first grader was telling the class about the family's summer vacation. He was especially impressed with a trip to the Black Hills of South Dakota where he had seen "the four stoned presidents."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

The city took the east side of the downtown park (Floyd B. Olson park) for cars. That block of land was given by Lars Backe, Olaf Winger and a Mr. McFarland to be used for a park, forever. I have written Mayor Carlson and the city council apprising them of the gift of that land as a park, in perpetuity.

I saw several areas designated as city parking lots. There are other land areas more suitable for a swimming pool, which the city should have had, long ago.

The Class of 1936, celebrating its 50th reunion July 17-20, is grateful to the committee, and I, as one of those, express thanks to them for making the reunion memorable.

Yours truly,
Vivian Ward Johnson

Hunting Seasons Announced By Minnesota DNR Officials

An earlier deadline for deer hunters is one of the few changes from last year in the 1986 hunting regulations announced by the Department of Natural Resources.

Hunters applying for antlerless deer permits this year must have their application for the drawing in to the Department of Natural Resources by September 8, a week earlier than the usual September 15 deadline.

Another change in the deer hunting rules will allow any member of a hunting party to take an antlerless deer; however, no more antlerless deer may be taken than there are antlerless permits in the hunting party.

DNR Wildlife Chief Roger Holmes said the change results from a court decision that differed from the Department's interpretation of the party hunting law.

As for deer hunting prospects this coming season, Holmes said the herd in agricultural areas of the state remains at a high level but is down in the forested area.

In the agricultural area last year, a record total of over 85,000 deer were taken. The bonus licenses issued last year for the first time were instrumental in achieving harvest objectives.

"Even with a 5 per cent decline, the breeding population in the agricultural area is still above the goal", Holmes said. "Despite an 8 per cent reduction in the number of permits to be issued in the agricultural area this fall, population goals should be achieved because fewer fawns were born this spring in the northwest and central portions of the agricultural area.

"In the forested area, however, the deer population has generally declined from last year. The number of permits issued in recent years has been liberal enough so population goals weren't reached. Therefore, the number of permits for the forested portion of the state is being reduced by 42 per cent."

Holmes had little good news for ruffed grouse hunters in north central and northeastern Minnesota where the populations of the state's currently most popular upland-game bird remain at a cyclic low. In contrast, grouse numbers in northwestern Minnesota and in the southeast have increased significantly from last year.

Sharp-tailed grouse populations have changed little from last year, but he noted that sharptail numbers have declined steadily since 1980 due to changes in habitat resulting from an aging grass-brushland ecosystem.

As for pheasants, any change in the numbers of these birds won't be known until a survey is taken next month. Holmes said winter losses did not appear to be unusually high and nesting conditions were generally good except for areas where heavy spring rains may have drowned out some nests.

Most notable change in the trapping regulations is that all trappers, regardless of age, who wish to legally take fisher, otter or pine marten must apply for possession tags by October 31. Application for tags must be made on an official form available at county auditors offices and at northern Minnesota license agents and DNR offices. Other significant changes in trapping regulations include a two-week earlier opener for otter and a two-week earlier closure for bobcat. Taking of bobcat and otter will be allowed only in that portion of Minnesota north of U.S. Highway 10.

For those who like to hunt showshoe hare, Holmes said the population is very low. The bag of snowshoe hares in 1984 was the lowest on record at 11,000 and only 12,000 were taken last year. Based on the number seen during the spring drumming count grouse survey, hares may be at the very bottom of a population cycle.

Waterfowl bag limits and season dates will not be set until the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced the federal framework.

Holmes said copies of the big game hunting regulations, including information on applying for antlerless deer permits, will be available about August 1. The small game and trapping regulations will be printed up and distributed to county auditors and license agents three weeks later, but copies of the waterfowl regulations will not be available until mid-September.

Minnesota RIM Programs Benefit Wildlife Projects

Minnesota's new Reinvest In Minnesota (RIM) program, passed at the recent legislative session and signed into law by Governor Rudy Perpich, "will help protect state lands from erosion, improve water quality, benefit fish and wildlife, and provide additional income to hard-pressed farmers," according to Commissioner of Natural Resources Joseph Alexander.

Alexander was the keynote speaker at the first annual Minnesota Sportsmen's Convention held at the St Cloud Holiday Inn July 19.

The Convention was hosted by the Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance, an association of sportsmen's groups created to support the RIM program.

Alexander said the innovative legislation "goes to the heart of the problem of creating habitat on marginal agricultural lands without requiring a financial sacrifice from farmers.

"Farmers today find it necessary to cultivate marginal lands having light soils, steep slopes and a history of poor crop production because of the need to squeeze out every dollar of income," he said.

But through the sale of $16 million in state bonds authorized under the RIM bill, said Alexander, the Commissioner of Agriculture will be provided $10 million to acquire easements from farmers that will take marginal, highly erodible cropland out of production.

Lands must be seeded down to provide vegetation that will protect the land from erosion and provide food and cover for wildlife. Farmers will receive $75 per acre for seeding and for planting trees.

The bill also provides $2.5 million to the Commissioner of Natural Resources for improvements to fish and wildlife habitat and for land acquisition. Another $1 million is earmarked for a program to recycle aspen forests in northern Minnesota to improve both the forest economy and habitat for deer, grouse and other woodland wildlife.

The bill appropriates $2.5 million for the acquisition of "critical natural habitat", but such expenditures must be matched by private contributions or funds from the state's nongame wildlife management account.

Said Alexander, "The RIM program, together with the new federal Conservation Reserve program is the most significant effort to protect the fertility of our land and quality of our waters, reduce crop surpluses, provide fish and wildlife habitat and assist financially troubled farmers since the Soil Bank program of two decades ago."

Sale of bonds is expected to take place sometime this year. Officials of the Department of Agriculture's Soil and Water Conservation Board estimate that up to 500 farmers will participate in the RIM program and that between 25,000 and 50,000 acres will be placed under easements.

DNR's Fish and Wildlife Division has a list of planned projects to be accomplished under the RIM program. Among them are included the following:

1. Improvement of sharp-tailed grouse habitat in northwestern Minnesota through cutting of over-mature trees, and possible prescribed burning in selected areas. Loss of habitat has resulted in a sharp decline in sharp-tail numbers in recent years;
2. Development of a fish and wildlife improvement project in southern Carlton County that will include better access to the Blackhoof River for trout fishermen, hunting opportunities through acquisition of private lands, and management of the habitat to increase wildlife populations;
3. Creation of a sharp-tailed demonstration area in northeastern Minnesota to illustrate the benefits resulting from vegetation management in an area that once supported substantial sharp-tail populations;
4. Construction of a dam at Swan Lake, Nicollet County, so the 9,000-acre lake can be manged to its full potential for production of waterfowl and furbearers;
5. Renovation of an environmental education area at the Carlos Avery Wildlife Area north of the Twin Cities to demonstrate wildlife management principles and techniques;
6. Construction of rough fish control facilities at four sites in Douglas and Pope counties;
7. Installation of an aeration system on Maple Lake, Polk County, and Pine Lake, Clearwater County, to maintain a gamefish population that would otherwise be lost through winterkill;
8. Construction of fishing piers at Birch Lake, Cass County; Cass Lake, Beltrami County and Long Lake, Otter Tail County;
9. Control of beach erosion on Lake Winnibigoshish that will provide protection of walleye spawning sites;
10. Acquisition of stream easements on Hay and Bangs Creek in Pine County to provide access for trout anglers and to allow control of beaver which are damming the streams, destroying trout habitat;
11. Installation of rock rip and rap and other measures to control stream bank erosion and improve trout habitat on several streams in southeastern Minnesota.

RIM wildlife projects:

Deer Habitat Improvement

Although the statewide deer population is at a record high, many northern forest areas continue to suffer from deer habitat deterioration and low numbers. Particularly hard hit are the areas where aspen has not been harvested because of inaccessibility to loggers and distance to local markets. Deer prefer young aspen stands where food is abundant. RIM funding will allow nearly a doubling of the current forest wildlife management program. Techniques include the regeneration of aspen through logging, shearing and burning of over-mature stands. Temporary logging roads may be constructed to make cutting economically feasible by loggers. The improvements will be made in cooperation with the DNR Division of Forestry.

Sharp-tail Habitat Improvement

Sharp-tailed grouse numbers have dropped precipitously over the last decade in northwestern Minnesota because of loss of habitat. Sharp-tails require a mix of open grassland and young willow mixed with aspen. Conversion of some "brushland" to agriculture and the overmaturing of remaining areas have left the birds without suitable habitat.

Shearing and possibly prescribed burning of over-mature willow and aspen will provide tremendous benefits of sharp-tails, as well as preferred browse for moose.

Many people are surprised to learn that north-central Minnesota once had substantial populations of sharp-tailed grouse. Utilizing the same habitat development techniques described for northwestern Minnesota, this project will create a demonstration area to illustrate the benefits to sharp-tails and other wildlife species dependent on the mix of open areas, young willow and aspen once common to the state.

Blackhoof River Area

Acquire and develop 1,800 acres of private land and about 2,000 acres of public land as a premier fish and wildlife project in southern Carlton County west of State Highway 23. The Blackhoof River is a good brown, brook and rainbow trout stream with excellent improvement potential. About four miles of stream would be opened up to public use. The riparian lands support a mixture of conifers, aspen and old fields well used by deer, ruffed grouse, woodcock, bear, furbearers and many other species. Development potential is excellent for additional wildlife production and public use would be high.

Moose Habitat Improvement

Northeastern Minnesota has good potential for improving moose populations. Although some people associate moose with mature forests, in fact, the moose benefits more from the existence of young willow and aspen. Unlike deer, however, moose prefer relatively large blocks of this early forest stage. Improvement techniques are similar to those used for deer habitat management.

Fond du Lac State Forest

This exceptional area for ruffed grouse and deer hunting has suffered from poor access for recreation and management. By providing pullouts along narrow ditchbank roads, a portion of the Fond du Lac State Forest can provide many more opportunities for public hunting, trapping and other recreation in St. Louis County.

West Union WMA Impoundment

Waterfowl enthusiasts are often unaware of the potential for improving wetland habitat in north-central Minnesota. The creation of impoundments on wildlife management areas will boost local production of wetland wildlife. Wetlands remain one of the most critically needed wildlife habitats in Minnesota, including the West Union WMA in Todd county.

Dog Lake Development

Significant benefits for local and migrating waterfowl have occurred when wild rice areas are properly managed. High water levels caused by outlet restrictions can practically eliminate wild rice production with disastrous effects on wildlife use, particularly waterfowl, in areas like Dog Lake in Crow Wing County.

Swan Lake Outlet Improvement

Obtain necessary engineering for outlet structure and ditch and construct a variable crest dam at the Swan Lake outlet in Nicollet County so the water levels in this 9,000 acre prairie lake can be properly managed. This will be a first step toward the comprehensive management plan being submitted to the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources.

Habitat Demonstration Area

One of the largest, and most heavily used wildlife management areas in the state, Carlos Avery, provides exceptional opportunities for demonstrating wildlife management techniques. A variety of the more common types of habitat projects are planned for educational programs, and benefits to wildlife.

Following is a list of proposed RIM Fisheries projects:

Development of Propagation Sites

A. Blackhoof River Acquisition — Carlton County project to obtain approximate 38 sections of land for wildlife management and trout fishing development. The project includes nine miles of prime trout water on the Blackhoof River which supports natural spawning populations of brook trout, rainbow trout and brown trout. The river section represents a highly valuable spawning grounds for lake-run trout through the Namadji Rivers.

B. Lake Winnibigoshish Shoreline Erosion Control — Cass County - The highly erodible shoreline of Lake Winnibigoshish is silting in many of the traditional rocky walleye spawning sites in shoal (shallow lake edge) areas. This project will add rock to the shoreline to prevent erosion and preserve the spawning sites.

C. Waterville Hatchery Improvements — LeSueur County Hatchery remodeling will help bring the hatchery up to capacity and provide for an efficient operation. The hatchery is presently used for the rearing of muskies, hybrid muskies, walleye, smallmouth bass, largemouth bass and catfish. Project will repair pond water lines, refurbish pond bottoms. A large capacity water heater and automatic generator will be added.

D. Fish Spawning Area — Carl's Lake, Scott County for northern pike.

Stream Habitat Development

A. Hays and Bangs Creek trout stream easements — Pine County. These streams are prime trout waters in the Pine County area. The streams have been degraded by beaver and are in need of improvements. This area of the state has tremendous potential for providing additional native brook trout populations which are present in portions of these streams. Easements are needed for access and management. Total length of potential easements is approximately 10 miles and easement areas are adjacent to St. Croix State Park. The stream system has potential for high utilization.

B. Cottonwood River Stream Improvement — Cottonwood County. Plans for snag removal have been made for the Cottonwood River in conjunction with the SCS County. The removal has tremendous potential to improve fish habitat for smallmouth bass. Money will be used to work in conjunction with the county to improve habitat for fish. The project will serve as a pilot for stream improvement on other streams in southwestern Minnesota. Additional funding will be provided by the county and by SCS.

C. East Burns Valley Creek — Winona County. Trout habitat improvement on 710 feet of stream bank at 15 sites using large rock riprap is planned including constructing of 10 crib shelters, bank sloping, removal of trees, in stream corridor for 5,400 feet and seeding and mulching. Fencing will be erected to protect project areas upon completion. Project objective is expansion of the adult population of brown trout in East Burns Valley Creek located two miles south of Winona.

D. Willow Creek — Fillmore County. Management proposed is to stabilize eroded banks, riprap, and install in stream structures to provide cover for trout. Project will upgrade pools to provide better habitat and stream bed will be scoured to expose more gravel, rubble and boulder. Project should improve standing crop of trout 300 per cent in a half mile section of stream and will increase recreational use.

E. Southfork Crooked Creek — Houston County. Trout stream improvement, is planned to stabilize eroded banks with riprap, install in stream structures and providing hiding cover for trout. Project will upgrade pools to provide better habitat and stream bed will be scoured to expose more gravel, rubble and boulder. Project should improve standing crop of trout 300 per cent in a half mile section of stream and will increase recreational use.

F. West Beaver Creek — Houston County. Trout stream improvement is planned to stabilize eroded banks with riprap and install in stream structures, improve pools and scour stream bed to expose more gravel, rubble and boulder. Project should increase the standing crop of trout 300 per cent in a two-mile section of stream and should increase recreational use.

Rough Fish Traps, Barriers

A. Albert's Lake Rough Fish Barrier, on the county line between Douglas and Pope counties, will prevent rough fish migration into Albert's, Solberg's, Hubrid and Davidson lakes located in Douglas County. The Albert's project will deny entrance of carp to approximately 775 acres where they could cause damage to habitat for both fish and waterfowl. This project, by special agreement, is also being cost shared by Douglas County and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

B. Stowe Lake Rough Fish Barrier on Hoplin Creek inlet in Douglas County, will prevent carp from migrating from Stowe Lake into marshes upstream and into Little Chippewa Lake, an important gamefish lake containing 576 acres of gamefish waters and 500 acres of wetlands. This is also part of a project cost shared by DNR and SCS.

C. Lake Ida (Christopherson site) Rough Fish Barrier on a marsh adjacent to Lake Ida in Douglas County, will prevent carp from spawning in the marsh and provide a rearing area for northern pike for Lake Ida. This will add protection of Lake Ida (4,000 acres) as there are presently an outlet barrier and another marsh barrier in place.

D. Eagle Point Lake — Washington County. This is a cost share project with Washington County to restrict movement of rough fish in the watershed.

E. Medicine Lake, in Plymouth Township, Hennepin County — Rough fish barrier to be constructed as part of watershed plan.

F. Lake Sarah, Hennepin County — Rough fish barrier.

Aeration Installations

A. Maple Lake in Polk county is potentially a lake that can furnish much higher fishing activity with a healthier fish population supported by pump and baffle aeration system.

B. Pine Lake in Clearwater County will benefit with a pump and baffle aeration system to maintain a permanent gamefish population.

Access Development

A. Birch Lake in Cass County is 141 acres in size and located in Hackensack. A fishing pier on this lake and the nine others in this program will provide greater utilization of the fisheries resource to fishermen who otherwise receive minimum benefit from the resource. These are the disadvantaged who have difficulty in travelling, handling a boat or with low income.

B. Cass Lake, Beltrami County

C. Long Lake, Ottertail County, 1400 acres, located in Vergas

D. Mississippi River, Aitkin County in Palisade, Mississippi River, Morrison County in Little Falls

E. Rice Lake, Crow Wing County in Brainerd

F. Serpent Lake, Crow Wing County in Crosby

G. Lake Mille Lacs, Mille Lacs County in Isle

H. Lake Marion, Dakota County

TRF Decision Delayed

Thief River Falls sports fans were a little puzzled Thursday when it was learned that School District 564 officials decided not to name a new full-time athletic director to succeed Russ Smith, who retired at the end of the 1985-86 school year.

After receiving a sizeable list of applicants and having a screening committee recommend a list of six finalists for the job, it was presumed a new athletic director, with additional duties as activities director for the entire school district, would be named this summer.

Instead, Lincoln High School assistant principal Mike Novak was appointed to the position on a temporary basis while officials look at the position and its possibilities of additional duties more fully.

It wasn't a well-received decision with most outside observers. It should be a simple enough project to advertise for the position, screen the applicants and select a new head of the athletic department, they figured. And it probably would have gone that smooth if school officials would have been content to simply name a new athletic director. But to expand the position, they figured additional time was needed to study the possibilities, and perhaps look at some other job qualifications that weren't necessarily presented in the original job listing.

Names of the six finalists, although never officially made public, quickly spread through the community. Knowing the names and having worked with most of them at some time or another during the past 16 years, it's difficult not to side with them and figure they all could have handled the duties, whatever they may be. Even after two of the finalists dropped out of consideration at their own request, the four remaining candidates looked like solid choices. It was disappointing one of them wasn't given the opportunity to fill the position.

However, the decision to delay the appointment was made in good faith by school officials, whose job it is to make those kind of decisions even if it isn't a popular one with the public. Those officials obviously wanted more time to study the situation, and hopefully temporary setback will result in long-term gains for the Thief River Falls program.

Delays a year ago in naming a new Lincoln football coach to succeed Russ Henegar, who left for Moorhead, probably had a lot to do with the Prowlers' 0-8 record. There simply wasn't enough time for new head coach Jeff Mumm to have things in order. The results were disastrous record-wise.

However, Mumm has been well-received in the community, and nearly everyone feels his enthusiasm and hard work will go a long way in turning the Prowlers' sagging football program around.

Hopefully the wait in the athletic director's position will eventurally produce that same kind of individual for the job. The concern, however, is what the year's absence without a permanent athletic director will do to the overall program.

Section 8 Wins Game

A recent Section 7 vs. Section 8 match-up of 1986 high school hockey seniors at Baudette produced a 6-2 win for Section 8, a good turnout of fans and a successful first-time venture, according to game organizer Doug Nosan.

But there were some problems. A number of defections of players initially scheduled to play in the game produced some last-minute scrambling for bodies, Nosan told the Baudette Region. Those missing included five players and the coach from Hibbing and individuals from Grand Rapids, Aurora-Hoyt Lakes, Hallock and Crookston.

Nosan filled the ranks of the two teams by picking up two additional players from Bemidji, three from Fort Frances and three college level players — Wayne Chapman of Baudette, Curt Bitter of Williams and St. Cloud State and Terry Shold of International Falls and the University of Minnesota-Duluth.

Section 7 squad didn't have a goalie, either, so John Gillie of Lake of the Woods tended the nets for the visiting team, kicking out 44 shots. Bemidji's Steve Peters was in goal for the Section 8 squad, coming up with 26 saves.

With admission at just $2, the game wasn't intended to be a money-maker, said Nosan. "Hopefully we'll meet expenses," he said. "The purpose of the whole thing was to show off some of the players to scouts who were, hopefully, in the stands. I think we did that well. I really didn't want to supplement the teams with college boys, but we were forced to do that at the last minute."

There were no Thief River Falls players involved in the event.

A.D. Job Is Filled — Temporarily

School District 564 officials Thursday announced that a search for a successor to Lincoln High School athletic director Russ Smith has been called off, and said that Mike Novak, currently Lincoln assistant principal, has been named as a short-term appointment to fill the position vacated when Smith resigned at the end of the 1985-86 school year.

It was a surprise development in light of the fact that a screening committee, after looking over a field of 26-27 candidates, had submitted the names of six finalists for the expanded position of athletic director-activities director for grades K-12 in Thief River Falls.

However, the final list of six names was reduced to four when two candidates withdrew from consideration, and Dr. Leo Ruberto, Thief River Falls Superintendent of Schools, said the remaining four finalists did not match up with the job description.

Final decision in the matter was made by a group that included Ruberto, Assistant Superintendent Frank Hamerlinck, school board members Hank Hallstrom and Paul Bortnem and Lincoln principal Terry Soine, who served as chairman of the nine-member screening committee. Ruberto said the group accepted the unanimous recommendation of the screening committee in the matter.

"It's a very important position for us," said Ruberto. "We're interested in building the athletic program." And to do it successfully, he said, the head of the athletic program would have to be someone with a "consensus of support" from the school administration — something that was missing at this time, he noted.

"We wanted to be sure," added Soine. "We went the 30 years previous with two athletic directors. We had many, many good applicants, but we're not certain right now just what the job description is. We want to make sure the person fits the job."

Novak, who was not among those seeking the position, will handle the role of athletic director for the 1986-87 school year. A task force expected to be named this fall to look into the needs and adopt goals and direction for School District 564 will address the job description of athletic director-activities director, said Soine. At that time a new personnel search is expected to begin.

Ruberto said officials had originally hoped to use the task force recommendations before filling the position held by Smith, who had indicated earlier he planned to retire this winter. Smith, though, stepped down early, figuring in part, to make it easier for a replacement to be found during a summer search.

Although things didn't fall into place exactly the way they had hoped they would, Ruberto and Soine said they were comfortable with their decision to postpone the naming of a permanent athletic director-activities director even though community athletic program backers voiced disappointment with the developments.

"We can afford the time right now to look the situation over," said Soine. Most of the 1986-87 athletic schedules have been finalized. Smith, it was announced earlier, would remain connected with the athletic department in the role of consultant, and Soine hinted that role may be expanded now. In addition, much of the work in the athletic director's office goes through secretary Marion Cork, who retains her duties.

Novak has served School District 564 through a number of positions for five years, and has, along with Soine, helped Smith operate a variety of athletic events in the evenings to help alleviate some of the after-school work load expected from the office of athletic director.

TG Sporting Goods Squad Eliminated

Thief River Falls TG Sporting Goods 14-15-year-olds won an impressive opening round 11-3 game against Coon Rapids, but then fell to Apple Valley 13-12 and lost to Moorhead 9-3 to bow out of the 1986 Babe Ruth state baseball tournament in Moorhead.

TG Sporting Goods' 1-2 record in the 11-team, double-elimination tournament left the Thief River Falls squad with a 22-8 mark for the year.

Both Thief River Falls 14-15-year-old teams, TG Sporting Goods and Pepsi-Cola Bottling, will compete their 1986 seasons by participating in the East Grand Forks Invitational Saturday and Sunday.

TG 11, Coon Rapids 3

Dean DuChamp pitched a two-hitter, striking out 11 batters, and Sean Myhrer was 5-for-5 to lead a 14-hit attack as TG Sporting Goods beat Coon Rapids in surprising 11-3 fashion Friday.

Myhrer doubled and drove in four runs, while Jeremy Dicken was 3-for-3 and DuChamp had two doubles.

Thief River Falls was charged with just one error; Coon Rapids had two.

Apple Valley 13, TG 12

TG Sporting Goods carried an 11-6 lead into the bottom of the sixth inning, but lost a heartbreaking 13-12 Saturday decision to Apple Valley in Round 2.

Sean Myhrer was 4-for-5 as Thief River Falls collected 13 hits. Brian Anderson was 2-for-3, Dean DuChamp 2-for-4 with a home run and Dave Bjerke scored three times.

Jared Erickson was the losing pitcher, striking out four and walking two, but giving up 18 Apple Valley hits. Thief River Falls again had just one error, and Apple Valley had 2.

Moorhead 9, TG 3

Still down from the tough loss to Apple Valley, TG Sporting Goods bowed out of the tournament with a 9-3 loss to the host Moorhead All-Stars.

TG Sporting Goods still hit the ball, though, collecting 10 base hits to hike the team batting average for the tournament to .318 (37-for-119). Hunter Boldt was 2-for-3 and Rob Coltom 2-for-4, with Sean Myhrer finishing the three-day tournament with 10 hits in 14 at-bats (.714 average).

Moorhead had eight hits and just one error. TG Sporting Goods had two errors. Losing pitcher was Jason Kempert, who threw three innings, giving up five runs while striking out two and walking two. Dean DuChamp finished in relief.

TRF, Crookston Split Doubleheader Contest

Crookston and Thief River Falls 13-year-olds split a Babe Ruth Prep baseball doubleheader Thursday at the fairgrounds diamond as the teams resumed play following an all-star week break while a Lake Agassiz District all-star squad represented northwestern Minnesota at the 1986 state tournament in St. Paul.

Thief River Falls scored five times in the bottom of the sixth inning to snap a 4-4 tie and win the doubleheader opener 9-4. Dale Martell and Mike Swanson came off the bench to key the sixth inning outburst, helping produce a 10-6 Thief River Falls base hit edge in the game.

Tim Benson was the winning pitcher, striking out seven batters. Crookston was charged with three errors; Thief River Falls had two.

Second game wasn't as well-played as the opener as Crookston won a 19-13 scoring marathon. The winners collected 10 hits and drew a bundle of walks off seven different Thief River Falls pitchers, scoring five times in the top of the first inning, then after watching Thief River Falls tie it 5-5 in the bottom of the frame, came up with another five-run inning in the second.

Swanson was 5-for-5 at the plate to lead Thief River Falls' nine-hit attack. Danny Hoffard was the starting and losing pitcher. Thief River Falls had five of the game's eight errors.

Thief River Falls, 8-14-1 for the year, closes out its 1986 schedule this week, visiting Crookston today (Monday), driving to East Grand Forks Wednesday and hosting Roseau Friday in 12-noon doubleheaders. Thief River Falls will also play host to the season-ending Lake Agassiz District playoffs Saturday and Sunday.

TRF Ends Year With Tournament Split . . .

Moorhead Wins Legion Title

Tournament favorite Moorhead Blues out-scored surprising Detroit Lakes 8-6 Sunday in the finals of the 1986 Class AA Ninth District American Legion baseball playoffs in Crookston.

Moorhead went 3-0 through the six-team, double-elimination event. The Blues came in with a 28-13 record and the No. 1 seed from the South Half. Detroit Lakes, meanwhile, overcame a 9-0 first round loss to Thief River Falls Thursday to win three games in the loser's bracket, including a 7-3 rematch victory over Thief River Falls, to reach the finals. The Lakers were just 10-12 and the No. 3 seed from the South Half coming into the tournament.

Thief River Falls, after blanking Detroit Lakes in the tournament opener Thursday, lost to the Moorhead Blues 13-1 Friday morning, came back to eliminate Fergus Falls 9-7 Friday afternoon, but lost to Detroit Lakes Saturday afternoon to finish the year at 14-20.

The tournament featured several surprises, including the runner-up finish by lightly-regarded Detroit Lakes. Equally surprising was the fact that East Grand Forks, the No. 1 seed in the North Half, and Fergus Falls, the No. 2 seed in the South Half, both mentioned as title contenders, were the first teams to be eliminated. East Grand Forks, after a first round bye, lost to Crookston 11-0 and fell to Detroit Lakes 10-9. The defending Ninth District champions finished 19-17. Fergus Falls lost to Crookston 7-3 and fell to Thief River Falls 9-7 to finish 16-13.

Crookston after beating Fergus Falls and East Grand Forks, lost to Moorhead 8-1 Saturday afternoon in the final match-up of unbeaten teams and was eliminated that night by Detroit Lakes 7-5 to finish the year 28-15.

"It was a goofy tournament," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Mark Lundin, looking at the surprising results. "We did all right. We could have gone farther, but we were up and down. Our pitching was fine, but we didn't key the hits when we needed them."

Thief River Falls also had trouble fielding enough players, with injuries, job commitments and the state Babe Ruth tournament being run at the same time in Moorhead all creating havoc with the Legion line-up. "We battled to get nine (players) every day," said Lundin, who along with Kerry Wollin stepped into the American Legion head coaching ranks near mid-season when Nick Drees stepped down.

Moorhead Blues will face the Class A winner in a 2-out-of-3 game series for a state tournament trip from the Ninth District later this week. The Class A tournament, an eight-team, double-elimination event in Karlstad, began Saturday and continues through Tuesday.

TRF 9, Detroit Lakes 0

Bill Dicken was 3-for-4 with two triples and a double to lead Thief River Falls to an opening round 9-0 win over Detroit Lakes Friday.

Dicken also drove in three runs and scored three times himself as Thief River Falls broke open a scoreless game with a four-run fourth inning, then tacked on two more runs in the sixth and three in the seventh in a strong performance.

Kevin Nelson was the winning pitcher, sharing the shutout with Corey Olson, who handled the final two frames. They combined on a four-hitter. Thief River Falls had seven hits. The game was error-free.

"It was a good game," said Lundin. "We played good defense, got good hitting and good pitching."

Moorhead 13, TRF 1

Moorhead Blues won a pair of extra-inning games from Thief River Falls during the regular season, including a 17-inning marathon, but was an easy 13-1 winner Friday morning.

Lundin was disappointed in the Thief River Falls effort. "It was poor," he said. "No enthusiasm at all."

Moorhead waited until the third inning to start scoring, then had two-run innings in the third, fourth and fifth, scored three times in the sixth and completed the rout with a four-run seventh. Thief River Falls scored only a seventh inning run.

Chris Nelson was the losing pitcher. Moorhead had a 13-4 base hit advantage and Thief River Falls had four of the game's seven errors.

TRF 9, Fergus Falls 7

Down 7-2, Thief River Falls rallied to beat Fergus Falls 9-7 Saturday afternoon to stay alive in the double-elimination event.

Fergus Falls scored three times in the top of the first, gave up a pair of runs in the bottom of the inning, then came up with a four-run second inning.

But Thief River Falls came back on the strength of a four-run fourth, then went ahead with a two-run fifth inning and added an insurance run in the sixth.

"It was a nice come-back," said Lundin. "Things fell together for us; we got some timely hitting and kept getting closer and closer."

Kory Joppru pitched well, said Lundin, for the win. He was also 3-for-4 at the plate as six of the nine Thief River Falls players collected base hits. John Azure was 2-for-3 and Chris Nelson, 2-for-4 for the winners, who had a 10-6 base hit edge to overcome six errors. Fergus Falls had one error.

Detroit Lakes 7, TRF 3

Detroit Lakes turned the tables on Thief River Falls with a 7-3 victory in a tournament rematch Saturday.

"We're disappointed we lost," acknowledged Lundin. "We could have easily won it. We left too many runners on base."

Detroit Lakes won it with a five-run second inning, adding two insurance runs in the sixth. Thief River Falls put runners on base, but picked up just single runs in the second, third and fourth inning.

Jason Lane was the losing pitcher, failing to get through the second inning. Kevin Nelson pitched two innings and Corey Olson handled the last four.

Joel Swanson and Kory Joppru were both 2-for-4 for Thief River Falls, with Swanson getting a long home run to lead off the second inning. The hits were even at eight-apiece. Thief River Falls had three errors; Detroit Lakes had two.

Aspen, also known as popple or poplar, is the most abundant tree species in Minnesota. It's abundance and economical price has allowed it to be used in place of expensive conifers in the paper-making process. For the same reasons the flake board industry utilizes aspen and is a substitute for plywood in the building industry.

In northwestern Minnesota poor markets and prices have all but shut down local aspen harvesting. Aspen has become over-mature and is gradually losing its quality.

Aspen was once considered undesirable. It has since been discovered that aspen leaves and male flower buds constitute the most important year-long food resource for the ruffed grouse. Deer and moose commonly browse on the leaves, twigs, bark, sprouts and associated vegetation. In addition the fall foliage provides an esthetically pleasing panorama of golden beauty and appealing aroma.

Aspen regenerates naturally through a process called coppice growth (root suckering). When the main stem is cut or the canopy opened, sunlight reaches the forest floor. This stimulates the roots, sending new shoots to replace the parent tree. As many as 6,000 aspen shoots arise from the root system of one mature aspen. The tree is recycled.

Fall, winter and spring cutting produce the most vigorous sucker crop during the growing season. Food reserves are stored in the roots during the growing season. By delaying harvesting until the dormant season, the most vigorous suckering can be obtained.

Attempts to restore (recycle) over-mature aspen on highly productive soils has been initiated. During the past winter 180 acres of over-mature aspen on highly productive sites were hand felled. Local loggers were contracted to perform the work. Hopefully, markets will develop, making the harvesting of aspen a profit and not an expense. Until then, recycling is a substitute for harvesting to insure future aspen fiber and wildlife habitat.

Minnesota state park stamp winner for 1987, Thomas Parr Williamson, has announced plans to release his newest four prints at Norm's Camp on Oak Island during his August 9 and 10 show.

The show is being held in conjunction with the Northwest Angle's annual Blueberry Fest.

Williamson captured the state park stamp contest with his painting of the piping plover. The small shorebird is endangered and is found exclusively on Pine and Curry Island in Lake of the Woods and in the Duluth Harbor.

Williamson is a nature artist residing east of Baudette on the Rainy River. He and his wife, Mae, have two sons, Thomas and Sean.

Williamson specializes in capturing scenes from this area through his painting. The majority of his paintings are taken directly from this north country and he seldom paints a scene which he hasn't visited personally.

"You have to have a feel for the subject before you can paint it," he said.

His pallette knife technique is the subject of many workshops held throughout the year at various locations in Minnesota and North Dakota. Visitors to his upcoming show at Norm's Camp will be able to watch Williamson perform his magic with the knife and paint.

Three of Williamson's new prints feature his renowned nature work including deer, ducks and geese. The fourth, an arrangement of yellow ladyslippers, represents his new line of wildflowers commonly found in the area.

Hours for Williamson's show will be 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday, August 9, and 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, August 10.

Card of Thanks

Our heartfelt thanks go to all who helped us bear the loss of our loving wife, mother, grandmother and great-grandmother.

Thank you to all for your expressions of sympathy, the cards and donations, flowers, volunteer help and food brought to our homes.

A thank you to the honorary and active pallbearers, Pastor Dick Ewing and his wife, Mary Ann, for the comforting words and music provided at the funeral. Also to Mrs. Richard Ness for playing the organ, the circle of Zion Lutheran church for serving lunch after the service and the Quanrud Funeral Home.

A special word of thanks to doctors and nurses at the Northwest Medical Center for taking such good care of our loved one during her illness.

We wish to acknowledge the hospice workers who provided our family with comfort, friendship and emotional support during and after the bereavement time.

Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg to appropriate $500 for gravel to the Pennington County Fair Board to use for the State Holstein Show hosted by the Red River Holstein Assoc. and then used where the Fair Board needs. Motion carried with Commissioner Swanson abstaining.

Letter was read from Future Fuel, Inc. concerning the tipping fee increase.

At 10:30 a.m. the Board proceeded to open bids for the resurfacing of SA No 29 as advertised and called for. The following bids were read aloud:

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to approve bid of Thorson, Inc., Bemidji for $15,846.00 as the lowest and best bid. Motion unanimously carried.

Minutes of the meeting held on June 24 were read and approved as read.

Engineer Olson discussed the rubberized crossing on the Burlington Northern Rail road crossings. BN has changed the figures and the cost would amount to approximately $500 per ft. instead of $250 per ft. The Board decided that if BN would come down to $300 per ft. we would go along with the rubberizing of the railroad crossings, otherwise no.

Engineer Olson also discussed patching private blacktop driveways and billing the owners. The Board denied this request.

Engineer Olson discussed the thistles in the Aaseby's Trailer Court. Was advised by the Board to contact Clayton Mathson and Norman Boucher to take care of this weed problem.

Board was advised of the Solid Waste Legislative meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. on July 10 in Crookston.

Lowell Enerson was in to discuss Comprehensive County Water Plan proposed rules. He wanted the Board to be aware of this.

While Lowell was in attendance, Engineer Olson discussed the impoundment area presented by Charlie Anderson from the Red Lake Watershed to relieve drainage problems on JD No 13, 18 & 30. The approximate cost would be $4,000,000, to help 100 square miles. Total impoundment area would be six square miles. Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to authorize the Red Lake Watershed to pursue the cost distribution and areas of funding available targeting it to Project No 62. Motion carried.

Commissioner Grabanski did not attend the afternoon session.

The Veterans Officer Screening Committee met with the Board. A resolution passed by the American Legion and VFW Club was read by Chairman Fredrickson. Chairman Fredrickson stated that the Screening Committee recommends a full time Service Officer. Russ Christianson of the Screening Committee commented that the County's responsibility is to hire and set salary comparable to other county officials having the same responsibility. Roger Bengston went over some benefits that would save the Welfare Department money. Mayor Carlson asked the Board to fund the position full time. County Board decided to leave the resolution as it is on the record with the Veterans Service Officer position being part time working 28 hours per week.

Sheriff Richards spoke on the 911 System. He is going to start publicity on this as Thief River Falls is basically ready to go into operation.

Sheriff Richards asked the County Board if he could retain the position of Civil Defense Director after his term as Sheriff expires. The Board took this under advisement.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to transfer $67,900.00 from Revenue Sharing Fund to Road & Bridge Fund for motor grader. Motion unanimously carried.

Auditor Olson read the resolution passed by the City Council of Thief River Falls pertaining to patrolling the River and beach area. Board advised Auditor Olson to send a letter to the Council stating that since the accident this spring the Sheriff had appeared before the Board and advised them more time would be spent patrolling the river and this is currently being done. It was also brought to the attention of the Council that although lifeguards were on duty there is no way to identify them. Requested some type of identification be used by the lifeguards at all times while on duty.

Board requested Auditor Olson to inform the Future Fuel, Inc officials that all cans and scrap iron & metals must be cleaned in the yard by August 15, 1986.

COMMISSIONED as a chaplain in the United States Navy, Rev. David Girardin was administered his oath of office by Lt. R. A. Rochau in Minneapolis on Monday, July 14. His first assignment is to Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Three at Port Hueneme where he will serve for about a month prior to being deployed on Okinawa August 15."

Rev. Girardin Is Navy Chaplain

Rev. David Girardin, who pastored the Crookston and Thief River Falls Seventh-day Adventist churches for the past two years, left Thief River Falls on July 13 to be commissioned into active duty as a military chaplain. The commissioning service took place in Minneapolis July 14 with Lieutenant R A Rochau officiating. Chaplain Girardin's wife, Barbara, attended the service.

Serving in the armed forces is nothing new to Girardin. A native of Detroit, MI, he entered the military after graduating from Cody high school in Detroit. He served from October of 1969 to January of 1973 in the active duty army and then from May of 1973 to May of 1976 in the Coast Guard reserve, Detroit district. From March of 1970 to May of 1971 he trained in the military as a clinical specialist, attending school at Letterman general hospital in San Francisco, CA. His training as a clinical specialist in the army qualified him to take the examination to be licensed as a registered nurse.

From Letterman he was assigned to the Thoracic surgery unit at Walter Reed general hospital in Washington, D.C. He later worked as a nurse in the surgical intensive care unit from January of 1973 to August of 1974 at Harper hospital in Detroit.

While working at Harper, Girardin accepted an invitation to study as a physician's assistant. He served for four years as the chief thoracic physician's assistant at Harper Grace hospital, Detroit medical center.

In 1980 he began ministerial studies at Andrews university, Berrien Springs, MI, completing a B.A. in theology in 1982 and then entering the seminary. In 1983 he attended navy chaplain school in Newport, RI, and was commissioned into the navy theological student program. During this time he placed second in nominations for the Pluralism award, a state award given to a student, as selected by his peers, for his ability to be accepting of and to minister to faith groups other than his own without compromising his own beliefs.

In the spring of 1984, while still in graduate school, he accepted a call to Minnesota. Upon completing his seminary classwork in the fall of the same year he moved to Thief River Falls to take up his pastoral responsibilities. He was ordained into the gospel ministry in Thief River Falls on May 31 of this year.

While Rev. Girardin was pastoring in Minnesota he continued with his interest in military ministry. He continued to work through Fargo, ND, navy voluntary training unit (VTU), drilling temporary duty (TDY) with chapel activities at the Grand Forks air force base. There he became an active member of the reserve chaplain team, receiving two outstanding letters of evaluation from the air force base installation staff chaplains.

Prior to his departure, Girardin's local congregation presented a patriotic farewell program in his honor. Besides several vocal selections and readings, there was a musical slide program which featured some of the people and places that he was familiar with in Thief River Falls. After leaving Thief River Falls, Chapain Girardin and his wife spent a day visiting friends in southern Minnesota before travelling to his first assignment as battalion chaplain to Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Three in Port Hueneme. Girardin will spend about a month there before accompanying his battalion to Okinawa on August 15.

SPECIAL DISTRIBUTION DAY will be provided by the Seventh-day Adventist community services center on Sunday, August 10, from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., according to Mrs. Gene Howes, director. The center is normally open to the public on Monday mornings or on call in the event of an emergency. "We will have a large selection of clothing, including much appropriate clothing for fall, winter and back to school, on exhibit in the gymnasium of the school for anyone who has need for it," Mrs. Howes said. "Our center is always available to anyone in need, regardless of religious affiliation, and we do not consider our service to be welfare because we are only redistributing items which are donated to us by others. We are most pleased when clothing on our racks and shelves can be put to good use." She also said that center workers can show interested families how to use discarded garments in making quilts. Mrs. Howes is shown at right with Emma Paulson, a frequent volunteer worker at the center.

FOREBODING dark skies outline the power of lightning. This railroad telegraph pole next to the Land O'Lakes LP gas station, formerly Midland Co-op, was struck by lightning Wednesday. The force of the energy discharge split this pole and scattered pieces of it in all directions for 10 to 15 feet. The force also damaged three other poles and knocked one down.

Lightning Storm Wed. Splinters Telegraph Poles

Lightning is described as a discharge of atmospheric electricity resulting in a flash of light in the sky. It typically has an energy of around 300 kilowatt hours and an electromotive force around 100 mega volts compared to a typical household electrical outlet which is 110 volts. That amount of electrical discharge struck the Land O'Lakes LP gas station last Wednesday, and the United States Post Office in Thief River Falls.

Linda Reierson, who was working in the office of the Land O'Lakes LP gas station, said she has a whole new respect for the power of lightning. Lightning struck the gas station's two-way radio antenna and either grounded, forked off or was accompanied by a fork which struck a railroad telegraph pole nearby. The force of the energy shattered the pole, scattering pieces of it 10 to 15 feet away in all directions, and then the energy traveled down the lines shattering two more poles and knocking down a third. Luckily there was no apparent damage to the radio antenna or main office except for some burned out circuits.

Inside the main office Linda said she saw a flash, heard a loud explosion which shook the entire building and then the telephones started ringing and a ceiling light caught fire. She quickly turned off the circuit breaker and, realizing that the energy surge caused the phones to ring and were really burned out, she ran next door to call the fire department.

She said it was a terrible and helpless feeling because suddenly there was no way to immediately communicate for help. Normally on a rainy day someone will be working in the storage shed with propane where the lightning passed close by. But on this particular day everyone was gone – and wouldn't it figure, so was the boss.

Lightning struck the Thief River Falls United States post office Wednesday also. It struck the air-conditioning unit on top of the building, causing the motor to burn out. But it continued to work, sucking smoke from the burned out motor into the basement working area. Employees evacuated the building and shut down the air conditioner.

Officials at the post office said there isn't much to see because there wasn't much damage, but employees were slightly uncomfortable for the rest of the day in the basement which was built as a fallout shelter and has little ventilation.

Anyone wishing to have an entry or a float for this event should contact Avis or Melroy at 782-2866. Lineup starts at 10 a.m. at the community building.

After the parade is over, the ladies of the community will be serving a ham dinner at the shelter, complete with salads, beans and beverage. At 1 p.m. the musical variety show begins at which local talents take turns entertaining from the stage until late into the evening.

The flea market will be open all day for everyone to wander through and browse. For information on setting up booths, call Judy at 782-2825 and she will plan a space. Marvin Windows Purchases Plant In Baker, Oregon

Marvin Windows, third largest manufacturer of wood windows and doors in the nation, has taken a step toward further growth with the acquision of a wood molding plant in Baker OR.

The plant, named Marvin Wood Products, will operate as a separate company, providing Marvin's Warroad and Ripley, TN, plants, and any other interested manufacturer, with cut stock for their operations.

Marvin Windows pursued this particular facility primarily for its availability, proximity to raw material and the company's ever-growing need for a steady supply of cut stock. Its line of made-to-order windows and standard-sized doors is expanding rapidly, at last count standing at over 5,000 standard shapes and sizes.

The new company restarted in June, a plant idle since last September, when Brookswood Inc. halted operations. Some of the employees laid off at the time will be recalled and some new workers will be hired, according to company president Buzz Marvin, who remains guarded but optimistic about the company's timetable for growth.

"We're going to continue to grow in Baker the way we've grown in Warroad," Marvin says. "It will be a gradual process."

Part of that future growth lies north of the plant, where 10 acres of land the company acquired will eventually be used for plant expansion. But, Marvin cautions, that won't happen for at least a couple of years.

The Times will be managed by John R. Mattson as publisher of the paper which has been in the Mattson family since Oct. 1, 1923. E. Neil Mattson is a cousin of Clarence and Robert Mattson. John P. Mattson, along with his wife and family, arrived in Thief River Falls on Monday to become situated in housing and begin familiarizing himself with the local operator prior to the ownership change.

The new owners said they intend to "build on the rich heritage of the past" in the operation of the 6,543 circulation Times and 21,144 circulation Northern Minnesota Shopper's Guide. E. Neil Mattson will continue to remain active in editing and publishing the Warren Sheaf and both papers will continue to be operated independently.

THE NEW SEAT BELT LAW which goes into effect in Minnesota on August 1 will be no problem for the Tarry Edington family. Tarry, his wife Polly, and their daughters Lisa (left) and Maria are firm believers in the value of seat belt use. all feel they would have been killed in traffic accidents had they not been wearing seat belts -- Polly in a one-car crash about 20 years ago and Tarry and the girls in a car-truck crash last September. They join other local believers in urging everyone to buckle-up for safety whenever and wherever they drive

New Seat Belt Law Starts Friday . . .

Family Learns Values Of Belts By Accident

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Tarry, Polly, Maria and Lisa Edington didn't need to study physics and statistics to gain a realization of the value of using seat belts in motor vehicles. They found out about it by accident. . or several accidents.

Beginning Friday the Minnesota seat belt law goes into effect and everyone who drives or rides in an automobile will be required to buckle up for safety. The Edingtons are among many who don't need the force of law to belt them into place. Every member of the family believes he or she would be dead if it had not been for seat belt use. When their stories are known, it is easy to understand why they feel that way.

Capt. Lynn Daniels of the Minnesota state patrol in Thief River Falls said that a visual survey of some 95,000 cars in the past two weeks by the state patrol indicates about a 30 per cent use ratio of belt and shoulder restraints. In a survey on drinking and driving conducted last spring, 1,000 cars were checked and seat belt use among the drivers was at 38 per cent. The department of public safety is hoping for 70 per cent compliance with the new law which carries no penalty for disobeying it. . .other than death or injury in an accident.

The Edingtons of rural Thief River Falls (they are now moving to LaMoure, ND) are living proof that seat belts work and they do not only buckle up in their own vehicles, they insist on doing so when they ride with someone else. And no one, but no one, rides in an Edington car without a seat belt fastened. "Let's hear those clicks," the driver advises before the car moves off the spot.

It was 20 years ago when Polly left for work one morning near Bellevue, MI, and the roadway was covered with a layer of snow, obscuring the center line. Confident but inexperienced, she was driving at the 65 miles per hour speed limit, which she soon found out was too fast for the conditions. She made a steering movement to correct her direction of travel and the car went into an uncontrollable spin.

"I remembered that you weren't suposed to put on the brakes when the car is skidding, so I just took my foot off the accelerator and sat there," she said.

The car skidded off the road, hit a tree dead center at an estimated 40 miles per hour or more, slid up the tree and spun around, facing in the direction from which it had come. Fortunately, Polly had her seat belt fastened.

"We just had lap belts in those days; no shoulder harnesses," she said. "But my family all used belts as soon as they were made available on cars and I used mine all the time. But I never expected to be in an accident. This one was almost like being in slow motion until I hit that tree."

Polly flew forward with the impact and struck her head, later requiring 17 stitches to close the wounds. One ankle was so badly crushed the doctor told her it was like a bag of potato chips. It wasn't until later when she tried to move from the hospital bed that it was discovered she had chipped vertebrae as well. The seat belts had lifted the floor of the car where they were fastened.

Although the injuries were severe with life-long consequences, Polly considered herself lucky. Then, nine years later, as an unbelted passenger in another person's car in St. Paul, she was again in an accident. A fractured pelvic bone, broken ribs and a punctured lung resulted from that

Mutnansky-Njaa Wed June 7 At St. Clement's In Grygla

Bonnie Mutnansky and Arnold Njaa were united in marriage June 7 at St. Clement's Catholic church in Grygla. Rev. Stanley Bourassa officiated at the double ring, afternoon ceremony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mutnansky of Goodridge and Mr. and Mrs. Thor Njaa of Wannaska.

Nancy Eklund served as pianist and sang, along with vocalists Lou Ann Sandland and Keith Sandland, "One Day at a Time." All are cousins of the groom. Prelude song was "He Has Chosen You For Me," processional was "El Shaddai," with recessional of "Hymn of Joy." Ann Hoffert served as song leader for the ceremony and reader was Virginia Cullen, the bride's cousin.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white taffeta. The front illusion net yoke was lavishly trimmed with Schiffli embroidery, and the princess-seam bodice featured Venise lace medallions and pink rosebud fabric flower accents. Melon sleeves were accented with Raschel lace. The full skirt was decorated with asymmetrical medallions and pink rosebuds similar to those on the bodice, matching larger pink roses holding two side tucks, and baby ruffles gracing the hemline which flowed to a semi-cathedral train.

She wore a floral wreath of pink and white satin flowers and pearl sprays, with back pouf and fingertip veil trimmed in Chantilly lace. Her bouquet was composed of six long-stemmed roses, white and blue daisies, and fern, with pink satin ribbon streamers. Personal attendants were Paulette Kassa and Jane Storlie, both sisters of the bride.

Jodi Lynn Mutnansky served her sister as maid of honor. Another sister, Paula Mutnansky, was bridesmaid, and cousin, Emilie Solberg, was junior bridesmaid. All bridal attendants and the flower girl wore gowns of pink taffeta with satin ribbon tucks on each side of the full, ruffle-edged skirt showing touches of Chantilly lace. Melon sleeves fell from ruffled shoulders with a self-sashed waistline. Bouquets of the bridal attendants were clusters of pink carnations, white, blue and pink daisies, and fern with blue satin ribbon streamers.

A niece of the bride, Jennifer Mutnansky of Goodridge, was flower girl, wearing a gown matching the other bridal attendants. Ring bearer was a nephew of the bride, Adam Kassa. He wore a white tuxedo with pink tie and cummerbund to match the groom's attire.

The groom wore white tails with pink bow tie and cummerbund. His boutonniere was a pink rose and blue daisy. His brother, Rodger Njaa, acted as best man, with groomsmen Kraig Lee of Wannaska, friend of the groom, and Eric Mutnansky of Cass Lake, the bride's nephew, as junior groomsman. Ushers were friends of the couple, Mark Tangen, Roseau, and Bob Neuschwander, Grygla, and Ron Kiesow, Goodridge, both cousins of the bride. Gentlemen of the wedding party wore white tuxedos with blue ties and cummerbunds, and pink and blue daisy boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a street-length gown of pale pink with side-tied overbodice and draped tulip sleeves. The groom's mother wore a street-length gown of federal blue dotted swiss with a high neckline and A-line skirt, and narrow, white, bowed sash. Their corsages were two pink sweetheart roses with a white carnation.

Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reim, Canon City, CO; Mr. and Mrs. August Kiesow, Goodridge; Jerome Mutnansky, Goodridge; Theodore Njaa, Wannaska; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Larson, Viking; and Mr. and Mrs. Thoralf Melby, Roseau.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church dining hall. Host couples were Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brandt and Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Sandland. Luncheon was served by the ladies of St. Clement's church.

The four-tiered wedding cake featured graduated square layers supported by pillars, and was frosted in white with blue and white trim, topped with a miniature bride and groom set before a heart-shaped background. It was baked and decorated by Janice Peterson.

Bonnie Lee, friend of the couple, and Diane Kalsnes, sister of the bride, cut the cake. Pouring coffee were Alcie Halvorson, cousin of the groom, and Sue Larson, cousin of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Melby registered the guests. Punch was served by Jacki Timm and Shelly Cullen, and favors were distributed by Charlotte and Andrea Cullen, all cousins of the bride.

Gift carriers were neph[illegible] of the bride, Anthony Kassa, and [illegible]ousin of the bride, Mandy Brandt. P[illegible] Skibicki, the bride's sister, and Sue Delorme, cousin of the bride, distributed programs; Mary Herried, sister of the bride, and Arletta Mutnansky, sister-in-law of the bride, were flower attendants; and waitresses were friend Sherrlene Watne and cousins of the bride, Mary Lee and Kathy Neuschwander.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the bride and groom are at home in Wannaska where the groom farms. He also drives a school bus for the Roseau school district. The bride is a 1978 graduate of Mount St. Benedict high school in Crookston, attended Northland community college and Bemidji state university, and is a graduate of the cosmetology program at the Thief River Falls AVTI.

Compassionate Friends Group Meets For Bereaved Parents

July meeting of the Compassionate Friends chapter for bereaved parents met at the Embassy community center in Fosston with vice president Norbert Bertek presiding. During the business meeting it was noted that the group received two financial gifts since the last meeting — one from the Mac Men's action group and the other from the Fosston Lioness group. These funds will be used for mailing costs to parents in the area who have lost children as well as building up the library of helpful materials which are available to anyone needing this service.

Parents from Polk, Mahnomen and Clearwater attended the meeting, although the group has active members from three other area counties as well. The Fosston-based group is nearly four years old, and part of a large number of international groups of the same type, having been started in England in 1969. The group is not financially underwritten by any other group and depends on other groups and members for support. Purpose is to heal grief of parents attending meetings and prepare to be of help when other parents lose children.

For more local information, call president Bonnie Jensen at 796-5563, vice president Norbert Bertek at 435-1254, secretary Lorraine Evje at 435-1851, or treasurer John Brooks Jr. at 487-5752. The group meets the second Tuesday of every month at 8 p.m. at the Embassy community center at Fosston on the corner of 3rd and N. Eaton avenue.

KEYS TO GATES that open up views not normally seen by the public at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge were handed over to Sue Lillevold, executive director of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce, by Larry Lewis, assistant manager at the refuge. The exchange is a symbolic gesture representing a cooperative agreement which allows a bus tour of sightseers to tour the refuge every Friday to areas not normally seen. The bus leaves from Floyd B. Olson park every Friday at 6:30 p.m. and returns around 9 p.m. It costs only $2. Reservations must be made in advance. TRF Times To Change Ownership Effective Aug. 1

E. Mattson, C. Waldemar Mattson (father of Clarence and Robert) and Edgar N. Mattson (father of E. Neil) on Oct. 19, 1923. On Sept. 1, 1927, it was consolidated with the Thief River Falls Tribune which had been purchased by Dahlquist and Ludwig Roe of Montevideo two years earlier, after having been published by J.S. Arneson for five years.

At the time of consolidation, a newsstory in the Times stated: "The Times is the legitimate successor to all of its forerunners in the field, R.H. Ross having purchased the News-Press in 1917."

(Length of time which has elapsed since the 1928 consolidation may be gauged from a news item in that same issue which stated: "The local post of the American Legion will hold a special meeting Thursday evening, September 22, at the golf club house, where radio re-runs of the Tunney-Dempsey fight will be received.")

It was 100 years ago when John P. Mattson purchased the six-year-old Warren Sheaf, having come to Warren in 1882 to seek a job teaching school. John P. and his wife Josephine had five sons and two daughters who grew to adulthood and all of the sons continued in the newspaper profession.

John P. Mattson, named after his great-grandfather, comes to Thief River Falls from Muncie, IN, where he has served in the trust and investment department of Merchant's National Bank since September of 1983. While there he earned his master of business administration degree from Ball State university.

A 1969 graduate of Warren high school, he earned a bachelor of science degree in business administration from the University of Minnesota in 1973 and was graduated from the U of M law school in 1976. He practiced law in Ada from 1976 to 1978 and in Roseau from 1978 to 1981. He was then hired in the trust department of First National bank in Burlington, IA, serving from 1981 to 1983 and becoming a certified public accountant during that time.

John is married to the former Eleanor Jorgenson of Warren and they have two daughters, Rebecca Leigh, 8 and Elizabeth Ann, 6.

E. Neil Mattson graduated from Warren high school in 1944, served in the U.S. army air force and graduated in 1948 from the U of M school of journalism. He worked for the Patchogue, NY, Advance on Long Island in 1948-49 and returned to Warren in 1949 to work with his father, Edgar N. Mattson, and his uncle, Oliver M. Mattson, in production of the Sheaf, gradually taking over ownership and responsibilities of publishing. He is married to the former Marilyn Erickson of rural Warren who now assists at the Sheaf.

Other children of the E. Neil Mattsons include Mrs. Warren (Kathryn) Lam of Denver, CO; Mrs. Mark (Jean) Larson, Thief River Falls; Eric, who also assists in publishing the Sheaf; Duane, a senior at the University of Minnesota school of journalism; Brian, a CPA in San Antonio, TX; Kendall, who will be attending North Dakota state school of science at Wahpeton; and Angela, a junior at Warren high school.

The Times has a staff of more than 25 people and operates a modern job printing shop in addition to publishing the Times and Northern Minnesota Shopper's Guide. It operated for many years on LaBree avenue across from the U.S. post office prior to purchasing the former C. Gustafson and Son auto dealership building at the present location of Main avenue and Fourth street about 20 years ago.

Maintenance Is Required On CRP Seeded Fields

"Almost all worthwhile projects require some maintenance if they are to last," according to Thomas Steger, soil conservation service technician. Just as a house will deteriorate if it is not protected, the same holds true for our land, he said.

Landowners who have land in the Conservation Reserve program have very definite maintenance responsibilities. These are spelled out in their seeding plan.

Field checks of newly seeded CRP fields how that it is high time to get the companion crop clipped off. A few of the fields have been slow to get started, but most fields show the oats or barley cover to be nearing the boot stage. According to the seeding plan, clipping of spring seeded companion crops in the early boot stage is a required maintenance item.

When clipping, it is best to keep mower, swather or chopper up six to eight inches from the ground. This will "release" the new seeding and minimize the amount of residue and encounters with rocks.

Control of noxious weeds (especially all of the thistles and leafy spurge) is required on Conservation Reserve program fields just as on the rest of the land. Some of the newly seeded fields where weed control was poor have a heavy stand of various weeds. It is important to clip these soon to keep them from smothering the new seeding.

"As disagreeable as maintenance in general may be, it must not be overlooked," Steger said. "Often one tends to put things off. Painting the house next year rather than this is usually not serious, but if you put off the maintenance of your Conservation Reserve fields, the expenses and headaches of re-establishing the cover will be a problem for us all."

Seek Means To Move State's Hay To Dry Southeast

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has called on Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng to coordinate the transfer of surplus hay from Minnesota to the drought-stricken Southeast.

"Herds of livestock are dying in Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia and Albama," Congressman Stangeland said. "At the same time, many hardstrapped farmers in Minnesota have surplus hay.

"The U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) should coordinate the transfer of surplus Minnesota hay to the drought states," he told Lyng. "If a direct purchase is not feasible, USDA should at least provide a transportation assistance program to save that livestock and the family farms."

Congressman Stangeland said he would consult with the American Trucking association to see if empty trucks heading south could be used to carry surplus hay.

"I will also be working with local extension agents in Minnesota to see if a transfer effort is possible," he said.

Planning Agency Receives Money To Resolve Disputes

State planning agency has received a $25,000 grant to help state agencies resolve their disputes outside the courtroom. The grant was awarded by the National Institute for Dispute Resolution, a non-profit corporation based in Washington, D.C.

In announcing receipt of the grant, director of the state planning agency, Lani Kawamura, said, "There is a growing nation-wide movement to resolve disputes involving public agencies in less adversarial ways. Mediating disputes outside the courtroom can result in more creative solutions, in less time, and at a lower cost. Settlements are arrived at jointly so the parties are more committed to the final decision because of their involvement."

State planning agency will facilitate the state's alternative dispute resolution efforts. The grant funds will be used to familiarize state employees with optional ways of resolving disputes. Some employees will be trained as mediators and serve as neutral third parties in disputes. The state planning agency will help state agencies to identify disputes that are suitable for mediation and assist in selecting mediators. A portion of the grant will be applied toward the costs of resolving a limited number of pilot cases.

The agency's dispute resolution program is directed by Roger Williams. Minnesota is one of five states receiving funds from the National Institute of Dispute Resolution. Other states are Hawaii, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin.

Window Stickers Could Violate MN State Law

Minnesota state patrol is concerned that motorists are placing illegal signs, stickers and other nontransparent material on their car windows in violation of state law.

"Lately we in the patrol are observing many more of these obstructions to vision such as the 'baby on board' signs," said Col. Roger Ledding, chief. State law, Ledding reminded, prohibits any objects suspended between the driver and windshield other than sun visors and rear view mirrors. Also, no "sign, poster or other nontransparent material" is allowed on the front windshield, vent windows, side or rear windows or vehicles.

Ledding said the patrol will be watching more closely for violations. The infraction is a misdemeanor.

Library Seeking Matching Funds To Add Adult Books

Thief River Falls branch library of the Northwest regional library was recently awarded a $1,500 Minnesota library foundation matching grant for the purpose of establishing an adult collection of books of interest to adults, but which are written on a lower vocabulary level than are most adult books.

This grant money will be given to the library once it raises a matching amount of money. The library has solicited money from individuals and groups and plans several fund-raising activities. The fundraising and bookkeeping for the project must be completed before April 1, 1987 for the library to receive the Minnesota library foundation grant. At present, $530 has been raised.

This project began two years ago. In the fall of 1984, Thief River Falls community education director Jane Mackenroth and Northwest regional library assistant director Heidi Hoks met to discuss how community education and the regional library system could work together to combat the alarmingly high rate of illiteracy in Pennington county. Mrs. Mackenroth established a learning center in the school district 564 service center. This learning center, dedicated to adult basic education, GED and English as a second language, opened its doors in the fall of 1985.

While classes in these programs were only offered two nights a week before, the learning center made it possible to conduct classes in the mornings, afternoons, and evenings. Mrs. Hoks contacted several organizations about literacy projects and arranged a literacy workshop in Thief River Falls which was held Nov. 13, 1985.

Mrs. Hoks then met with Lyn Turenne, director of adult basic and continuing education. Mrs. Turenne works directly with students at ages from 17 years old and up. Primarily her students fall within the age categories of 30 to 65 years of age and are trying to complete a GED or learn such coping skills as map reading.

Programs offered by adult basic continuing education include the following: AB-CD, adult basic and continuing education provides an opportunity for adults to improve reading, writing, arithmetic and communication skills, as well as life skills; GED, the national general educational development program, helps prepare adults who did not complete high school for the GED test; Learn-to-read, a free private tutoring is available for non-readers or other adults who need assistance with basic reading skills; ESL, learning English as a second language, is difficult for persons from foreign cultures, special attention and help is available on an individual basis for adults wanting to read and speak English.

Last year Mrs. Turenne had an enrollment of 45, approximately 15 of which were enrolled in the learn-to-read or literacy program. To encourage her students to use community resources, Mrs. Turenne has taken her students to the public library for recreational reading. Because there is no adult high interest-low vocabulary section in the library, many of these students resorted to the children's section to find books they could read.

"An adult high-low section in the public library is necessary," noted Mrs. Turenne, "Not only for my students, but for the general public."

Mrs. Hoks agreed, saying, "Everyone is entitled to read something of interest to them; everyone should be accorded that dignity."

Since adult basic and continuing education students needed recreational reading and the library wanted to encourage them to become library users, the next step would be establishment of an adult high interest-low vocabulary book collection in the Thief River Falls public library. The 1986 Northwest regional library book budget was tight and funding for 1987 looked low. So Mrs. Hoks wrote for grants to establish such a collection.

The announcement of the Minnesota library foundation's decision came this spring. "It was very exciting for us," said Mrs. Hoks, "but it's really just the beginning of our work." While fundraising is allowable until early 1987 for this project, the library hopes to meet its goal by October when it can celebrate the addition of a new book collection during the 20th anniversary of the Thief River Falls public library building.

Heritage Days At East Grand Forks Feature Music

Plans for the 11th annual Heritage Days celebration in East Grand Forks Saturday, August 16 and Sunday, August 17, include a program of gospel singing at the Granville community church on Sunday afternoon. The church, which was moved to the AVTI from a site near Oslo, has now been restored and will be the focal point of the Sunday church service at 10:30 a.m.

David Boyer will be featured in concert at 2 and 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon. His singing career began with a gospel singing group from the Red River Valley called "The Inspirations" with whom he began singing as a junior at Climax high school. He attended Golden Valley Lutheran college in Minneapolis where he continued his music and then went to the University of North Dakota where he received the Lawrence Welk Music Scholarship, sang with the concert choir and released his first gospel album. While completing his degree he frequently performed with accordionist Myron Floren.

At 1 and 3 p.m. Sunday The Gospel Outreach Choir directed by Gladys Ross, Grand Forks, will be featured at the church. Singers are from the air force base and the Grand Forks area. —Both concerts are free to the public with the purchase of their Heritage Days button. A free will offering will be taken.

In addition to the special music programs on Sunday afternoon, a Thresher's Dinner will be held beginning at 11:30, following the church service; a horse show, continual threshing demonstrations, children's games, saw mill demonstrations, craft demonstrations, 4-H exhibits and concessions stands will be part of the Sunday activities for the two-day event.

MEA Leadership Conference Set At St. Benedict

Forty-first annual summer leadership conference conducted by the Minnesota Education association (MEA) will take place August 4-7 at the College of St. Benedict in St. Joseph.

Contract negotiations and teacher rights as well as other legal aspects of local association activities will be discussed by teachers from throughout the state with some 400 expected to attend.

Leadership functions, communications, local association program maintenance, legislative program and membership concerns are included in the four-day program.

The conference, says MEA president Martha Lee (Marti) Zins, "is designed to help members and their colleagues organize their local associations for maximum effectiveness in dealing with the concerns and problems facing teachers and education."

Participants, says Zins, will learn about programs for their local associations that would allow teachers to take control of their profession, and also will take an in-depth look at internal communication techniques.

$430,000 Raised In MS Readathon For Minnesota

More than $430,000 was raised for the Multiple Sclerosis society in the 1986 MS read-a-thon, the largest in the nation this year. Students from over 600 schools throughout Minnesota improved their reading skills while raising funds for research toward finding a cause and cure for MS and providing programs and sevices for those people in Minnesota who have MS.

Approximately 24,000 Minnesota students participated in this national reading motivational program for elementary and middle school students. They read books and newspapers during a one-month period and collected pledges for each book and newspaper read.

Top winners at each school were honored recently during MS read-a-thon day at Valleyfair amusement park in Shakopee. Minnesota Viking Matt Blair congratulated students who had won tickets.

Farm Mediation Program Works, Coalition Says

Mediation program of the 1986 Minnesota Omnibus Farm act appears to be working, according to a coalition of Minnesota farm groups, who said that means hope for the state's family farmers.

As a result of legislation that was passed last session, hundreds of farmers are going to the negotiating table with lenders in an attempt to restructure debt leads to manageable levels. Thanks to the efforts of county extension personnel, volunteer mediators and farm advocates, the landmark legislation seems to be getting off to a good start.

"We applaud the efforts of the mediators, extension personnel, farm advocates and lenders in giving mediation an honest try," stated Darlene Schiller, spokesperson for the Minnesota Farm coalition. "We hope that all farmers will take advantage of the opportunity this legislation presents for them to stay on the land."

The Minnesota Farm coalition represents 13 major Minnesota organizations concerned with farm policy; including MN Farmers Union, National Farmers Organization of Minnesota, American Agriculture Movement of Minnesota, MN Groundswell, MN COACT, MN League of Rural Voters, MN Northwest Coalition for Rural America, MN Catholic conference, Family Farm Organizing Resource center, MN Catholic Rural Life conference, The Land Stewardship Project, Lutheran Coalition for Public Policy and The Joint Religious Legislative coalition.

Schiller said the Minnesota Farm coalition was instrumental in passing the 1986 Minnesota Ominbus Farm act which provides for mandatory mediation, interest buy-down and debt restructuring provisions, and an expansion of the farm advocate program, among other measures.

ROUTE AND ALTERNATE ROUTES for the guided bus tour of Agassiz national wildlife refuge include the above marked trails. Weather and road conditions will determine which route they will follow. The bus tours, sponsored by the chamber of commerce convention and visitors bureau, will leave 6:30 p.m. from Floyd B. Olson park every Friday. It will operate on a trial basis for two months. Reservations for the tour, which costs $2, must be made in advance with the chamber of commerce in Thief River Falls.

Guided Bus Tours Of Agassiz Refuge Offer Unique View

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Special guided bus tours of Agassiz national wildlife refuge will begin this Friday from Thief River Falls for $2 per person. Each Friday a bus tour that will see many places not normally open to the public will leave from Floyd B. Olson park at 6:30 p.m. and return around 9 p.m.

The tours are the result of a cooperative arrangement between the chamber of commerce convention and visitors bureau and the Agassiz national wildlife refuge. The handicapped accessible bus that will carry the sightseers is from the Inter-county community council and is funded for a two month trial basis by the convention and visitors bureau. There are only 16 seats plus one wheelchair tie down so the reservations must be made in advance with the chamber of commerce.

The bus drivers are donating their time and Myron VanBruggen will be the tour guide. A tap recording about the refuge will be played on the way to the refuge allowing passengers to relax and enjoy the panoramic view of the countryside while learning more about the refuge.

Sue Lillevold and several other chamber members who were given a pre-tour look at the route, said it is informative, humorous and family oriented. But because of the limited space people should make reservations early. By Tuesday evening, seven of the seats on the bus were already reserved for the first tour.

Lillevold said that after many requests from local citizens and visitors, they are finally able to offer a guided tour of the park. Larry Rolff of the convention and visitors bureau broached the idea with Larry Lewis, assistant manager at Agassiz national refuge, when he started discussing how to gain public awareness of the wildlife resources at the park.

One of the key attractions to the tour is being able to get off the beaten path to sights not normally seen by visitors. The chamber is in possession of keys that will unlock gates to greater wildlife viewing.

While on the preliminary tour last week, Lillevold and the others said they counted eight moose and many deer — including a large John Deere. But those are only two of the creatures — and one machine — to be found on the federal refuge where there is an abundance of wildlife.

In 1933, after an expensive and unsuccessful attempt to drain the area, the area was purchased by the state of Minnesota. It was later turned over to the Bureau of biological survey, now the United States Fish and Wildlife service, and the Agassiz national wildlife refuge was established in 1937. Today Agassiz national wildlife refuge occupies 61,449 acres (about 100 square miles) in eastern Marshall county. Over half the area is highly productive shallow marshlands. The primary purpose of the refuge is to produce waterfowl and maintain the area for the benefit of migratory birds.

But the refuge is home for more than just waterfowl. There are 274 bird species and 49 different species of mammals. Visitors, and there are usually 16,000 each year, can see moose, whitetail deer, black bear, eastern timber wolf, elk, bobcats, beaver, otter, mink, raccoon, rabbits, squirrel, skunks, Canada geese, ducks, sandhill cranes, gulls and many more.

Family Learns The Value Of Safety Belts By Accident

"Want to know what it feels like to have a punctured lung?" she said. "It feels like someone is stabbing a knife in your chest every time you try to take a breath."

Then last September Tarry and his daughters Maria, 16 and Lisa, 13, were enroute to Thief River Falls on highway 59 from their home just off the Viking road northwest of Thief River Falls. Tarry was driving, Maria was in the right front seat and Lisa was in the back seat behind the driver. All wearing their seat belts.

Tarry attempted a left turn onto a crossing and a semi-trailer truck loaded with grain crashed into the left side of the compact car. Impact crushed the left side of the car and drove it down into the ditch as the truck continued on past and into the left ditch as well.

Result: Tarry received a fractured second vertebra in his neck, a fractured left collarbone and broken right shoulder. Lisa suffered a broken pelvis, broken upper left leg, broken finger, cracked wrist an collapsed lung. Maria sustained a broken left collarbone and mild to moderate brain injury due to hemorrhaging. None were thrown from the car, all were restrained by their seat belts. Injuries were bad but could have been worse.

"I feel we all would have been killed," Tarry states dispassionately when asked what he thinks would have happened without seat belt use. He may well be right.

Maria, who recently completed driver training, says seat belt use is stressed in the program but could receive more emphasis. She said she buckles up automatically before she turns the ignition key and she makes sure any passengers buckle up as well. "I tell them," she smiles, "that they better not ride with a driver like me without putting on their seat belts. Nobody gives me any hassle; they buckle up."

"I know of other families who have started using belts after the bad accident our family had," Polly Edington says. "We definitely urge people to use the restraints — every time they drive no matter how short a distance they drive."

Mrs. Joe (Laura) Nelson of Thief River Falls is one of those who always wears a seat belt — until the day she was involved in an accident.

That particular day, earlier this year, she was a passenger in the front seat of a vehicle carrying several passengers. She had turned to be in conversation with those in the back seat as the vehicle left Buffalo Bay Marina on Lake of the Woods and continued in that position as the vehicle continued toward Warroad after clearing customs at the Canadian border. She had neglected to fasten the seat belt.

A car ahead of them suddenly swerved left to avoid a car moving less than five miles per hour on the roadway and the Nelson vehicle hit the rear of the slow-moving car at near highway speed. Laura was thrown sideways into the dash and windshield. Two back seat passenger hurtled forward with enough force for one to break the back of the seat and the other to suffer a fractured arm on the dash. Laura had cuts and bruises and lost the use of the arm for a couple of weeks due to a severely bruised shoulder.

The couple in the car struck from the rear were wearing seat belts and apparently suffered no serious injuries although the backs of the seats were flattened backward.

"Too many people have never been in an accident are walking around thinking that if they are involved in an accident they can remain in control or will somehow have time to react to protect themselves," Mrs. Nelson said. "I think it's important for them to know that it doesn't happen that way."

"I'm now all the more committed to wearing seat belts and I don't mind telling passengers to buckle up," she said. "I firmly believe you are much safer wearing seat belts than without them."

It's not only safer it's soon to be the law!

Capt. Daniels of the state patrol said he expects the patrol will take a fairly soft stance in checking compliance for the first three months after the law goes into effect. Checking will be done primarily on a secondary basis, when probable cause is given for a car to be stopped for another reason. Safety material will be handed out at that time. After 90 days the public should be acclimated to the need to use belts and officers will begin a little harder line.

Why not make it easy on yourself? Don't find out by accident that you should have buckled up. Seat belts are a lot more comfortable than traction.

Fuel Storage Tanks In TRF May Prove To Be Hidden Threat

-by David Hill
Times Reporter

Three oil spills in the last three months that ended up in the Red Lake river have local law enforcement officials concerned to the point where warnings will no longer suffice. Citations, according to Craig Backer, a Minnesota department of natural resources enforcement agent, will be issued from now on.

This summer has been extraordinary in the seriousness of the spills. It is not that they have not happened in the past; they have. But this year they are more frequent and extensive.

The first serious spill happened on July 11 at First street and Horace avenue. Water being pumped into an underground storage tank forced the lighter weighing fuel oil out of the storage tank, and into storm sewers where it eventually wound up as a floating oil slick in the Red Lake river. The person attending the storage tank thought it was empty of oil and left it to fill with water. A warning was issued.

The second spill was reported at the L.B. Hartz wholesale parking lot where fuel was leaking out of trucks waiting to unload. Deputy Chief of Police Duane Holland explained that truck drivers would fill their tanks during cooler hours of the day and then end up waiting to unload the fuel. As the temperatures of the day increased the fuel would expand and leak out of the truck, finding its way into the storm sewer and thus into the river. A warning was issued.

The third spill happened July 23 at Fifth street and Atlantic avenue. Law enforcement officials are calling the intentional release of heating fuel a malicious act by an unknown person or persons.

Law enforcement officials are not so concerned with handing out citations that they ignore the reasons why the leaks have happened. Officials at the meeting — the Minnesota department of natural resources, sheriff's department, police department, city planning department and city building inspector — pointed out that their number one concern is finding abandoned fuel storage tanks and having them removed or filled with sand or concrete. Locating these potentially dangerous storage tanks is half the problem.

Before the required reporting law that went into effect July 1, 1985, it was not necessary for property owners to report where these empty storage tanks were to the Minnesota pollution control agency (PCA). As a result, there are a lot of empty or nearly empty fuel storage tanks hidden in the ground and slowly corroding and leaking dangerous contaminants into water supplies and wildlife habitat.

Now, all storage tanks larger than 1,100 gallons, which means mostly commercial users, must be reported to the PCA. It is the responsibility of the people who sell fuel oil, sell fuel tanks, contractors and property owners to report either new or older tanks to the PCA. The purpose, said Don. Stewart of the city planning department, is to get an inventory of all the storage tanks. Stewart reported that the PCA estimated that there are 25,000 storage tanks in Minnesota and 25 per cent are leaking.

The law enforcement officials at the meeting cautioned that a person's responsibility does not end with reporting the existence of a storage tank. If there is any kind of leak of any contaminant it should be reported to local Law enforcement officials. If it is an abandoned tank, the only safe way to handle it is to remove it or fill it with sand or concrete, according to fire department chief Dave Bjorkman and the city uniform fire code.

The code also provides that: "Tanks temporarily out of service shall have the fill line, gage opening and pump connection secured against tampering, and vent lines shall remain open and be maintained in accordance with the requirements of this article for vent lines;

"Any tank not used for a period of 90 days shall be properly safeguarded or removed in a manner approved by the chief;

"Any aboveground tank which has been abandoned for a period of one year shall be removed from the property in a manner approved by the chief;

"Any underground tank which has been abandoned for a period of one year shall be either removed from the ground and the hole properly filled or such tank may be abandoned in place and safeguarded in a manner and with material approved by the chief."

Failure to adhere to the rules and regulations can mean civil and criminal prosecution. Backer said the DNR will seek civil damages to recover the cost of cleanup and damages to the environment. Criminal prosecution can mean fines up to $750.

Officials believe the three major spills this summer did not result in a fish kill nor pollute drinking water. Intake valves for the city's water supply are beneath the surface of the water, and generally below the level at which the oil floats. Only a large volume of contaminants, which can include a large variety of chemicals, pesticides and oil products, would affect the water supply.

So far all of the spills were caught at the power dam because it is manned 24 hours a day and is a short term collection point. Backer said there isn't much that can be done to remedy a spill on a river because of the fast dispersal rate. On lakes, however, they can use special equipment to remove the substance, but not on rivers. In Thief River Falls they were able to stop the spills by shutting off the sources and using special clean up materials to dry it up on the ground.

Law enforcement officials, said that in the three separate instances it was not difficult to track the spills down. The police department spotted two spill sources while on their regular patrol and the third was tracked with storm sewer blue prints and footwork.

In the future Backer and other law enforcement officials are hoping that they won't have to track any more spills or issue any citations. They hope that through the media the public will become aware of the problem and voluntarily comply with rules and regulations that promote safe, clean water for everyone and everything.

NCC Football Staff

Northland Community College head football coach and athletic director Rick Nelson announced this week that the Northmen have added Steve Bengston to their 1986 football coaching staff.

Bengston is a Middle River High school graduate, who played American Legion baseball in Thief River Falls. He played two years of football at the University of Minnesota-Crookston, followed that by attending Northland to collect some credits before finishing his schooling at Mayville State College, where he worked as a student-assistant for the Comets' football team.

He is a member of the Strandquist School faculty, and Nelson expressed his gratitude with the Strandquist administration for their cooperation in helping to work out a schedule that allows Bengston to coach at Northland.

Other members of the Northland football staff will return this fall, including Paul Williams, who has the title of defensive coordinator; Kevin Schuman, the offensive coordinator; and Nelson. Bengston will work with Williams on defense. Schuman handles much of the offensive line work and Nelson works with the offensive backs and wide receivers.

Northland football practice starts Saturday, August 30, and Nelson expects to have 40-45 players on hand for the 1986 season, which begins Thursday, September 11, at Moorhead State University, against the Dragons' junior varsity.

Among those Nelson hopes to have in camp is 6-1, 210-pound freshman Deon Schmidt of Fargo North, who is reportedly leaning toward Northland. He was a starting fullback and played some defensive tackle while doing the punting and handling the kickoffs for the South squad in Saturday's North-South North Dakota all-star football game in Fargo.

Champions Honored

Class reunion over the weekend for the Lincoln High School graduating class of 1956 included special recognition for the Prowlers' 1956 state championship hockey team.

Thief River Falls went 19-1 during the 1955-56 season, beating Roseau 4-2 for the Region 8 title to reach the state tournament field in St. Paul. The Prowlers edged Edina 3-2 in the opening round quarterfinals on Chip Strand's goal at 4:30 of the third eight-minute sudden-death overtime period, shut out Eveleth 3-0 in the semifinals and got by International Falls 3-2 in the title game.

Only loss for the Prowlers that year was a 3-1 setback at the hands of St. Paul Johnson in a regular season meeting in Thief River Falls.

Jack Poole and Rod Collins were co-captains of that team. Rest of the squad included Duane Glass, Fred Dablow, Glen Carlson, Jim Hall, Ronnie Reese, Art Cloutier, Darryl Smith, Wendy Johnson, Dale Glass, Jon Wennberg, Ken Sauve and Strand. Dennis Rolle was the coach.

Thief River Falls has made nine state hockey tournament appearances, bringing back trophies on seven of those nine trips to the Twin Cities. The Prowlers, 16-9 in state tournament play, also won a state title in 1954, took runner-up honors in the very first Minnesota State high School League-sponsored state hockey tournament in 1945, collected a third place trophy in 1951 and came home with three consolation prizes in 1952, 1955 and 1959.

There were also state tournament trips in 1960 and 1965 — the last time the Prowlers appeared at the meet.

Miscellaneous

+ There were 66 participants Tuesday in the second of three Thief River Falls summer track meets planned in June, July and August. Complete results, which are passed through a computer, will be made available for the Monday, August 4, Times, according to meet director Lynn Dyer.

+ Defensive back Rich Loomis of East Grand Forks and Oklee coach Dale Svaren are the area ties to the 13th annual Minnesota high school all-star football game Saturday, August 2, at 3 p.m. at Parade Stadium in Minneapolis. Thief River Falls hasn't been represented in the game since Tony Dorn Jr. was selected to play in the very first match-up of the state's graduating high school seniors in 1974.

Men's Fast Pitch

Regular season schedule ends this week in the Thief River Falls Men's Fast Pitch Softball League, with a pair of teams — Coors and Schmidt-Coke — planning to carry their season into Class-A state tournament play August 9-10 in Rochester.

Games tonight (Wednesday) will match United Satellite Systems (4-8) vs. Coors (8-3-1) at 7:30 p.m. and Melvies (2-12) vs. Schmidt-Coke (10-1-1) at 9 p.m.

Thursday, Schmidt-Coke plays the Schmidt Old-Timers (2-2) at 9 p.m.

A Friday doubleheader has Schmidt-Coke vs. United Staellite Systems at 7:30 p.m. and Coors vs. Melvies at 9.

There is a possibility, too, that some make-up games may continue the schedule into next week.

Coors will begin the 22-team, double-elimination state tournament with an 8 a.m. draw Saturday, August 9, vs. South Star. That winner will play the Stillwater Merchants at 11:30 a.m.

Schmidt-Coke will receive a first round tournament bye before playing the winner of a Brooten-Rochester No. 2 game at 1:15 p.m. Saturday, August 9.

The field also includes multiple entries from Hutchinson, Mankato, Duluth, Redwood City, Kiester and St. Cloud.

Women's Slow Pitch

Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League playoffs are scheduled to be held Sunday, August 3.

Updated league standings, which determine the post-season pairings, have not been announced.

Only three scores were turned in from Monday's games, the last regular season games on the 1986 league schedule, with American Legion-Arcticwear beating Northwest Medical Center 4-2, Hutchinson Transfer knocking off Kmart 14-2 as Dawn Carr homered and Pepsi-Cola Bottling stopping Hair Dynamics 12-3 as Diane Anderson homered.

A full list of late-reported July 21 scores were received this week, featuring a 5-2 win by Russell's Bar over American Legion-Arcticwear when Helen Anderson hit a three-run home run in the bottom of the eighth inning to break a 2-2 tie. Dorene Larson had homered in the seventh for the winners and Angie Sinn had a triple earlier in the game.

Ellen Prigge was 3-for-4 with a three-run home run and a two-run home run as Wilson Brothers edged the Musherettes 12-10. Rita Carpenter was 4-for-4 for the winners and Sue Olson homered for the losers.

Brenda Russell doubled and tripled and Kari Hanson turned three double plays as Hair Dynamics got by the Musherettes 9-7 and Diane Klemetson tripled as the Ridge Runners overcame American Legion-Arcticwear 13-7.

Trailing 3-2 in the bottom of the seventh, Northwest Medical Center rallied to beat the Ridge Runners 5-3 when Julie Bergsnev hit a two-out, three-run home run.

Elsewhere, Rainbow Nursery edged Roseau Transport 4-2, Russell's Bar used the same score to beat Northwest Medical Center and McDonald's slipped past Roseau Transport 4-3.

A single Wednesday, July 23, score found Rainbow Nursery beating McDonald's 6-5.

Ninth District Baseball tournament . . .

VFW Team Is Eliminated

Post-season play ended in unexpectedly short fashion Monday for Thief River Falls Post 2793 following a pair of losses in the four-team, double-elimination Ninth District VFW baseball tournament for 16-year-olds at East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls, the title favorite heading into the tournament, according to coach Mark Lundin, lost a 5-2 first round afternoon game to Fergus Falls, then bowed out of the tournament following a surprising 10-2 loss at the hands of East Grand Forks that same night.

"There's no way we should have lost the tournament," said Lundin. "We took East Grand Forks for granted. We beat them three times during the year (17-8, 11-3, 8-4) and just expected to do it again. It's tough to beat somebody four times. But we had plenty of chances to win. A couple of key hits and we would have been all right."

Thief River Falls ended with an 11-10 VFW record. Basically the same squad went 13-20 during the American Legion baseball season, which ended Saturday in Ninth District Class AA tournament play.

Fergus Falls 5, TRF 2

Thief River Falls scored first and out-hit Fergus Falls 9-7, but still lost a 5-2 decision.

Losing pitcher Jason Lane struggled through 10 walks and surrendered single runs in the second, third, fourth, fifth and seventh innings. Thief River Falls had a 1-0 first inning lead, but didn't score again until the sixth.

Sean Myhrer, Rob Coltom and Chris Nelson all had two hits for the losers.

Both sides had two errors.

Fergus Falls and Thief River Falls split a single doubleheader meeting this summer, with Fergus Falls winning 5-4 and Thief River Falls winning 13-8, and had two other twinbills postponed.

East Grand Forks 10, TRF 2

Even more of a shocker than the first game loss to Fergus Falls was the second game 10-2 Thief River Falls defeat at the hands of East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls jumped out to a 2-0 first inning lead when the first two batters reached base and scored. It started with a double by Corey Olson, with three walks and a wild pitch producing the two runs.

East Grand Forks trailed 2-1 until the fifth when a four-run frame turned things around. The winners clinched it with a five-run fifth.

Bill Dicken pitched the first four innings and was the losing pitcher. Olson finished up on the mound. Olson and Dean DuChamp both had two hits, but East Grand Forks had a 9-7 base hit edge. The errors were even at two-apiece.

Qualifications are being held through August 13 for the 1986 city golf tournament at the Thief River Golf Club.

Those interested in qualifying for the Championship and President's flights must shoot a qualifying round at the Thief River Golf Club by Friday, August 8.

Top 15 golfers, along with 1985 city tournament winner Marv Carlson, will then play in a seeding match to determine the top eight golfers who will be in the Championship Flight. The remaining eight golfers will be seeded into the President's Flight.

Golfers should call the Pro Shop at the Thief River Golf Club to sign up for the qualifying matches, which must be completed prior to August 8.

Regular flights of the city tournament competition get underway after Wednesday, August 13.

Babe Ruth Prep Squad Beats Crookston Twice

A doubleheader sweep at Crookston Monday lifted the Thief River Falls Babe Ruth Prep 13-year-olds to a 10-14-1 record as the 1986 baseball season nears an end.

Thief River Falls won a 20-3 first game decision in five innings and added a 9-4 second game victory in four innings.

Kyle Evenson was 3-for-3, plus a walk, and Dale Martell was 2-for-3, with two walks, in the first game victory. Thief River Falls scored five times in the top of the first inning, added three runs in the second and owned a 10-0 lead before Crookston got on the scoreboard with a three-run third. Thief River Falls made that up with three runs in the fourth and completed the 10-run-rule conquest with a seven-run fifth.

Robert Canfield was the winning pitcher. Thief River Falls out-hit Crookston 9-6 and Crookston had four of the game's seven errors.

Thief River Falls trailed 4-1 at the first inning of Game 2, but picked up a run in the second and took a 7-4 lead with five-run third before closing out the shortened game with a two-run fourth.

Steve Sabo was 2-for-2 and Mike Swanson went 2-for-3 as Thief River Falls out-hit Crookston 6-5. Martell was the winning pitcher. Thief River Falls had just one error; Crookston had two.

Thief River Falls was scheduled to visit East Grand Forks today (Wednesday) and will host Roseau Friday in 12-noon doubleheaders to close out the regular season schedule, then play host to the season-ending Lake Agassiz District tournament Saturday and Sunday.

TRF Team Beaten Twice By Bemidji Braves Saturday

A Thief River Falls Babe Ruth team consisting of a mixture of 14-year-olds from the Pepsi-Cola Bottling squad and 13-year-olds from the Prep ranks lost a baseball doubleheader to the Bemidji Braves Saturday in contrasting 6-3, 30-0 manner.

It was a well-played opener when Thief River Falls scored in the top of the first inning, fell behind 2-1 in the second and went ahead 4-3 in the third before Bemidji won it with a three-run sixth.

Losing pitcher was Steve Sabo. The Braves out-hit Thief River Falls 10-5 and the visitors had three of the game's five errors.

Thief River Falls fell apart defensively in Game 2 when 11 errors helped account for the one-sided 30-0 score.

Bemidji out-hit Thief River Falls 20-0 and played errorless ball. The Braves scored seven times in the bottom of the first inning and 18 times in the third before winding it up with a five-run fourth.

Mike Swanson was the losing pitcher.

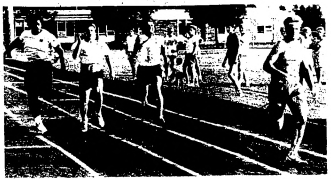
TRF Baseball

A pair of tournaments this weekend will close out of the 1986 baseball season for Thief River Falls Babe Ruth teams.

Lake Agassiz District Prep playoffs for 13-year-olds will be played in Thief River Falls Saturday and Sunday. Roseau, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls teams will participate in the event, but times and pairings have not been announced.

Meanwhile, the Thief River Falls 14-15-year-olds will finish the year by participating in the East Grand Forks Invitational. Pairings haven't been announced for that event, either.

Annual Thief River Falls Bambino Invitational for 11-12-year-olds will be played Saturday, August 9, announced Gary Cornell, director of the Thief River Falls Park and Recreation Department-sponsored youth baseball program for 7-12-year-olds. Regular season league games in the 7-8-year-old, 9-year-old, Minor League and Major League programs will be completed this week, with playoff activity planned next week.



PULLING AWAY AT the end, Paul Brandt won this 100-meter dash Tuesday during the Thief River Falls summer track meet series at Prowler Field. Youngsters as young as 2-3-year-olds participated in the event, along with school-age runners and adults. Thief River Falls cross country coach Lynn Dyer was meet director.

Triathlon Is Scheduled Saturday

Second annual Thief River Falls Coca-Cola Triathlon is scheduled for Saturday, August 2, starting at 8:30 a.m. at Franklin Middle School.

The event will include a 300-yard swim, 8-mile bike ride and 2.5-mile run.

Sponsors of the event are the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Crookston and the Falls Clinic division of Dakota Clinic Ltd. in Thief River Falls.

Swimming will take place in the Franklin pool and will involve 12 lengths. The swimmers will start in waves to avoid congestion.

From the pool, participants will ride bicycles to the Thief River Falls Regional Airport and back, via Nora and Pennington Avenues.

Running portion of the event will also start and finish at the school.

Official race tank top shirts will be given to all finishers. Trophies will be awarded to the first place male and female finishers in different age categories. Refreshments will be provided at the finish.

Entry forms are available at the Falls Clinic, TG Sporting Goods and the Franklin pool. Entry fee is $5, and entry deadline is Friday, August 1. Race director is Dr. Jim Langland.

New Enforcement Director

Department of Natural Resources Commissioner Joseph Alexander has announced the appointment of Gerald R. Kittridge, Roseville, as director of the agency's Division of Enforcement.

Kittridge, 61, will replace Fred Hammer, director since 1980, who will take a classified staff position as assistant chief of Enforcement.

On July 1, Kittridge retired after five years as executive director of the 6,000-member Minnesota Peace and Police Officers Association, St. Paul. His primary responsibility was lobbying in the State Legislature for new laws.

Kittridge's career in police work goes back 34 years to 1952 when he became a trooper with the Minnesota State Patrol in Worthington. He progressed to sergeant, captain, and, in 1979, to assistant chief.

In 1980, he became a faculty member at the Institute of Police Traffic Management, University of North Florida, Jacksonville. He has taught courses in accident investigation, search and seizure, and criminal justice at Mankato State University; Northwestern University Traffic Institute, Evanston, Illinois; Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, St. Paul; and at the Minneapolis and Bloomington police departments.

Kittridge comes from a long line of police officers. His grandfather, John Kittridge, was a police officer in Minneapolis. Two great uncles — the "Sullivan brothers" — were police officers in St. Paul. One uncle was a Hennepin County deputy sheriff; another was a state trooper. His brother, Jack, is a state trooper and Kittridge's son, Kevin, is a captain with the Minnesota State Patrol in Mankato. One nephew is a police officer in St. Cloud, while another nephew, is a Wright County deputy sheriff.

In his new role as Director of Enforcement, Kittridge plans to stress training of the DNR's 190 conservation officers. "Police work in the conservation field is a vocation," he says. "We protect the single most valuable thing, outside of human life, in Minnesota — our natural resources."

Kittridge and his wife, Martha, have four children. Kevin and Colleen reside in Mankato; Patrick and Teresa live in St. Paul.

Musky Management

Department of Natural Resources will hold a public meeting in the Cass Lake High School auditorium Saturday, August 2, on a proposal to close four area lakes to northern pike spearing and manage the lakes to enhance fishing for the native muskellunge.

The meeting will start at 1:30 p.m. and be chaired by Merlyn Wesloh, DNR Regional Administrator for northwestern Minnesota.

Richard Hassinger, DNR Fisheries Chief, said the four lakes are Cass Lake, Cass and Beltrami Counties; Pike Bay Lake, Cass County; Andrusia Lake, Beltrami County; and Kitchi Lake, Beltrami County.

He said all of the lakes have native populations of the Mississippi strain of muskellunge and musky fishermen have asked that the lakes be designated by the Department for musky management.

Northern pike speaking is closed in lakes managed for muskellunge to avoid the taking of muskies by northern pike spearers.

Hassinger said the legislature recently changed the law regarding the number of lakes that the Department was allowed to close to spearing.

After a public meeting, the DNR may now close muskellunge waters, providing they are designated for muskie management. The designation is for a specified period and the Department must show the muskie population has been enhanced.

He said all persons attending the meeting in Cass Lake will have an opportunity to be heard.

Donation To Aid DNR

A donation from the Shallow Sand Lake Association to the Department of Natural Resources will insure an adequate oxygen supply for fish being hauled by truck to northeastern Minnesota lakes to be stocked.

Dave Holmbeck, area fisheries supervisor at Grand Rapids, said the club's donation of $200 has been used to purchase an agitator for installation in new transportation tanks that were purchased this spring.

He said the Association's past president Doug Sherf had heard of other groups which have assited the DNR fisheries programs with donations of money or equipment. He suggested that the Association make a donation that would benefit as many people as possible.

Disabled women represented 8.5 per cent of all working age women (ages 16 to 64) in 1981 or slightly more than 1 out of every 12 women in this age group, according to a fact sheet published by the women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Lake Bronson State Park is in central Kittson County, 15 miles east of Hallock on Highway 59. Camping, picnicking, beach, fishing and miles of trails are featured at the park. Campsite reservations are available by contacting the park between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 754-2200.

Hayes Days Will Be Held Aug. 3 At Hayes Lake Park

Hayes Lake State Park officials invite the public to attend Hayes Days, an afternoon of outdoor discovery at the park Sunday, August 3. There will be events taking place all afternoon at the dam. Brink your own picnic lunch and be a guest at an ice cream and blueberries social from 5 to 7 p.m.

Afternoon programs will feature the following presentations:

+ 1 to 2:15 p.m. — Discover berry delights. Area berry enthusiasts Clarice Billberg and Phyllis Larson will tell you where and when to look for woodland berries...blueberries, dewberries, chokecherries and more. Learn how to prepare your own berry delights.

+ 2:30 to 3:45 p.m. Meet the birds of prey. Daisy Ritter of the Twin Cities Raptor Research and Rehabilitation Program will bring a live owl, hawk and falcon for you to meet and find out more about their life in the wild.

+ 4 to 5:15 p.m. — Take home tips & techniques for nature photography. Alice Hofstad, successive winner in the Northland Nature Photography Contest, will show you how to capture that special outdoor experience on film.

On display will be a collection of mounted walleye and northern pike caught in Hayes Lake by Bob and Patsy Prosser of Lake Bronson.

These events are brought to you by the Agassiz Regional Environmental Education Council, the Wannaska Lions and Hayes Lake State Park. All park programs are free of charge although a vehicle permit is required on all cars entering Minnesota State Parks. For more information, call Hayes Lake State Park at 425-7504.

Chippewa Forest Campground Made For Handicapped

Several Chippewa National Forest campgrounds spurs have been modified to accommodate physically handicapped forest visitors. The following campgrounds have modified spurs, said Forest officials.

Webster Lake Campground — Blackduck Ranger District — one spur; Chippewa Campground — Cass Lake Ranger District — six spurs; O-Ne-Gum-E Campground — Deer River Ranger District — two spurs; Clubhouse Lake Campground — Marcell Ranger District — one spur; and Stony Point Campground — Walker Ranger District — one spur.

Conveniences at the Chippewa Campground include flush toilets. Other campgrounds have vault toilets.

Hard-surfaced trails — leading to water pumps, toilet buildings and — in some cases — to the lake — have been constructed for wheelchair access at some campsites. Easy access to fire gates, picnic tables and toilets has been provided.

Parking area and trails to the well, and toilets have been blacktopped at the Rabideau CCC Camp Historic Site, south of Blackduck.

Most campgrounds on the Chippewa National Forest are open from mid-May through Labor Day weekend.

For more information about specific campgrounds, contact District Rangers at District Offices in Blackduck (218-835-4291), Cass Lake (218-335-2283), Deer River (218-246-2123), Marcell (218-832-3161) and Walker (218-547-1044).

SPRINTING TO THE finish line, these 4-5-year-olds ran in the 50-meter dash during Tuesday's Thief River Falls summer track meet series at Prowler Field. Children and adults participated in the second of three meets in the summer series. The first summer meet was held June 17, and the third meet will be held August 19.

Moorhead, Dilworth In Title Series

Moorhead Blues will play Dilworth this weekend in a 2-out-of-3 game series for the Ninth District title and a trip to the 1986 American Legion state baseball tournament.

First meeting will be Saturday in Moorhead. Second game, and a third game, if needed, would be played Sunday in Dilworth. The winner will advance to the state tournament August 8-12 in Marshall.

Moorhead Blues won the six-team, double-elimination Ninth District Class AA title over the weekend in Crookston. Dilworth won the Ninth District Class A tournament title Tuesday at Karlstad.

Eight-team, double-elimination Class A tournament, after completing two rounds of play Saturday and Sunday, resumed Monday when Dilworth beat Breckenridge 8-1 in the winner's bracket and Frazee stopped Audubon-Lake Park 6-3 in the loser's bracket.

Tuesday, Breckenridge eliminated Frazee 10-4, but lost in the finals to Dilworth 3-2 in eight innings.

This is the fourth year of two-class baseball in the Ninth District, with Class AA teams winning all three previous playoff meetings with the Class A winners. Moorhead Blues beat Battle Lake for the 1983 state tournament trip; Crookston defeated Norman County West in 1984; and East Grand Forks topped Breckenridge in 1985.

Dead and unmerchantable cull trees once thought to be valueless in the woods have begun to show their value. Over 70 different species of birds, mammals, reptiles and amphibians use such trees in Minnesota. Animals use the trees for dens, nesting, perches and food sources. Without these trees many of these species would not survive for long, report officials in the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry.

Department of Natural Resources, realizing the value of dead trees, is leaving a few snag trees per acre on timber sales. These trees may cause the sales to have a messy unfinished look but the animals who use the trees will benefit from the efforts.

Landowners who want to maintain habitat for some of these animals can do so by leaving two or three dead or old living trees per acre when cutting. In wood lots where dead and down trees are cleaned up for firewood it is wise to leave a few as snags. Often the best trees to leave for wildlife are trees with little value for other uses. Big trees with holes, rotten centers and numerous branches provide some of the best habitat.

For more information on managing your wood lot for multiple uses, contact a nearby DNR office.

Scout Families Take Part In Old Mill Camping

Cub scouts, their families, and guests from Cub Scout Pack 199 at St. John Lutheran church, participated in a weekend of family camping at Old Mill State Park on July 25, 26 and 27. The event was well attended with representation from Den 1, Den 2-4, Den 3, Den 8 and Den 9.

Scheduled activities included swimming, a picnic lunch and supper, a hike on the Agassiz nature trail, fry bread for a snack, and a campfire.

A tour of the mill and the miller's cabin, guided by Leonard Anderson, park manager, proved to be a highlight of the day's activity.

Following a short concert by Art Heinze on his harmonica, Karlyn Berg, a researcher on wolves and wolf behavior, gave a presentation that was both interesting informative for the public and the scouts.

Sunday crafts were enjoyed as the scouts and their families learned how to make sun prints from the park naturalist.

The event was co-chaired by Art Heinze, Winton Dahlin and Roger Golby.

Air Traffic Control Has Storied History

by Rita Cipalla
Smithsonian News Service

Archie League and his wheelbarrow were an unmistakable sight in St. Louis that summer of 1929. Hired by the city to organize air traffic at Lambert field, the former airplane mechanic decided to pile his "equipment" — two flags, an umbrella and a chair — into a wheelbarrow and push it from one runway to the other. Each time a plane was ready for takeoff or landing, Archie would trot out to the end of the runway, pull out the signal flags and go to work, indicating to the pilot that he was cleared to go or was to hold his position.

For those long stretches between flights, Archie could be seen ensconced in his portable chair under a huge beach umbrella. Archie League was one of America's first "air traffic controllers."

Archie and his wheelbarrow are a far cry from today's sophisticated air traffic controllers. Today, half of the federal aviation administration's 50,000-strong work force guides more than 15,000 commercial aircraft flights daily from one location in the United States to another, safely delivering some 350 million travelers a year to their destinations. Controllers staff 400 towers at airports nationwide, 23 air route traffic control centers providing en route and area traffic control and 300 flight service stations, which feed flight-plan information into the centers and towers and provide briefing services to the pilots.

At their disposal is an amazing array of high-tech navigational and communications systems, for their job requires unerring precision to prevent mid-air and on-the-ground collisions, to ensure a fast, orderly flow of traffic and to provide advice and information.

On July 6 — the date the U.S. Department of Commerce took control over the rapidly expanding field — the industry celebrated 50 years of air traffic control. But its real beginning goes back to the late teens, says R.E.G. Davies, curator of air transport and of an anniversary exhibit at the Smithsonian's national air and space museum in Washington, D.C.

"Air traffic control in the United States," Davies explains, "actually grew out of the airmail service which inaugurated its first route — from Washington, D.C., to New York — on May 15, 1918. Two years later, coast-to-coast airmail service had begun." Airmail service, in turn, spurred the demand for planned landing fields to replace the often grassless strips or meadows and their primitive wind-direction indicators.

As traffic grew, however, "flag men" were stationed on the runway to direct the planes, and rooftop signals let a pilot flying overhead know that he was on course. At night, bonfires served as guides across the lonely landscape. In an effort to make night flying safer, a series of powerful revolving beacons were installed about 10 miles apart to provide pilots with a visible highway between cities — a useful tool in clear weather. By the end of 1925, the entire coast-to-coast route was illuminated.

"Many airmail pilots were experienced, seat-of-the-pants types who felt they didn't need to use the lighted highway system," Davies says. "But the lighted airway was a great help to inexperienced pilots and, even more important, it marked the first step toward realizing that aircraft had to be aided from the ground."

By 1925, airmail service was becoming increasingly popular. The post office was faced with an important decision: Was it in the airplane or the postal business?

The answer led to the passing of the Kelly Act of 1925, transferring the responsibility of flying the mail to independent contract carriers — a system still used today. That bill and subsequent amendments, combined with the development of passenger-carrying aircraft such as the Ford Tri-Motor and the dramatic impact of passenger-carrying aircraft such as the Ford Tri-Motor and the dramatic impact of Charles Lindbergh's 1927 trans-Atlantic flight, gave commercial aviation a big lift.

Each city was normally responsible for control of its municipal airport, but progress was sometimes slow in coming. "At Chicago," Davies says, "three signalmen had the unenviable task of standing at the point of intersection of the main runways, giving signals to aircraft with colored flags."

Advances are being made, however, in the quantity and quality of navigational equipment. Low-frequency-range radio beacons were installed as an experiment in 1926 at Hadley Field, N.J., and at Bellefonte, PA. These beacons enmitted an intermittent radio signal in a Morse code pattern of A's (dot-dash) or N's (dash-dot). If a pilot was on course, the sounds merged to produce a continuous tone. If one sound began to predominate, the pilot knew that he was drifting off course — and in what direction — and he would turn his plane until he once again heard the unbroken tone. Within five years, the entire New York-San Francisco route was equipped with radio range stations.

The first two-way radio communications control tower was established in 1930 at Cleveland Municipal airport, an important air traffic center located on the main route from New York to Chicago. "Its control tower marked the first time that pilots could communicate directly with airport personnel," Davies says. By 1932, almost all airline aircraft were equipped with two-way radio communications.

Realizing the importance of coordinating air traffic control efforts, the principal airlines using the Chicago and Newark airports met in 1935 and set up the first air route traffic control center in an unused loft near the Newark airport. The center controlled air traffic in a 50-mile radius.

Although its first pilots objected to being told "how to fly" by men on the ground, the idea caught on. By mid-1937, eight air traffic control centers existed coast-to-coast, operating 12 to 16 hours a day. Each handled approximately 30,000 aircraft movements during that first year.

The early air traffic controller's basic tools were a map table and a blackboard. Markers were used on the map table to indicate the position of each aircraft, while flight data were written on the blackboard. Later, paper strips noting key flight data (flight number, route and altitude) in moveable holders replaced the blackboard. The holders were pushed along a plotting board each time a pilot radioed in his position.

Advances in air traffic control during the 1930s were matched by developments in aircraft technology. The newer airliners, such as the twin-engined DC-3, were faster, quieter and more comfortable. With more traffic in the sky, industry advocates began calling for more government control, and in 1936 the federal government stepped in.

With war on the horizon, the government in 1941 launched an air traffic control training program, and for the first time, women were brought into the service.

Hazel Jones, a Dallas, TX pilot, worked as an air traffic controller for 27 years, beginning in 1945. "At my station," she recalls, "I would write down a pilot's position report, call it in to the air-route traffic center where a clearance was issued, write down the clearance and then call it back to the pilot. Every time information was repeated, the chances of making an error were increased."

In preparation for possible air attacks before World War II, the British installed radar, which found its way into air traffic control. The first radar-equipped control tower began operating in 1946 in Indianapolis. Radar was ideal for keeping track of aircraft in crowded terminal areas, Davies says, and within a few years, radar approach and departure control was available at major airports. Another key system, visual omni-range or VOR, enabled pilots to tune into a guiding beam.

By 1951, radar began to supersede a pilot-reported position by radio as the primary traffic surveillance aid. Cancellations of flights because of weather had been reduced by more than 50 per cent and missed approaches by 70 per cent. Airports could now handle up to 17 aircraft movements per hour.

In the 1950s, long-range radars covering a radius of 200 miles were installed. By the 1960s, highly automated en route centers using radar, transponders, digital computers and displays were being used. Congestion at big city airports became a serious problem as demand for air travel soared, but this was eased temporarily in the 1970s with the new wide-bodied jet airliners — Boeing 747s, McDonnell Douglas DC-10s and Lockheed Tristars — which carried twice as many people as their predecessors.

Air traffic continues to grown, however, and in 1981, the FFA developed the National Airspace System Plan to modernize and improve air traffic control and airway facilities services until the year 2000. Covering approximately 90 projects and costing almost $12 billion, the plan will help to meet the future growth needs of the air traffic control system. Archie League would be proud to be a part of it all.

"When opportunity knocks" is a phrase that both excites and haunts. If we hear it knocking there is excitement over what it will be.

But the poets, philosophers, and experiences haunt us with the "lostness of opportunity." That is, her hair is on her forehead and we must grab opportunity from the front because once passed, she has no hair behind to grasp. And we miss the opportunity offered.

> A 10th century proverb haunts even more:
> "He that will not when he may,
> When he will shall have nay."

But Francis Bacon takes the "luck" out of opportunity. Said he, "A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds." There's the key! Opportunity does not so much knock on our doors as we must knock on her door.

> A wiser Man than all the rest put it this way:
> "Ask, and it will be given you;
> Seek and you will find;
> Knock, and it will be opened to you."
> (Matthew 7:7)

Hints For Homeowners

New Siding Improves Home's Value, Appearance

Added value and lasting beauty are just two of the rewards you can expect for keeping up the appearance of your home. There are several ways to enhance your exterior decor, but one alternative offers more advantages than many others.

Any style of home can benefit from a new coat of paint. Yet painting the exterior of your home can take time, can be dangerous and expensive, and has to be repeated every few years. Vinyl siding offers many advantages over painted wood and metal siding:

- It doesn't dent, like metal.
- It resists industrial pollution. Such natural conditions as salt air won't harm it. It doesn't rust or corrode, like metal.
- Your home can actually be quieter with vinyl than with metal siding because it tends to muffle sounds.
- It protects your home year-round.
- Soap and water is all you'll ever need to keep it looking new.

One vinyl siding comes with a lifetime warranty covering material and labor if the product should ever be defective. Though this T-lok® Traditional™ vinyl siding made by Mastic looks like freshly painted wood, it never needs painting.

No matter how old—or what style—your home, keeping up its exterior appearance can increase its value.

Vinyl accessories, which include shutters, window mantles, corner posts and a decorative door surround can complete a home's new look and should be contemplated when considering the design opportunities your home presents. With the cost of homes nearly tripling every ten years, according to one source, it may be more important than ever to protect that most valuable asset — your home.

For free information write Mastic Information Center, Dept. NF, P.O. Box 213, St. Joseph, MI 49085.

IMPLANT LENSES

There is a lot of confusion about some terms used in eye surgery—cataracts, implants, transplants, contacts—the whole subject is a "blur" to most people.

An implant is a lens that is surgically placed inside the eye at the time of cataract surgery. In cataract surgery, the normal human lens is removed from the eye because it has become cloudy. In the absence of the human lens, the lens implant is needed for focusing. The lens implant, also called intraocular lens, allows the patient to have good vision without wearing contact lenses or the thick glasses that used to be worn after cataract surgery.

The lens implant is permanent, and never needs to be removed or cleaned, since it is inside the eye. They are very small, only about one-fourth inch, but are designed to be held firmly in place. Lens implants are made of a special type of plastic, and come in different powers to correct for nearsightedness or farsightedness.

Improvements in lens implants are only one of the great advances that have been made in modern cataract surgery, allowing the great majority of cataract patients to have a rapid return to excellent vision.

Who Should Control Children?

Sally D. Reed is founder and executive director or an organization called the National Council for Better Education, a Washington-based research and education foundation. A former Texas school teacher, she has written a book charging leftist policies in the National Education association. The following article by Reed was submitted to the Times for our consideration. We believe it presents an interesting viewpoint and invite public opinion comments from our readers in response. Reed writes as follows:

What do the National Education association's (NEA) union officials say about parents who want to exercise a role in their children's education?

First, it calls them fascists and hate-mongers. Says Terry Herndon, former NEA executive director (and still a force in its management), "I say to you that a cohort of chronic tax-resisters, congenital reactionaries, dangerous witch hunters, energized super patriots, wayward dogma peddlers and vitriolic race haters have coalesced into a sophisticated political force that has nearly overwhelmed a too comfortable and too stale progressive political movement."

In other words, if you don't agree with the policies of the union hierarchy and want to exercise some say in your own child's education, you're a bigot and a crazy man. Those opposed to the NEA's leftist political goals (nuclear freeze, gay rights, abortion on demand, Equal Rights Amendment, etc.) are said to be racists and reactionaries.

Months ago the NEA launched another attack on parent's rights in the name of a campaign to control "censorship."

Now "censorship" is a legal term which refers to banning books. I do not favor censorship. But censorship is not what is at issue in the classrooms. Rather, the question is: who gets to choose which books are placed in curricula and libraries, who decides just what values and ideas are transmitted to our children?

Understood this way, censorship is simply a matter of opinion. Should the NEA's union officials decide what books your children read? Should the government decide? Or should parents and elected school boards decide? This question has nothing to do with an author's right to publish. It has everything to do with parent's rights to control the education of their children.

For the NEA heirarchy, when its bureaucrats decide the curriculum, that's "academic freedom." When parents decide, that's "censorship." Also the NEA has a very selective view of censorship. It regards any attempt to remove obscene or filthy texts from classrooms as censorship. But, it remains silent as feminists rewrite the Bible to remove "sexist" references, or black power groups rewrite Huckleberry Finn to delete "racist" imagery.

Parents, let's face it. We have allowed these so-called experts to censor our children's textbooks of practically all absolute values, morality, and individual liberties. In this process, much academic content and good old-fashioned patriotism has also been "censored."

The NEA is developing its own acceptable curriculum which includes courses inveighing against the arms race and current administration policies such as their curriculum on nuclear war entitled "Choices: A Unit on Conflict and Nuclear War." "Choices" (written by the NEA and Union of Concerned Scientists) portrays the United States as the instigator of virtually every new arms race development. They would have our kids believe the Soviets simply react to acts of aggression by the United States. But books favorable to the present defense policies (peace through strength) are systematically, though quietly — should we say the word? — censored. Yes. the NEA's union officials support censorship — as long as they are the ones doing the censoring.

Who has control of the kids anyway? . . . Think about it.

Charges . . . Counter Charges

No doubt about it, the political funny season is well upon us again. With only a few weeks until the September primary election (September 9) and just over three months to the general election November 4, hopeful candidates are seeking to win voters to their support. Campaigning takes on a number of faces.

It is generally conceded that the incumbent has an edge in most elections because of the reluctance of most voters to disturb the status quo. Making a change is unsettling and any untried candidate, regardless of previously established abilities and qualifications, is an unknown quantity. Therefore, the challenger must seek to establish identity, familiarity and acceptance for himself or herself.

Along with establishing that acceptance, it is also necessary for a challenger to convince the public that a change should be made. This is done to some extent by attempting to discredit what the incumbent has done on behalf of the voters or to charge that little if anything has been done. To this end, it is helpful for candidates to utilize whatever might be available from other sources.

Not only political challengers use this tactic. Incumbents who have challengers with some type of public record are also eager to attempt to show weaknesses in their opponent. The voting public, caught in the middle of this maneuvering, must decide for itself what material is valid and what is not. Making that decision is not always easy because the sources of information are not always familiar nor is their credibility established.

Don Homuth, press secretary for the campaign of state Sen. Collin Peterson for the seat presently held by U.S. Congressman Arlan Stangeland, states the situation well when he writes: "If one wishes to examine specific issues, then the legislator must be asked about the specific votes, what they meant and what his or her rationale is for the votes."

Homuth noted this in defense of his candidate who had been accused by the incumbent of having the lowest rating among Minnesota senators on votes favorable to business. The rating had been made by the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry on selected votes which MACI deemed to be important to business. MACI is a rather large organization with a certain amount of status in the state but certainly a special if not biased interest in legislation. Voters may choose to give credibility to the rating or not.

Press secretary Homuth points out candidtly that "There will undoubtedly be organizations from our side of the campaign who will rate Arlan Stangeland the same way." Again, it will be up to the voters to decide the credibility of any such ratings.

The best we can suggest after seeing many of these politically-motivated ratings and rankings is to consider the source. Some "organizations" are in name only and created exclusively to make a "study" and release the "findings" which are already predetermined. The situation is contrived and the objective is obvious — to discredit one candidate and elevate another.

But then, that's politics.

To The Editor:

It seems like the elk herd at Grygla is making much of the head-lines in our local paper. The DNR cannot keep them out of the farmers' fields, and trying to catch them has been suicidal. And to relocate them at the Red Lake Indian Reservation would be like getting a fox to guard the chicken house door.

I produced rodeo for 7 years in the 1950s and know what a good quarter horse and a cowboy can do with a rope.

This is my plan, and it might work. At least it's worth a try. Go out to western North Dakota or Montana and contract for a dozen or more horses and ropers and set a date for the catch. I'm sure if you could get the elk out into the open and turn the cowboys loose they would have twenty or more tied up in less than an hour. Then you could put those helicopters to good use. They could lower a basket type deal that you could put three or more elk in at the time to bring them into the catch pen. As to the cost, I am sure it would only be a fraction of what has been spent already. And if the DNR would set up a ticket stand and charge admission to watch they might even come out with money to the good. I don't think the cowboys would charge too much. They would do it for the sport of it.

Now where should we move the herd to? Anyone knows Red Lake is too close. It would have to be 200 miles or more. Maybe the Iron Range would want them, some national park, or send them to the Bad Lands in North Dakota. But I would like to see the elk herd stay where they are but reduce them to a more manageable number. Let us say 10 or 12; 10 does and two bucks and also to reimburse the farmers for feeding them.

Like now this fall have an elk hunt and reduce them down. DNR can pick the number. Now who is going to do the shooting? My way of thinking would be to sell, let us say 1,000 tickets at a $1 a piece to only eligible hunters in the north half of the state.

Then set a date at Grygla for the drawing. If you want to reduce the herd by 30 head draw 30 names. They would be the winners and entitle them to an elk, and the lucky winners would be charged a fee at least enough to pay farmers for feed. This drawing should be public.

TIPS ON TRIPS

Many stores now have a one-stop-shopping display of handy travel appliances.

Children are particularly prone to motion sickness. Light meals should be eaten two or three hours before setting out. If you're going by car, it's better for youngsters with this ailment to sit up front where the ride is less bumpy.

Looking for a bunch of handy travel-size appliances? One leading electronics manufacturer figured it would be nice if you could get all the products you need in just one stop, without walking from department to department in a store.

The one-stop-shopping solution for the busy executive traveler or anyone who might have to pack for a trip on just a few hours notice can be the display of Remington's Travel Plus™ products. These include the only men's cordless shaver that also plugs into a car's cigarette lighter, as well as a ladies' cordless travel shaver, 700 watt steam iron, compact turbo hair dryer, the world's smallest personal rechargeable flashlight and a quartz alarm clock.

PAYING A FIFTH VISIT to the United States, Fride Lina Kildal was a special guest recently of a number of second and third cousins in the area. This photo was taken at the Clarence Amiot residence where she stopped long enough for a newspaper interview. Fride Lina will be going to work at the U.S. embassy in Oslo as soon as she gets back from her American tour.

Fride Lina Kildal Makes Fifth Visit To United States

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Fride Lina Kildal, a second or third cousin of more than a dozen people in the Thief River Falls and Newfolden areas, spent a few days in this area recently during a month-long tour of the United States. It was the fifth visit to this country by the 24-year-old who will go to work for the United States embassy in Oslo immediately following her return to Norway.

She was encouraged to apply for the embassy position, filled out a six-page application form and was accepted soon after. She will be working as one of six people in the areas of visas, immigration and emigration, with two of the six assigned to each of the three areas.

The post seems a natural for Fride Lina because she speaks five languages and is extremely fluent in English, the most used international language. In addition to her native Norwegian and excellent English, she learned German well while living a year in that country, speaks Danish as a result of spending a number of summers in Denmark and has also learned French through private lessons.

It is sometimes easy to become confused, she said, such as the time she was attempting to carry on a conversation in English with the person on one side of her and in German with a person on the other side, all the time fighting the impulse to think in Norwegian.

She was in the United States for the first time in 1980 when she spent two months here while still a high school student. This is her fourth return since that first trip and she has enjoyed meeting and staying with a number of relatives.

Cousins in Thief River Falls include Avis and Howard Hoium, Clara Bakke, Vernice and Leo Nelson, Dennis and Karon Bakke and Betty and Clarence Amiot. Those in Newfolden area are Henry Engelsrud, Anna Engelsrud, James and Leola Engelsrud, Ruby Engelsrud, Eunice and Rodney Liedberg, Beverley and Leslay Folden, Janette and Doug Weber, Oscar and Tillie Amundsen and Rolland and Doreen Amundsen.

Fride Lina has a degree in German from the university in Oslo and has

Pool Committee Drops Pursuit Of Downtown Sites

Tuesday night the Thief River Falls swimming pool committee decided to withdraw its pursuit of the sites at Washington school and Floyd B. Olson park.

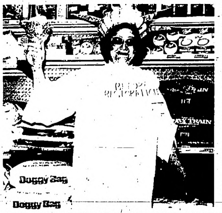
This decision followed a report by the site and design committee that there was inadequate land available at the Washington site and that although the survey at the fair ran very strongly in favor of the Floyd B. Olson park, there was a lot of resistance from area residents and members of St. Bernard's church located across the street from the park. The design committee will be seeking site guidance from the park and recreation board on August 4.

In other business, the swimming pool committee reported great success at the county fair, discussed the formation of a 500 club for contributors, and acknowledged a pledge by the Thief River Falls evening Lions club to contribute $500. Also, the Dairy Queen will be donating the proceeds of its ice cream cone sales on Saturday, August 2, and Hairlines Unlimited is currently pledging 50 cents for every customer to the pool fund.

Fair Directors Make Plans For 1987 Exposition

Review of the 1986 Pennington county fair and presentation of ideas to improve the 1987 fair will take place when the Pennington county fair association board meets Monday, August 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

Fair board secretary Floyd Erickson described the meeting as a "must" for those fair board members or division superintendents who want to accomplish changes or secure support for other improvements next year. The meeting is for all directors, directors at large and others interested in the fair.



MARGE NESS at Hartz Market in Thief River Falls won first place in her costume during crazy days Thursday in Thief River Falls.

Kolseths Chosen As Conservation Farmers In 1986

Carl and Elmer Kolseth of Wyandotte township have been chosen for the Pennington county conservation farm award for 1986. They will be honored at the Pennington soil and water conservation district's annual banquet next spring and will also be guests at the annual convention held in December.

Townships included in this year's contest area were North, Silverton, Cloverleaf, Kratka, Smiley, Rocksbury and Wyandotte.

DESPITE OWN HARDSHIP, area farmers quickly worked together and came up with 104 round bales of hay, which weigh from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds each, for ranchers and farmers in the drought and heat stricken South. Six train car loads of hay from Pennington and Marshall county will join a 100-car train and travel to Montgomery, Alabama where it will be distributed.

Area Farmers Donate Hay To Help Alabama

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Hay donated by farmers in Pennington and Marshall counties to farmers around Montgomery, AL, carries only one condition: It must be distributed free and fairly. It is one of their ways, despite local agricultural adversity, of being neighborly.

Within hours of hearing that their assistance was needed to help farmers in the South survive the heat and drought, area farmers donated 104 bales of round hay. The hay filled six railroad box cars and will joint a train of 100 cars, the transportation costs of which are completely donated by the Soo Line railroad. The chamber of commerce in Thief River Falls was told about the free train early last week and began organizing the hay lift immediately, with obvious success.

Larry Belmont, chamber president, said the word quickly went out from Cecil Anderson, chamber of commerce director and several other chamber of commerce members. Early Friday morning organizers were not sure how many cars they would have, but thought it would be at least two cars. They were surprised when they filled six.

One farmer at the haylift said he didn't mind helping other farmers in need even thought it meant taking a half day of work off plus spending the transportation cost in moving the round bales of hay he donated from his farm to the railroad. He hopes, though, that "sometime, someday, someone will do the same for me."

Other farmers repeated his sentiment. Few cared to be identified as a spokesman. After all, the purpose was to help others, not take credit for what they donated. And everything was donated — hay, tractors, time, sweat and hard work.

Belmont said the chamber had been thinking of doing something like this for awhile, but was unable to come up with a cheap way of transporting hay to the south. The chamber is still thinking of donating hay to a city the same size as Thief River Falls. Waynesboro, GA, is the city they had in mind.

"If there is a message we want to send," Belmont said, "it would be that we have plenty of hay available. But, we need help and cooperation with transportation."

All of the farmers donating hay realize that their donation is only a drop in the bucket. But, perhaps, if everyone helped, the bucket wouldn't be so empty. If one bale weighs from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds and one cow eats 33 to 35 pounds of hay per day, a larger herd will make short work of the donation. A herd of 200 cows could go through 100 of the large round bales in about 16 days. But the farmers are not worried or thinking small; they also have other concerns.

There are other considerations that need to be addressed. Hay is available in the South, but one farmer said it is going for up to $200 per bale. One bale of hay will normally cost $25 per bale or $40 to $50 per ton. "If someone tries to make a profit off of the hay that is donated by area farmers," the farmer

KIYOSHI TANABE of Tokyo, Japan, came back to the United States and Thief River Falls after 30 years especially to attend the reunion of the Lincoln high school graduating class of 1956. Kiyoshi was the first exchange student in Thief River Falls under the American Field Service program and attended classes with the 1956 graduating class.

Kiyoshi Is "Home" For Reunion Of LHS 1956 Class

Kiyoshi Tanabe came half-way around the world to attend his class reunion in Thief River Falls — reuniting with students he knew for only one school year but remembered quite well after a 30-year absence.

The first exchange student in Lincoln high school under the American Field Service program, Kiyoshi was listed as a senior at Lincoln, a member of the graduating class of 1956. He was involved in student government as an honorary vice president of the student senate and lived with the Roy Barzen family. The Barzens later had several other exchange students from different countries.

Since his association with the class of 1956, Kiyoshi has been in his native Japan. He is now employed for a business which is associated with General Electric, applying use of jet engines in operation of navy ships. He has been with the same company for the past 20 years and has made several trips back to the United States, but never coming closer to Thief River Falls than the General Electric facilities in Ohio.

On this trip he will go on to Las Vegas, NV, where his American "brother" Frank Barzen now lives. Kiyoshi corresponded for some time with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barzen until their deaths, and since that time with Frank Barzen and with Vangie Torkelson of Spokane, WA, who visited him in Tokyo a few years ago. Myron Hafdahl of the class also visited him, along with several students who were sophomores and juniors while he was in the Lincoln senior class.

After 30 years he found the community of Thief River Falls to be changed but not as much as he had expected. "I still recognized many places, streets and buildings," he said. "It was easier to recognize them than the students," he smiled, noting the change in his former classmates.

Local Farm Families Host Norwegians In 4-H Exchange

by Sharon LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

Two rural Thief River Falls families were hosts to Norwegian exchange students for three weeks this summer. The Leonard Rondorfs and Robert Rausches were both enthusiastic supporters of the program that enabled them to share their homes with a Norwegian boy and girl June 29 to July 21. The program, International 4-H Exchange, provides an environment for people of different cultures to establish a close relationship through personal encounters in the home; provides an atmosphere where people may learn to know and appreciate another people and their culture, and better understand their own culture; and seeks to promote friendship among families.

The program is sponsored by the University of Minnesota Agriculture Extension service, through the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The two students in Pennington county were accompanied by 35 other Norwegian students, 28 of whom stayed in homes in Minnesota, and seven in North Dakota.

The Robert Rausch family has participated in the exchange program for six years. This is their first student from Norway. They previously had four students from Japan and one from Mexico. The family consists of Bob and Marilyn, and children, Monica, age 18; Wayne, 17; Melissa, 14; Chris, 7; and Roger, 18, a friend of the family who is living with them for the summer. They have a dairy farm of about 600 acres, with 150 cows.

Their exchange student was Anne (pronounced Anna) Kari Berre. While with the Rausches, Anne did not help with barn chores because she was not used to doing this at home. Her father runs a dairy farming operation too, and there the sons help their father with his work, and the girls help their mother. She helped Marilyn and the girls with housework and in the kitchen, and with the goats that the children raise.

Both Marilyn and Bob celebrated their birthdays while Anne was there, July 2 and 19, and she baked each of them a Norwegian "Celebration Cake." You will find the recipe in today's Kitchen Karnival section of the Times. This is a cake that is served for special occasions in Norway. Since Anne not only used metric measurements, but also pinches of ingredients, Marilyn graciously adapted it to our units of measure.

Marilyn said the family misses Anne very much — the house seems extra quiet because "the boys don't have anyone to pick on now." She said Anne came to enjoy the joking and teasing of a large family and fit in very well, even though they don't tease or joke very much in Norway. Anne plans to return for a visit some day and the Rausches plan to have another exchange student again next year.

The Rondorfs participated in the exchange program for the first time this year. The family consists of Leonard and Sylvia; Tony, 17; Craig, 15; and Stacy, 13. They raise hogs and grain on their farm, and manage another hog operation as well. Their exchange student was Harald Mjølnerød. Since Harald's father raises hogs, cattle, horses and chickens, he had no problem adjusting to the Rondorf farm.

Sylvia said he pitched right in with the work and was a real "go-getter." The first couple of days he was homesick, but that soon passed. "He fit right in with my own family. He was a very nice, friendly boy and was always ready to sit down and talk or listen to anyone. We enjoyed sharing the different viewpoints of our families and talking about the differences in farming operations and methods," she said.

Sylvia said the family felt the length of the visit was entirely too short. "We just got into the swing of things. I wish he could have stayed three months." Harald did ask if he could come and visit them again though, and Tony plans on going to Norway to visit Harald in the future.

Anne and Harald stopped in the Times office to have their pictures taken the morning before they left for Minneapolis. Anne said she is 17 years old and has three brothers and a sister, all older than herself. She lives near Ørland, in the central part of Norway, where her father is a dairy farmer. He will attend a trade school in the fall, planning to take up business management. In Norway, children attend school from ages seven to 16, after which they can attend technical schools and colleges that give training in specific areas. All Norwegian students are taught English in grades 4, 5 and 6, so both she and Harald had no problem communicating.

Anne said she had never been to America before, but had traveled to England with her church choir. She belongs to the Norwegian Christian church, and found services attended with Rausch family at St. Bernard's Catholic church to be quite different. Norway doesn't have many Catholic churches, so she had never attended a mass before, but the unusual thing she found was the amount of people compared to church size. She said her church at home is much larger and three stories high, with a congregation of about 60. St. Bernard's has a seating capacity of 400, and is usually filled for Sunday services.

Most Norwegians attend church only on special occasions such as baptisms, weddings, funerals, Easter and Christmas. Many believe in God and some type of life after death, but most are not intensely religious. Anne sometimes attends church twice a day, so her family seems to be an exception to the general population.

Harald attended Black River Lutheran church with the Rondorfs and was surprised at meeting so many people of Norwegian and Swedish descent. Sylvia said the Sunday they attended happened to be communion Sunday, and when they returned home Harald said the church was very nice, but "We don't drink in our churches at home."

Anne visited Itasca state park, Alexandria, Brainerd, Grand Forks and Walker, as well as taking a trip to Winnipeg with Harald and his host family. In Alexandria she enjoyed a reunion with Melissa Bauer of Grove City, who was an exchange student in Anne's home under the program five years ago. Anne's sister had been an exchange student in America four years ago. Harald was able to visit with a Viking family, the Duane Krohns, who were his brother's hosts six years ago.

While spending a day in Brainerd, Anne saw boat and car races, which she thought were exciting but noisy; attended a rodeo, especially enjoying the country music; and loved the fireworks display she saw that evening. The only disappointment of the day was when her camera was stolen from the Rausches car while they were at the beach. The thieves also took a camera and purses belonging to the Rausches.

Anne and Harald both enjoyed the Pennington county fair, even though they were both put to work in the 4-H food stand. Anne was awarded a blue ribbon in the advanced clothing division for the Norwegian dress that she made and embroidered herself. Her prize was a mug reading, "I Love Minnesota." The dress she exhibited was completely hand-made, fully-lined, with intricate embroidery. She made the dress for her confirmation and it is customary to wear it all day on Norwegian national holidays. Needless to say, she did not wear the all-wool dress the whole day on our national holiday of July 4.

When asked about American food, Harald stated he feels that too many hamburgers and cheeseburgers make many Americans heavier than Norwegians. Norwegians eat potatoes at every large meal, but not as much "fast food."

Anne said she found the food to be more spicy than at home, but still said her favorite food here was pizza, even though she has it in Norway too. Meals in Norway usually consist of one hot meal at noon or in the evening of boiled potatoes, vegetable, and chicken, pork or fresh fish. Anne said breakfast in her household is usually a variety of open face sandwiches with milk or coffee, and the evening meal is the same, with a larger noon meal.

Harald's family has cereal, one egg and toast for breakfast — never more than one egg each — "because of cholesterol, you know." His family eats potatoes twice a day. Most families have a snack before bedtime too. Bread is always homemade, and milk for Anne and Harald is fresh. Both use their knife and fork in the continental manner with knife in the right hand and fork in the left, continuously through the meal. And in Norway it is considered bad manners to leave anything on the plate.

The Rausches and Rondorfs visited Winnipeg with their guests. Because he raises and trains thoroughbred horses on his farm at home, Harald's keen eye for judging horse flesh certainly must have helped when he bet on the horse races. He said he won "five dollars, or seven or something like that," with a wise smile. On their one-day whirlwind trip, the two families also enjoyed the Museum of Man and Nature and the zoo, carrying picnic lunches along so they wouldn't have to miss a thing.

Harald is 19 years old and works on his home farm with his parents. He said he would love to be a farmer but may not have the chance to do so. In Norway, the right to purchase the family farm is given to the oldest son by law, so Harald will not have the chance to farm unless his older brother chooses not to exercise his right. It is very difficult to buy a farm outright as the purchaser must have one year of schooling in agriculture and must live on and farm the land for five years. Also, the eldest son still has the right to purchase the farm for its appraised value up to two years after it is sold.

Most farms are very small, with the average being 20 acres. Many farmers combine farming with second jobs. Harald's host brother, Tony, teased him that he could find a bride with a family farm and that way could have his own. Harald thought that sounded like a good idea, but was afraid his girl friend, Lena, might disagree. Neither Anne nor Harald is considering marriage. In Norway, marriage is rare before the age of 24 for men and 22 for women.

Harald's family lives outside of Halden in the southern part of Norway, 10 miles from the Swedish border. They farm about 100 acres of hilly land. Harald noted that farms here are much larger than in Norway. There the largest farms are about 300 acres. The government controls commodity prices by setting them for a two-year period. Pork and beef prices are three to four times those in the U.S. Wheat prices in Norway are about $12 per bushel ($2.50 in the U.S.).

There is little fluctuation from the set prices since the government owns the only grain company. The farmer-owned creamery and slaughtering companies also have legal monopolies. Also, there is a pricing system that gives more money per kilo of produce for that grown in districts where farming is especially difficult. This system has been set up to keep commodities healthy and prevent the outflux of people from north to south, as the northern areas are more mountainous and difficult to farm. Harald said he would much rather be a farmer in Norway than in America, because "you can make money in Norway with a farm."

He said he works from 6 a.m. to 8 or 9 p.m. each day, but receives a regular monthly wage from his father of $1,000. This would be $7 per hour if he worked an eight-hour day, but he was quick to point out that he works quite a few hours more than that.

Harald has two older sisters, 25 and 26, a younger brother, 15, and his older brother is 22. This brother is in Switzerland in his third year of military service. All young Norwegian men are obliged to serve in the military for about 15 months. Harald expects his military induction papers to arrive at any time. He says when he finishes his service, he may return to trade school to become a carpenter. His first love is farming, but if he can't do that, he would like to work with wood.

He is very proud of his 1971 Ford Maverick, which he bought in Norway for $10,000. He said American cars are in great demand in Norway, but are very expensive. While here his big purchase was a chrome muffler for the car, which he said would cost $300 in Norway.

As far as differences between the two countries, both Anne and Harald noted that Norwegians have a more placid life-style. They said life seems to be slower-paced there, without the rush they noticed in America. Another difference noted is in the beachware. They said in Norway both men and women wear one-piece swim suits on public beaches - bottoms! In fact, Marilyn had to find a top for Anne's suit before she could swim with the family because she only brought bottoms on the trip, unaware of the different bathing habits of Americans.

Anne and Harald left Thief River Falls for Minneapolis July 21. They would stay overnight there and then begin their 10-hour plane trip back to Norway, both with many fond memories and hopes of returning, along with one chrome muffler and an unnecessary swim suit top.

Norwegian Celebration Cake

Beat 4 eggs at least 15 minutes with electric mixer, until very light, fluffy and high. When beating pretend they are egg whites — the higher they are, the better the cake. Use a grease-free stainless or glass bowl — never plastic, and do not use a plastic spatula. Gradually add: ¼ to 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla and ½ cup plus 1½ teaspoons sugar. Beat thoroughly. Then gently fold in by hand: 5 ounces plus 1½ teaspoons flour.

Lightly grease bottom only of two 8 or 9 inch round cake pans. (Do not bounce to remove air bubbles.) Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Do not overbake — use finger touch method of testing and remove from oven immediately when cake springs back.

While cake is baking, beat 1 pint whipping cream, adding enough sugar to be sweet, but not overly so.

Let cakes stand 5 minutes in pan, then remove one to your serving plate. Spread milk over the top with fingers, one teaspoonful at a time, just enough to moisten top (3 to 4 teaspoonfuls). Spread top of milk-moistened cake with whipped cream and then with sliced fresh strawberries. Place other layer on top and also spread with milk. Put more whipped cream on top and sides of cake. Sliced strawberries or slivered German sweet chocolate may be placed over top layer. Serve cake immediately as it is best when fresh.

Anne was a 4-H exchange student at the Bob Rausch home this summer. She baked this special celebration cake for two birthdays in their family. Norway uses the metric system, so Mrs. Rausch converted the measurements to ours, which explains why they are a lot unusual.

A story on Anne and the other exchange student in Pennington county, Harald Mjølnerød, who stayed with the Leonard Rondorf family, appears elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

Dear Readers,

If the family has had the foresight to become acquainted with the funeral director of their choice, and to plan calmly with him, the task of funeral arrangements is much easier in the hour of decision. However, if the selection must be made suddenly, the funeral director of your choice is still ready and able to offer much guidance and assume many responsibilities.

Respectfully,

MN/DOT Conducts Traffic Studies On Marshall Roads

Minnesota department of transportation will be conducting a traffic study on Marshall county roads beginning on July 28 and lasting until about August 8.

According to a Minnesota department of transportation traffic engineer, Mondy Eidem in Bemidji, rubber hoses and mechanical counters will be installed on county roads for 48 hours at various locations. As cars, trucks, tractors, or motorcycles pass over the hoses, a signal will trip the counters which automatically record the counts. After 48 hours, a department of transportation employee will record the counts and move the equipment to the next location.

Traffic counts are gathered on state highways every two years and on county roads every five years. The counts are adjusted to account for seasonal fluctuations and are used to plan and design future highway improvements. This data is also shared with county and city engineers and is made available to local officials and developers for planning purposes.

The Minnesota department of transportation is asking parents to explain the purpose of the rubber hoses to their children and ask that they not tamper with the equipment. Each year Minnesota department of transportation officials experience acts of vandalism, which result in extra costs to taxpayers in terms of repair and replacement of equipment and manpower costs to reset the test sites.

WORD WENT OUT AND FARMERS CAME THROUGH. Area farmers donated 104 round bales of hay for drought and heat stricken farmers in the South. Six train cars of hay from Pennington and Marshall county farmers will join a 100 car train of hay and travel to Montgomery, Alabama. The transportation cost is completely donated by Soo Line railroad.

Kiyoshi Tanabe 'Home' To Attend Class Reunion

Although the trip back to Thief River Falls cost about 240,000 yen, he said it was much less costly this year than it would have been a year ago. Devaluation of the dollar has reduced the number of yen to the dollar to 160 this year. Last year at this time it took 240 yen to equal a dollar.

It wasn't too difficult to arrange the time to make the trip, he said, although he did not intend to spend a great deal of time in the United States. He was in Thief River Falls only for the reunion activities Saturday and Sunday before moving on to Las Vegas for a short visit.

Kiyoshi is a graduate of the University of Tokyo and he and his wife have a daughter Yoko, 18 and son Tetsuya, 15. He said the direct flight from Tokyo to Los Angeles took nine hours, indicating the speed with which distance can be covered in the modern world.

Because he was an exchange student, Kiyoshi said he believed he had a better understanding of the United States and the feelings of people here and that he could explain them to the Japanese people that he knew.

"One year spent in the United States when I was very young was very influential in my life," he said. "I appreciated having the chance to be an exchange student here and the cooperation of the Barzen family in helping me and the other students who lived with them in later years."

Kiyoshi said he was also able to help U.S. students when they came to Japan to learn more about the country and appreciate some of its culture. He said he had done some work through the AFS program, served as vice president of the committee in Tokyo and expects to get back into that kind of work on a more active basis in the future. The most difficult thing, he said, is to raise money to support the exchange program.

It is interesting to see that the same problems exist from one country to another.

Fride Lina Kildal Makes 5th Visit To United States

also done quite a bit of work with computers. She said that students must earn their way to high school with good grades in elementary school and that completion of high school is necessary to get into college.

At the embassy Fride Lina said she will be employed by the U.S. government and as a result will be entitled to both U.S. and Norwegian holidays. She will also have the four weeks of paid vacation which is mandatory in Norway in addition to quite a good salary.

The work year in Norway is from May to May, she said, and those hired at any time of the year receive the four weeks of vacation pro-rated in accordance with the part of the year worked. The work week is 37.5 hours and the minimum wage is equivalent to about $3.50 per hour in U.S. funds. Hospital and medical service is free and dental care free to age 18.

Although many Norwegians have their own cars — including Fride Lina, who bought her American made Ford in Germany — having one is expensive. Driver education is required and 15 hours of instruction costs $15 to $20 per hour. Lifetime licenses to drive are issued at age 18 but are also expensive. Combined instruction and licensing costs can run from $1,500 to $2,000, she said. Gasoline costs about 75 cents per litre or $3 per metric gallon.

While in Germany for a year, she was able to travel to other countries including Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Malta, Netherlands, Belgium and Greece. Although soccer is the national sport, Fride Lina plays softball, sang in the American community choir and was a Girl scout leader for youngsters nine to 11 years old. She attempts to teach Norwegian culture in her scout work and draws on her experience as a Norwegian Girl Guide for a dozen years to help handle the American troop she leads.

Although she has been out of her native country frequently in visits to other lands, she has a strong pride and loyalty for Norway. "It is more international than people think," she said. "We have many companies with high technology and only nine per cent of Norwegians make their living farming when it formerly was 15 per cent. And Oslo is a beautiful city with 62 per cent of the city still in forest."

Several things made it easier for Fride Lina to come to the United States this time. The U.S. currency rate is lower and air fares are relatively affordable. A round trip ticket for Fride Lina from Oslo to New York and return cost about $450. In addition, she could purchase for $300 unlimited air travel in the United States for 60 days on any of half a dozen different airlines.

Because she likes to travel so well, she saves money that she would otherwise spend on such things as "going out" to use for travel. She likes the opportunity to meet new people and to practice her languages.

"It is fun to come to the United States because I have so many relatives I can visit," she said. "In recent years, only Henry Engelsrud has been to Norway to visit, and that was in 1974." She left Thief River Falls for Atlanta, GA, last Friday.

Farmers Donate Hay To Assist Southern States

said, it could jeopardize any future donations." Most of the farmers in the haylift believe it shouldn't cost Southern farmers anything, and that the hay should be donated fairly, and evenly. Area farmers believe that it will.

The chamber of commerce was not willing to overlook an opportunity to do a little advertising also. They took several bags of promotion materials and maps of the area and community and stuck them to some of the bales with long stakes. Perhaps someday the farmers in the South will be able to return the favor.

The chamber was also able to collect a list of those people who did contribute hay or their time, and they include: Henry Panek, Robert Peterson, Robert Rausch, Leonard G. Geske, Donald Rupprecht, Earl Hoefer, Doug Barth, Marvin Koop, Dale Koop, Dale Nelson, Lowell Dyrud, Hal Anderson, Mario Nelson, Kenneth Erickson, Lloyd Anderson, Duane Olson, Garrel Peterson, Peter Solem and Freeman Lanska.

Mitch Johnson and Terry Lubitz drove a Hydra-Mac skid loader. Bob Michalicek drove a tractor; Joe Ose provided the loader; Keith Schmalz provided the Hydra-Mac skid loader. Anderson Power and equipment a truck; and several chamber of commerce members were instrumental in organizing the effort.

While farmers in Pennington and Marshall counties have experienced difficult times for four of the last five years, they still believe that to survive these hard times they have to work together, farmers helping farmers.

Stumpf Skeptical Of Nuclear Waste Disposal Delay

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer said he is "still skeptical and concerned" over whether the federal government will reopen its search for a second nuclear waste repository, especially one located in northwestern Minnesota.

"A recent article in the Fargo Forum suggested that a lawsuit brought by the state of Washington against the federal Department of Energy (DOE) could threaten the moratorium on locating a secondary disposal site here," Stumpf said.

Washington state officials are suing the DOE to redraft its guidelines for a first repository site, and asking for the selection process to start over. They are also asking for the DOE to continue its search for a second repository, and they suggest that Minnesota granite formations may be the best place to look.

"I am very disturbed over this recent legal development," Stumpf said, "because two of the primary sites being considered for a second disposal site are in our own region."

Local opponents to the federal repository search believe that the DOE's announcement in May of a temporary suspension for a second site search was politically motivated.

"What this temporary delay has done is bought time for the DOE to cool down our opposition, speed up their own granite-testing activity and protect some pre-nuclear politicians during their reelection campaigns," Stumpf said.

"What we still need is a repeal of the entire nuclear waste repository act itself," Stumpf added. "This area may still be considered for a site in future years unless it is ended, now."

The senator said he also supports a recommendation for the DOE to consider above-ground storage of nuclear waste as a safer alternative to "bury-it-and-forget-about-it-until-later policies they have been pursuing."

It is believed that, should the state of Washington win its court fight against DOE, the issue of nuclear waste site selection would reemerge. It could again include Minnesota among those states under consideration for a first or secondary storage site.

Library Workshop Focuses On Young People's Section

Children and young people's section of the Minnesota Library association (MLA) has announced its plans to hold a workshop on September 19 at the Sunwood Inn and convention center in St. Cloud. The workshop is entitled "Our Future! Our Challenge! Libraries and the Preschooler" and will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Senate meeting room of the Sunwood Inn.

The workshop schedule includes a session on using music to enhance preschool programming, a panel discussion on establishing a library and day care connection, and a swap 'n' shop session of special preschool library programs in Minnesota. Displays of day care and library links in the state of Minnesota will be located in the same meeting room from 12 (noon) through 4 p.m.

A CYP business meeting and working lunch will be held from noon to 12 p.m. in the Congress meeting room of the Sunwood Inn. For more information, contact Heidi Hoks, Northwest Regional Library, 101 East First Street, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

When In Doubt . . . Tax It

No one seems to question that Minnesota, like all other states in the nation, has a problem with drugs being used and sold illegally. So the Minnesota legislature has looked the issue squarely in the eye, taken the initiative to effectively combat this serious threat, and done what it knows best how to do — levy a tax.

According to the Minnesota department of revenue, dealers of cocaine, heroin, marijuana or other illegal drugs will be required to buy state tax stamps. The new law went into effect August 1. A law was passed in the 1986 legislature that says no illegal drugs can be brought into the state by a dealer unless a tax stamp is attached to containers used to transport the drugs.

The law applies to any marijuana, whether real or counterfeit, and any illegal drug, whether real or counterfeit, that is held, possessed, transported, transferred, sold or offered to be sold in violation of Minnesota laws.

"Although these products were always subject to tax, we now have a mechanism to collect it," stated Dorothy McClung, director of the revenue department's legal and legislative affairs division. "The new law gives the revenue department authority to immediately assess this new tax if the drugs in the dealer's possession are not appropriately stamped."

It may be assumed that your everyday drug runner or street pusher isn't going to be such an upstanding citizen that he or she will rush right in to the revenue department to pick up a supply of tax stamps to avoid being in violation of this law. Even large wholesalers in illegal drugs will not be likely to wait in line at the revenue department, even if the bill provides that all information that dealers provide to the department of revenue is confidential and may not be used in a criminal court proceeding unless independently obtained.

Because voluntary compliance cannot be expected to be high, law enforcement agencies will notify the revenue department when someone is arrested with the minimum amount of marijuana or other illegal drugs in possession. The department may assess the tax whether or not the dealer is successfully prosecuted on other drug charges. In addition, the revenue department can assess a 100 per cent penalty. Amounts covered are 42½ grams of marijuana, seven or more grams of any illegal drugs or 10 or more dosage units of any controlled substance that is not sold by weight.

Stamps are being sold in denominations determined by package size for dosages, however, minimum purchases will be required. Rate for marijuana is $3.50 per gram with a minimum purchase of $150 worth of stamps; for a controlled substance by grams is $200 per gram with a required minimum purchase of $1,400 worth of stamps; and for dosage units is $200 per unit with a required minimum purchase of $2,000 worth of stamps.

Similar laws have been passed in Arizona and South Dakota, but the latter has been struck down by the courts because of possible self-incrimination.

"The South Dakota law was struck down for reasons we covered nicely in our law," McClung said. "There was the possibility of self-incrimination in the South Dakota law, but not under the Minnesota law. Ours is very tight."

The news release on the new law didn't state whether or not the tax was applicable to each dealer, but presumably that is so. Certainly that would drive the upper levels of illegal drug distributors out of Minnesota to states which have no such law, leaving only the street level dealers in the state. Otherwise, each person to handle the illegal materials would have to buy those pesky and expensive stamps.

Well, it's about time the state got tough with drug dealers. Making them subject to the same liabilities which other businesses face is no more than right. Drug dealers enjoy the same quality of life as the rest of us in the state and should share in its support.

Now, if we can only get the tongue out of our cheek....

Spy Should Get Law's Toughest Sentence

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

On Thursday, retired U.S. Navy radioman Jerry Whitworth was found guilty of espionage.

He had been accused of supplying communications secrets to convicted spy John Walker. Walker, in turn, sold the information obtained from Whitworth to the Soviet Union.

Walker and Whitworth were two members of the four-member spy ring whose activities allegedly so severly damaged Naval international communications that it will cost millions of dollars to undo the damage because new communication codes will have to be developed. During the trial, Navy secretary John F. Lehman Jr. said the cost to repair the network could cost as much as $100 million.

Other members of the spy ring were John A. Walker Jr., 46, Arthur J. Walker, 51, John's brother, and John's son, Michael L. Walker.

John Walker Jr. pleaded guilty to espionage in October 1985. Arthur Walker was convicted of stealing classified document and Michael Walker also pleaded guilty to espionage.

In addition to money, repair of the communications network will take the countless manhours and, the Navy says, years to implement.

Whitworth, 46, was found guilty on seven espionage charges and also on four counts of income evasion on $332,000 Walker paid him and on one count of conspiring with Walker to defraud the Internal Revenue Service.

Those convictions alone are punishable by a total of 17 years in prison.

Whitworth will be sentenced on Aug. 28 by Judge John Vukasin in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, Calif. Vukasin said when the convictions were handed down that he was willing to impose sentence on Whitworth immediately because almost all of Whitworth's life was documented during the trail. The judge added that he felt well acquainted with "his career, his personality and his beliefs."

The jury deliberated for eight days and delivered its verdicts on the ninth day. That process began July 11.

Navy spokesman said the information sold by the Walker spy ring provided the Soviets with the ability to unscramble much of the Navy's secret radio communications during the 1970s and 1980s.

Walker recruited Whitworth as a spy in 1974 and used him as his main source to obtain secret documents from the time Walker left the Navy in 1976 until Whitworth retired in 1983.

Walker said the Soviets were so pleased with Whitworth's work that they increased his pay from $1,000 a month to $4,000 a month.

Whitworth was a character whose Navy record of 25 years was spotless. He had unlimited access to codes and messages because he was so trusted.

Whitworth's trial lasted 10 weeks and about 150 witnesses took the stand.

Towards the end of the trial, Whitworth's defense conceded that Whitworth had sold secrets to Walker. He contended, however, that Whitworth was unaware that Soviets were involved.

Judge Vukasin said Whitworth had reason to believe that the information he was dealing with would harm the United States or help the Soviet Union.

A person of any reasonable degree of intelligence would have known that he was doing wrong. In an age when American patriotism seems to be on the upswing, it is disconcerting to discover that such a treacherous traitor lives in this nation. He is not the only one of his kind, it can reasonably be assumed, but his trial and the attention it gained may be enough to convince others that their work is not what this country needs.

It is hoped that Vukasin would sentence Whitworth to the maximum degree allowed by law. Whitworth deserves to rot in jail for the rest of his life or be put to death. Either sentence is fitting a man of his caliber.

New Endorsement Ideas

Following editorial comments were presented in one of the exchange papers received at the Times and give interesting viewpoints on the value of political endorsements and the primary election process:

When it gets right down to it, why should any of us care about the political endoresment process? What do the election-year rituals of a few party faithful have to do with us, Minnesota's voting public?

Unfortunately, plenty. For starters, those convention rituals largely determine whose names will appear on the general election ballots from which we all choose our elected representatives. To a great extent, the parties' endorsement system also determines whether the general public will have even a small voice in choosing the candidate slate through a primary election. In most election years, by the time the average voter has a chance to make a decision, few decisions are left to be made and the most desireable candidates may have been eliminated months age, thanks to the endorsement pressures within political parties.

At long last, changes may be in the offing. Leaders of the state's DFL and Independent-Republican parties announced that a bipartisan commisision will investigate possible revisions of the way political candidates get through the party endorsement system and onto the general ballot.

Some of the possible changes hardly deserve to be called reform. One option, for example, would limit voting in primary elections to those who are formally registered as members of one or the other political party. The restriction would end "cross-over" voting, but also would deny any voice in candidate selection to the vast majority of the loosely aligned state voters.

Other proposals, however, would have the opposite effect, moving the task of winnowing candidates further into the public realm and encouraging healthy competition through primary elections. A multiple endorsement system, for example, would allow any candidate who receives more than 30 per cent of party delegates' votes to participate in a primary election.

It is encouraging that party leaders are willing to consider endorsement reforms and by doing so are recognizing deep public dissatisfaction with a system that holds the will of most state voters hostage to the political whims of a few party insiders. The current endorsement system serves neither voters nor candidates well, and it's high time for some new ideas.

Tuition Of Farm Management Programs Reduced

Over 5,000 farm families enrolled in farm business management programs at area vocational technical institutes will have lower tuition this fall as a result of special appropriation from the 1986 legislature.

"Tuition in farm management programs was scheduled to be $385 per year, but each student will now pay only $250," said Douglas Knowlton, president of the state board of vocational technical education.

The board unanimously voted to lower tuition for farm business management (FBM), lamb and wool management and logging management programs for fiscal year 1986-87 beginning July 1, 1986. The board also authorized establishment of 19 additional FBM programs to meet the growing demand for management training in agriculture.

FBM programs include classes in accounting, analysis, interpretation and farm reorganization that takes place in the classroom and on the individual family farm, where a detailed analysis is used as the core of the curriculum. Instructors use computers to analyze and teach the cost effectiveness of various alternative farm practices.

"Each farm family gets a computerized analysis of its cash flow, debt to asset ratios and numerous other measures as part of the FBM program," said John Murray, vocational technical education. "This detailed analysis is provided by vocational agriculture instructors as an add-on program to their regular programs."

Many banks require borrowers to enroll in a farm management program to insure a better understanding of the rapidly changing agricultural economy in which they are working to succeed.

"I was extremely pleased to see the legislature support our programs," Murray said. "We were able to add 19 new farm business management programs to insure access in all parts of the state."

Crookston Theatre Auditions Talent For "Two By Two"

Crookston community theatre will hold auditions and crew sign-up for the musical "Two by Two" on Monday and Tuesday, August 11 and 12, at 7 p.m. at the Highland school auditorium.

Director of this production is George French of Crookston. The cast includes four men and four women and French will audition persons 16 years of age and older for character roles. No experience is necessary for auditions or crew work. Auditions will include reading and singing.

"Two by Two" is a musical comedy with music by Richard Rodgers, based on the play "Flowering Peach" by Clifford Odets. The story uses the biblical characters of Noah and his family and tells of Noah's difficulty in getting his sons to believe that he knows there is going to be a flood and that the world is going to be destroyed. Noah's task is told with sympathetic humor and gay musical numbers in the form of a folk fable.

"Two by Two" will be presented in dinner theatre format at The Top of the Town restaurant in Crookston and will open the end of September. It is the first production of the community theater's 1986-87 season, which also includes "Death Trap" and "The King and I."

Peterson Issues Debate Challenge To Stangeland

Collin Peterson U.S. House campaign has requested the MN League of Women Voters to arrange a series of debates between Peterson and U.S. Rep. Arlan Stangeland prior to the general election.

Peterson is the 7th District DFL endorsed candidate challenging nine-year veteran Republican Rep. Stangeland for the seat.

In a July 31 letter to Joan Higginbotham, state president of the League of Women Voters, the Peterson campaign offered any assistance the league may require in setting up the debates.

Peterson and Stangeland debated three times in the 1984 election campaign. This is Peterson's second challenge to Stangeland.

Clipping Needed On Conservation Reserve Acres

"Conservation Reserve acres seeded in May or June need to be clipped," according to Allan Gustafson, soil conservation service. "Farmers should be checking the fields and when the nurse crop and weeds are tall enough, they can be cut with a mower or swather."

The oat or barley nurse crop can be clipped high — so it won't leave a lot of residue on the new grass and legume plants. Anyone who has questions is encouraged to stop by or call the soil conservation office at 681-3348.

March 5, 1984

Mr. Donald Ommodt
Cass Clay Creameries Inc
200 North 20th
Fargo N D 58102

Dear Mr Ommodt

Your Nu A Fresh Milk is an excellent product, but you've done a lousy job of promoting it.

I accidentally found out about Nu A Fresh Milk several years ago when one of my patients was having abdominal pains, cramps and excess gas, which seemed to get worse the more milk she drank. She discovered Nu-A Fresh while visiting in Fargo, and has been drinking it since with little or no problem.

However, three registered dieticians at our local hospital had never even heard of Nu A Fresh. Nor had I until my patient found it on her own.

In the past three years I've had two patients with acute duodenal ulcers who got no relief by drinking regular milk. But after I switched them to Nu A Fresh, their ulcer symptoms resolved in a day or two.

I have also switched five or six adults who stated they were "allergic" to milk, and all have tolerated the Nu A Fresh beautifully.

Several of my partners have treated babies, ranging in the age from six to eighteen months, who were unable to tolerate whole milk. The infants were given Nu A Fresh with excellent results.

The only problem with Nu A Fresh is that it's almost impossible to get.

Nu A Fresh is in such short supply because nobody knows about it. Consequently, nobody buys it, so the stores don't want to stock it.

I am really sold on Nu A Fresh Milk and would like to prescribe it more often, but it's very difficult to prescribe a product if it's not readily available.

Sincerely

(*From an actual letter to Cass Clay written by a North Dakota doctor, name available on request)

The doctor was right; up to now, Nu-A-Fresh Milk has been hard to find. But we've taken care of that, and you should be able to buy Nu-A-Fresh at your favorite store now or in the near future.

What is Nu-A-Fresh?
Nu-A-Fresh is also known as Sweet Acidophilus™ Milk. It's homogenized, pasteurized, and has the same basic nutritional properties and delicious taste as other lowfat milks.

The difference? Nu-A-Fresh contains the beneficial culture lactobacillus acidophilus, which assists the body in maintaining intestinal health, and can also help the body recover from certain intestinal disorders.

While Sweet Acidophilus™ Milk will not cure afflictions such as stomach ulcers or diverticulitis, it may help eliminate some of the discomfort that accompanies these ailments.

Who Can Drink Nu-A-Fresh?
Nu-A-Fresh is safe and healthful for everyone, including babies.

For example, testimonials from mothers indicate that Sweet Acidophilus™ Milk has helped many babies recover from infant diarrhea.

And older folks using laxatives or antibiotics may also benefit greatly from Nu-A-Fresh in the relief of digestive distress, such as diarrhea and gas.

In fact, anyone who likes milk can drink Nu-A-Fresh for its nutritional qualities and delicious taste.

Nu-A-Fresh: For Health And Flavor
Our Nu-A-Fresh Sweet Acidophilus™ Milk is a refreshing drink for the whole family - adults as well as children - so enjoy it often!

Here's To Your Health!

Additional Truck Tonnage Allowed On State Highways

Starting August 1, 80,000 pound trucks will be allowed on all state trunk highways and some other designated highways, according to State Rep. Wally Sparby.

"Concerns about facilitating the transportation of farm products to market prompted the legislature to increase weight limitations to 80,000 pounds on state highways," Sparby said. "On all other routes, the same 80,000 maximum is allowed for any vehicle with six or more axles, while trucks with five axles or less are limited to 73,280 pounds."

All weight limits are increased by 10 per cent from October 1 to November 30 for the movement of sugar beets and potatoes from the field of harvest to the point of first unloading. Certain other weight limitations are increased by 10 per cent from December 1 through December 31 in northern Minnesota.

Sparby added that farm vehicles carrying bound baled hay less than 20 miles are now exempt from the requirement to obtain a wide load permit.

In conclusion, Sparby said the legislature must continue to take steps to facilitate farm to market transportation, particularly in northern Minnesota.

Traffic On Eighth Detoured Around Railroad Crossing

Being Too Comfortable

Sunday Genesis 1:1-25
Monday Genesis 1:26-2:4
Tuesday Job 38:1-18
Wednesday Psalm 19:1-13
Thursday Psalm 65:1-13
Friday Psalm 104:1-35
Saturday Isaiah 40:12-24

It is sometimes good to be uncomfortable.

Being content in all situations and surroundings could denote a lack of growth.

Learning is an ageless avocation, and to be eager to learn could require some hours of being uncomfortable, like homework for a youngster is often for them a very unpopular task, although necessary if they are to learn and grow to maturity.

Those "satisfied with everything like it is" rarely contribute to new creations or accept challenges that help their fellowman.

Making sure that their mundane way of life is not upset means not "rocking the boat" or "making waves," in other words, not getting involved.

Stronger, more creative, venturesome and alert people get interested in others. They want to know more about the world in which they live, and yes, about the eternal life.

They want visions of truth, for they know that one day they must move from this planet, and are eager to hear about a future life. That's why they go to Church. They know there are people there on the same search, and that there are learned men and women of the cloth to help them.

Douglas Woods To Perform At Hayes Lake Dam Aug. 8

Douglas Woods will present a special program entitled "Earthsong" on Friday, August 8, at 8 p.m. at Hayes Lake state park dam.

Appearing in state parks for a third season, Doug Wood's "Earthsong" program mixes humor, appreciation of natural beauty and a deep understanding of the environment in a musical performance. Doug sings about the land, the wind and the waters—about the history of the wild. "The Minnesota Mosquito Song," "Outhouse Blues," and "Minnesota Melody," (the state park theme song) are a few of the selections Doug may perform.

"Earthsong" will be presented again the following evening, August 9, at Zippel Bay state park, beginning at 7 p.m.

Now in its third season, "Lifetimes and Landscapes" is an entertaining as well as educational collection of programs relating to the natural, historical and cultural resources of the state. This summer's series of 74 programs will feature 18 different presentations appearing in 42 state parks. A complete listing of programs is available at any state park.

All state park programs are free of charge, although a vehicle permit is required to enter the park. Daily permits are $3 (half price for senior citizens.) Additional information is available by calling Hayes Lake state park at 425-7504.

Rural Enterprise Zone Bill Gains Further Support

Ten farm-state legislators have cosponsored Congressman Arlan Stangeland's "rural enterprise zone" bill to bolster the agricultural sector and the nation's small towns. The farm employment and economic development (FEED) act, was introduced by Stangeland on May 22.

"The bill is designed to create jobs and encourage capital investment in rural areas through the creation of enterprise zones," Congressman Stangeland said. "By using tax incentives and by easing the paperwork burden on businesses in these zones, we would be helping current businesses and encouraging new businesses to bring jobs to hard-hit areas."

About 10 rural enterprise zones would be created by the bill. The secretary of agriculture would designate the sites, based on nominations by state and local governments. Sites could be nominated if they were in rural areas or on an Indian reservation, and if they met specific unemployment and income requirements. The tax and regulatory incentives would be guaranteed for 25 years.

The bill would encouarge businesses to create jobs in these zones by:

- Allowing a 10 per cent investment tax credit for tangible property in the zone;
- Allowing a 10 per cent tax credit for employers and a 5 per cent tax credit for employees in the zones, plus additional credit for disadvantaged employees;
- Allowing nonrecognition of capital gain when property is sold and then replaced, as long as the gain on the sale does not exceed the replacement cost;
- Allowing the deduction for the purchase of enterprise stock on the original issue of such stock;
- Permitting ordinary loss deduction for securities of enterprise zone businesses which become worthless;
- Increasing the R&D tax credit on these zones from 25 per cent to 37.5 per cent;
- Limiting the cost-recovery deduction for property financed with tax-exempt industrial development bonds;
- Requiring expedited and preferred consideration of foreign trade zones requests in enterprise zone areas; and,
- Allowing regulatory flexibility in zone designation and other activities, except for Davis-Bacon restrictions and public health and safety rules.

If it's NEEDable - It's SALEable with a Times' Classified Ad Ph 681-4450.

Thanks A Bunch . . .

to all of those over the years who have helped in any way to make publication of the Times a worthwhile community effort.

Those who attended the retirement party on Monday at the American Legion club rooms only served to remind us of the many friendships made and businesses served during our more than 40 years in the newspaper business in Thief River Falls. We will miss the regular contacts with many of you as the duties and responsibilities at the Times are turned over to the new owners.

A special thanks also to all the loyal Times employees for their service over the years and for their part in the retirement dinner and gift Monday night.

As we reflect on the kindnesses shown and best wishes expressed, we are all the more mindful that Thief River Falls was a good place to spend a business career.

Thank you, one and all.

Clarence and Ardy Mattson

Another Era Passes

With the sale of the Thief River Falls Times effective August 1, another era in the history of newspapering in Thief River Falls draws to a close. We are pleased to have been a part of that history, and just a little proud of the role the Times has played in the development of Thief River Falls and northwestern Minnesota.

We recognize full well that the success of the paper has been entirely due to the support of our advertisers, subscribers, commercial printing customers and faithful readers and contributors. For that support and assistance during all the years we have been associated with the Times we are especially grateful. We can not be more sincere in our thanks to all of you.

We would also like to publicly thank the employees who have made publication of the Times possible, a number of them for more than 10, 20 or 30 years. Their understanding and effort in the face of constant deadlines can only be appreciated fully by those of us in the business. They are a great crew.

The new owners of the business are established in the publishing field and well aware of the responsibilities of community journalism. We urge you to accept them as welcome newcomers in the community and to continue the support and respect which the Times has enjoyed in the past. It has been a privilege to know and serve you.

A New Beginning To A Distinguished Past

As we look forward to the challenges associated with publication of the Thief River Falls Times as its new owners, we are well aware of the essential role the newspaper has performed in the growth and progress of the Thief River Falls community. We expect to continue that progressive and cooperative spirit.

The Mattson family has been involved in community newspapering in northwestern Minnesota for 100 years, beginning with involvement of John P. Mattson with the Warren Sheaf in 1886. His sons purchased the Thief River Falls Times in 1923 and this newspaper has been in the Mattson family continuously since that time. The purchase effective August 1 continues that history of Mattson family ownership.

We are eager to begin working with the community and its businesses, getting to know you and providing you with the services of effective advertising, commercial printing and news reporting. We sincerely solicit your support, your comments and ideas and your acceptance into the Thief River Falls business community.

With your help, we hope to continue to build on established foundations of community service and responsible journalism. Thief River Falls deserves no less.

Thief River Falls native Scott Sabo saw his professional baseball career take a different direction last week when the lefthanded pitcher was traded from the Oakland A's organization to the Cleveland Indians.

He was in Thief River Falls for a brief visit when he received a telephone call informing him of the trade.

Sabo was pitching for the second straight year with the A's Madison, WI team in the Class A Midwest League. Now he's playing Class AA ball at the Indians' Waterbury, CN entry in the Eastern League.

At Madison, Sabo made the long bus trips to such places as Appleton, Kenosha, Wausau and Beloit in Wisconsin, and Cedar Rapids, Clinton and Waterloo in Iowa.

At Waterbury, he'll be visiting Albany, Nashua and Glen Falls in New York, New Britain in Connecticut, Pittsfield and Reading in Pennsylvania and a stop in Vermont.

A 1979 Lincoln High School graduate, Sabo played hockey and baseball at the University of Wisconsin, was drafted by the Minnesota Twins, but stayed in school and was later signed by the A's.

TRF Prep Squad Sweeps Pair Of Games At EGF

Route-going pitching performances by Steve Sabo and Tim Hugg helped lead the Thief River Falls 13-year-olds to a Babe Ruth Prep baseball doubleheader sweep at East Grand Forks Wednesday.

Sabo was the winning pitcher in a 9-4 seven-inning first game victory over the Orioles, scattering seven hits, striking out six and walking five. Hugg pitched a five-inning two-hitter in the 6-5 second game triumph over the Reds, striking out six, walking five and hitting one batter.

Mike Swanson was 2-for-4 to lead Thief River Falls' nine-hit attack in the opener that was aided by seven East Grand Forks errors. Thief River Falls was charged with just two errors.

It was a scoreless opener through three innings, then both sides had two-run fourth and fifth innings and produced a single sixth inning run before Thief River Falls came up with a four-run seventh for the win.

Sabo was 2-for-3 at the plate in Game 2 when five Thief River Falls hits were complemented by six East Grand Forks errors. The winners had just one error.

Thief River Falls jumped out to a 3-1 lead in the first inning against the Reds. Both sides scored twice in the third and East Grand Forks pulled within 5-4 in the fourth. A Thief River Falls run in the top of the fifth proved to be the game-winner when East Grand Forks got one in the last half inning.

It was the second straight doubleheader sweep for the Thief River Falls team, producing a 12-14-1 regular season-ending record.

Fast Pitch Softball

Schmidt Old-Timers picked up their third win of the 1986 season at the expense of Schmidt-Coke Thursday, winning a 5-4 Thief River Falls Men's Fast Pitch Softball League game.

The two teams traded first inning runs before the Old-Timers struck for three runs on three hits and one error in the top of the third inning, then increased their lead to 5-1 with a fourth inning run.

Schmidt-Coke cut the margin to 5-3 with a pair of runs in the bottom of the fourth and pulled within 5-4 on Mark Lundin's fifth inning solo home run.

Dean Lawrenz and Marshall Vagle had two hits apiece for the Old-Timers, who were out-hit 19-8, but had just one error to four errors charged against Schmidt-Coke.

Lawrenz was the winning pitcher. Howard Dalager was the loser.

Schmidt-Coke handled Melvics 15-4 in a Wednesday night encounter. A Wednesday United Satellite Systems vs. Coors match-up was postponed.

Waterfowl Number Improves

Number of breeding ducks increased this spring following improved habitat conditions and a 27 per cent reduction in last fall's duck harvest, the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reported.

Breeding populations of important species such as mallards and pintails, while improved over 1985, are still well below their average for the past 30 years. Mallard breeding populations in surveyed areas increased to 6,351,000, or 16 per cent over last year's record low of 5.5 million, but still 24 per cent below their average for 1955-1985. Pintails showed less improvement, increasing to 3,201,000, only 9 per cent over last year and 44 per cent below their 30-year average. Numbers of blue-winged teal increased 24 per cent over last year, and gadwall, green-winged teal, northern shoveler and redheads showed increases. Wigeon and scaup numbers are about the same as last year. Canvasbacks increased 8 per cent over last year but remain 22 per cent below their long-term average.

Service Director Frank Dunkle said that the improvement in this year's duck populations was welcome but should be interpreted with caution.

"These are only one year's data," Dunkle said. "It doesn't necessarily mean we are seeing the beginning of a trend toward increasing duck numbers, although we fervently hope that is the case. We can't credit all of the increase to last year's more restrictive hunting regulations. The increase is probably due to a combination of improved habitat conditions in some key nesting areas and last fall's reduced harvest."

Last year, after several years of severe drought in prime duck nesting areas of Canada and the United States, the number of breeding ducks counted was the lowest ever recorded in 31 years of surveys. As a result, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service issued restrictive duck hunting regulations for last fall's hunting season in an effort to reduce duck harvest in the United States by 25 per cent.

Recently completed harvest survey figures for the 1985-86 hunting season show that the total duck harvest was 27 per cent below 1984-85. Harvest reductions were greatest in the Central Flyway (35 per cent), followed by the Mississippi Flyway (29 per cent), Atlantic Flyway (26 per cent), and Pacific Flyway (13 per cent). The total U.S. goose harvest was also lower — 9 per cent below the previous year — while the coot harvest increased slightly.

Reduced harvest is attributed to a combination of factors including lowered hunter expectations, with fewer hunters going afield as evidenced by a 10 per cent decrease in 1985-86 Duck Stamp sales; the more restrictive hunting regulations; and the reduced fall flight of ducks, making birds less available to hunters.

Wetland conditions improved in some areas this spring, but dry conditions were reported elsewhere. Pond numbers increased substantially in southern Manitoba, but portions of southern Saskatchewan suffered a significant loss of water. Following last year's improvement, dry conditions were observed again in prairie areas of southern Alberta during the survey. In Montana and the Dakotas, wetland numbers increased markedly over last year.

Overall, breeding duck numbers in all areas surveyed increased to 35 million ducks, up 14 per cent from last year's 31 million but remaining 12 per cent below the average for 1955-85. Total duck numbers increased substantially in Alaska, southern Manitoba, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, and Wisconsin, while a smaller increase was reported in northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories. Numbers remained essentially unchanged from last year in southern Saskatchewan. Relatively large decreases were observed in southern Alberta, and California, with the decline in southern Alberta bringing total duck numbers to the lowest level ever recorded there. In the combined prairie-parkland areas of southern Canada, total duck numbers increased 4 per cent over 1985, while in Montana and the Dakotas, duck numbers increased 59 per cent and include the largest number of breeding ducks ever observed in South Dakota.

Information on duck numbers and habitat conditions comes from surveys conducted by teams of U.S. and Canadian biologists. The North American waterfowl survey in the most extensive wildlife census in the world. Each May, the biologists fly 38,000 miles of transects at low altitudes in small aircraft over major portions of the nesting grounds. In addition, ground crews provide survey information to correct for the birds not seen from the air. The May surveys provide data on both the general conditions of nesting areas and the estimated numbers of ducks and geese in these areas. In July, additional flights are made over some of the same areas to determine the number of duck broods produced. This information is used to forecast changes from year to year in the anticipated fall populations of waterfowl.

Hunting regulations for this fall's waterfowl season have not yet been proposed. A public hearing was held August 1 in the Interior Department auditorium in Washington, D.C., to discuss proposals for the 1986-87 waterfowl hunting season. Once the regulations are proposed, public comments will be accepted. After the public comment period, the Service will publish regulatory "frameworks" within which the states will select their hunting seasons and regulations. After the states have notified the Service of their selections, the Service will publish final waterfowl hunting regulations in mid-September.

Hunting, Fishing Report Studies License Sales

Fishing is up, but hunting is down, according to 1985 license information released recently by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, while revenues derived from the sale of angling and hunting licenses continues to climb to record levels.

Statistics compiled from the individual state fish and wildlife agencies show there were 29,673,190 fishing license holders in the United States in 1985 — a healthy increase over 1984's total of 29,015,918 licensed anglers. At the same time, however, hunting license sales dropped to 15,879,572 in 1985, from 16,018,250 in 1984.

Revenue from the sale of state licenses and permits jumped to $282,342,746 for fishing licenses and $300,766,158 for hunting licenses in 1985. In 1984, those totals were $259,678,249 and $292,344,274, respectively.

"These figures give a rough indication of the amount of angling and hunting that's going on in this country, which is important to those of us who manage fish and wildlife populations," says Frank Dunkle, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and a former director of the Montana Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks. "To the States, they mean something even more tangible — they help determine the proportion of federal aid dollars that each state receives to support fish and wildlife management and research projects."

There are many reasons why license sales fluctuate from year to year — weather, availability of game, economic conditions, and changes in state fishing and hunting regulations can all influence totals each year. For these reasons, trends in participation in angling and hunting must be based on long-term changes rather than shifts from one year to the next. Revenue increases are generally attributed to rises in the cost of sporting licenses by the individual states.

Under the Federal Aid in Fish and Wildlife Restoration programs, the amount of funding each state, commonwealth and territory receives is determined in part by the number of license holders. The Fish and Wildlife Service reimburses the states for up to 75 per cent of the cost of approved projects undertaken to benefit their fish and wildlife resources. The Federal Aid funds are derived from excise taxes collected by manufacturers on various types of hunting and fishing equipment, and from a tax on motorboat fuels and import duties on yachts and certain imported fishing equipment. In 1986, these excise taxes paid by sporting enthusiasts yielded more than $217 million for use by the States.

A state-by-state breakdown of the 1985 license figures is shown in the attached tables.

Legion Auxiliary To Begin Trial Direct Billing

Minnesota has been selected as a pilot state to participate in direct billing for American Legion auxiliary dues for next year. This billing will be similar to the present method used by the American Legion and will be on a trial basis.

When notice is received by mail, members should send their dues to the unit secretary or membership chairman as soon as possible, along with the notice for the records. Juniors (under age 18) will not receive direct billings.

Non-members who are wives, mothers, daughters, granddaughters or sisters of an American Legion member are invited to join the auxiliary.

Legionnaires receive free accidental death and dismemberment benefits, and these are also afforded senior auxiliary members at no charge, with payment of their dues. They are not required to return any forms for this.

The new billing method has been proven a state and nationwide incentive to earlier dues, a goal Minnesota is setting this year in order to have more memberships at the national convention in Cincinnati the end of August, as tribute to the incoming national president from Minnesota, Evelyn Starr.

For more inforamtion, call Mrs. Ray (Leona) Rapacz, Argyle, MN, 56713.

LHS Class Of 1956 Conducts Reunion

"The party's over, four of them to be exact, and all reports are that the Lincoln high school Class of 1956 had a very successful 30-year class reunion. Perhaps the best planned event on the agenda was the weather as it remained dry during two outdoor events," states Glenda Gausen, reunion committee chairman.

Reunion events were kicked-off with registration and a mixer at Lon's at 7 p.m. Friday, July 25. Theme of the mixer was the theme from the 1956 yearbooks, memories and clowns. The tables were decorated with clowns and gold-footed mugs containing candles and gold frames with blue matts that held enlargements from the 1956 yearbook. A special attraction was the frame that held the class pictures of the seven deceased members of the class of 1956; Richard Haugen, Roy Pederson, Marvin Lehr, Suzanne Humes, John "Skip' Newland, Clifford Strand and Donald Breiland.

A special guest was K. Ostby, Rochester, who was principal of Lincoln high school in 1956. Approximately 60 people attended the Friday event.

A Saturday morning "Continental Breakfast" was held at 211 North Kendall Avenue from 8:30 a.m. until 12 noon to honor the 1956 Minnesota state high school hockey championship team. Over 40 persons attended the morning affair which was also highlighted by the arrival of Kiyoshi Tanabe of Toyoko, Japan. Tanabe was the first foreign exchange student at Lincoln high school, and he traveled for 24 hours to attend his first class reunion with the class of 1956.

After a tour of Lincoln high school at 1 p.m. the class banquet got underway at the American Legion club rooms at 6 p.m. with a cocktail hour, banquet at 7, program at 8, pictures at 8:45 and dance at 9 p.m.

Banquet dessert was "Little Dicks", vanilla ice cream with chocolate syrup and peanuts, served in Coke glasses which were later washed and sent home with each guest as a souvenir of the evening's festivities.

Final event of the weekend was a picnic on Sunday, held at the home of Mrs. Esther Gausen at East Eleventh Street. Mrs. Gausen is the mother of the reunion committee chairman, Glenda Gausen. Supervising at the barbecue grills were Pat Clinton Collister of Grand Junction, CO and Ronald Schumacker of Snohomish, WA.

Agassiz Kennel club of Thief River Falls is sponsoring a dog obedience showmanship and conformation class. This fall a puppy class has been added. All classes will start 7 p.m. August 5 at the sheep barn on the Pennington county fairgrounds. Proof of rabies shots along with the dogs should be brought to the meeting.

Both beginning and advanced work is offered at a cost of $20 for eight weeks, but for anyone under 18 it is $10, and a 4-H member can train for free. The puppy class will cost $10 for four weeks.

All dog owners are eligible to take dog obedience classes. Dogs will be taught to come when called, to walk quietly beside the person, and to stay while sitting or lying down. Showmanship classes will teach owners how to show a dog and present their dog to a judge. Owners planning to enter dogs in bred competition at an AKC dog show are offered a conformation class. Puppy class will be for dogs under six months and will include basic obedience, health and grooming tips. All classes can also aid a dog in feeling more comfortable with strangers, other dogs and strange noises.

The Agassiz Kennel club officers strongly advise dog owners to take any of these classes to make their dog a better citizen — "an obedient dog is a happy dog." For more information call 681-6047 or 681-2508.

Council Approves Garbage Rate Hike

Residents of Thief River Falls can expect to see an increase in their utility bill, specifically for sanitation pickup, by October 1. Thief River Falls city council adopted an ordinance that increases the sanitation collection fee by $1 Tuesday night.

New electric utility rate options were also added by ordinance Tuesday night. The new rates are modified rates and regulations for providing electric power for water heaters and space heaters. Basically, three different rates — a rate without load shedding, an 80 per cent load shedding rate, and a 100 per cent load shedding rate — were adopted in the ordinance change.

In the ordinance change for sanitation it was seen by the council as necessary to off-set the cost increase passed on to the city by Future Fuel, Inc. of Thief River Falls, which increased tipping fees to all of its customers. The $1 rate is a flat rate which applies to everyone despite what rate they are paying now and will take effect with their bill on October 1. Currently the average rate among Thief River Falls residents is $5.75. On July 22, the city council passed a resolution to accept a tipping fee increase from Future Fuel to $10.17 per yard, which is a significant increase.

The sanitation department will also be seeking quotes on a vacuum leaf loader. According to Councilman Milan Borsheim the leaf loader could cut anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent of the garbage sent to Future Fuel. Leaves and yard litter will be picked up in a method not yet finalized and the clippings and leaves used as compost on city owned property. Borsheim estimated that the cost of the leaf vacuum could be paid for through the savings in tipping fees in about one year.

Under the new modified rates for electric power for water heaters the rates are $1.50 per month, within the limits of the rates. According to the new ordinance the load control will be furnished by the city and installed by the consumer together with all other equipment, labor and materials which will be furnished and installed by the consumer.

Also according to the agreement, no new electric commercial heating service installation made after Jan. 14, 1980, will be served at this rate or any other rate without a load control which will be furnished by the electric utility and installed by the customer at the direction of the

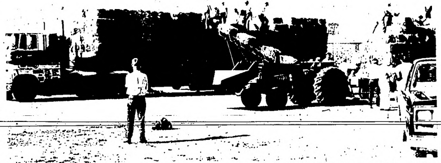
The nominating committee from the board has placed Dillon in nomination along with James Winjum, Cathy Belmont and Dr. Robert Carter. Terms are for three years and will expire in September of 1989.

In addition to those nominated by the nominating committee, Dr. James Langland has been placed in nomination by the association membership through petition prior to the August 1 deadline. By-laws of the association permit such nomination from among the membership.



HAY BOUND FOR WAYNESBORO, GA, from Thief River Falls reached its destination Monday afternoon. Shawn McClellan, Burke county extension agent, said they were appreciative of the hay. He said it didn't look too good when they first saw it, but once they got into it they discovered the 54 tons of hay were of real top quality. Each of the 12 people receiving the hay got 50 bales. Pictured above are people from the Thief River Falls area who helped make it possible. The response was tremendous, according to Sue Lillevold, Thief River Falls chamber of commerce executive director.

Second Hay Lift Proves As Successful As First

by David Hill
Times Reporter

"Farmers helping farmers," is the motivating force behind much of the effort to assist drought and heat afflicted Southern farmers to feed their cattle. The effort has taken on a new meaning for Pennington and Marshall county farmers, however, because they are now helping a community about the size of Thief River Falls and maybe even themselves. A truckload of bales was shipped from here to Waynesboro, GA, last week and arrived Monday.

Several communities throughout the country have jelled together to, in combined or separate efforts, provide hay to Southern farmers with cattle in drought and heat afflicted areas. Sue Lillevold, chamber of commerce executive director, Thief River Falls, said that this hay lift is a little different from the first because it is being sent to a specific community; and it is a community about the same size as Thief River Falls. The first effort locally involved filling six cars for a 94-car unit train.

Waynesboro, GA, is located south of Augusta, in Burke county, the second largest county in Georgia. The population, however, is just over 6,000 in the community of Waynesboro and around 20,000 in the county. According to Shawn McClellan, county extension agent for Burke county, there are approximately 12,000 beef cattle in the county and 3,000 dairy cattle.

Rainfall for the area during this year is 12 inches below the average and about half of what is normally received. During July there were only three days when the day's high temperature was below 100 degrees. McClellan estimates that 80 per cent of hay that would have been used for winter when the number of cattle in the area climbs to nearly 25,000 head, is already gone. Seventy per cent of the field grass is also gone.

David Hogan and his wife tend 200 head of beef cattle between Augusta and Waynesboro. He and his wife are both 27 and have been in the cattle business for eight or nine years. They are praying for rain.

Hogan said in a telephone interview that he is much better off than many. He has a second job as a city forester and had hay left over from last winter. And because he is better off than many others he was not one of the recipients of hay from Thief River Falls. But then again, only 12 people were recipients of the hay, which was limited to 50 bales per person.

Because of the generous donations from area farmers, Waynesboro, GA, received 628 square bales or 16 tons of hay from area farmers Monday afternoon. This donation was made despite donations made a little over a week before, when area farmers contributed 54 tons of round bales of hay or six train car loads of hay to a 94-car train load.

"There was an unbelievable response from area farmers for this hay lift," Lillevold said.

The response was so tremendous that the chamber is seriously looking for more trucks. Lillevold said they were expecting enough hay Friday to fill one 48-foot truck, and instead got pledges for enough hay to fill three more than the one already sent.

The difficulty in arranging for more hay to be sent south is the prohibitive cost of commercial transportaion. Lillevold said the community chambers involved will pay for some of the fuel, food and accommodations, but they need someone to donate a truck and driver's time. The truck sent to Waynesboro was donated by Bertsch Trucking of Hillsboro, ND, and the driver was Brad Willison. The Waynesboro community chamber in this instance paid for fuel and provided food and accommodations for the driver. To off-set the cost of fuel, they charged $1 per bale to the receiving farmers.

Hogan and McClellan said that everyone is appreciative of the effort. For Hogan it may be only a matter of time before he becomes one of the people in serious need of assistance. Hogan normally has cut 200 tons of hay by this time of year but this year he has been able to cut only 30 tons. At this time he does not plan to reduce the size of his herd but the first to go will be the cull cows. Hogan also said that he has recently noticed large numbers of army worms, which will eat the choicest remaining grass down to the roots. He said the dry weather has helped the worms to grow in number.

McClellan said a lot of people are really starting to feel the crunch. Without grass or their own hay to cut they are forced to purchase hay. McClellan said he has noticed the price of hay increasing from an average $1.50 per square bale to $4 and $5 per bale, and from $25 for a round grass bale to between $30 and $40. When farmers cannot afford hay and there isn't enough grass the cattle have been feeding on corn stover and soybeans and millet if possible. He said there will be some herd liquidation. "But once it starts raining we can get something going," he said with some optimism.

Recently, besides relief from the heat and drought provided by hay from farmers throughout the country, the area has been receiving some rainfall. It hasn't been much or consistent but anything helps, Hogan said.

There are also other possible benefits that could be realized from this second hay lift. As in the first lift, little packages of information about Thief River Falls and the surrounding community were attached to bales of hay. The packages in this haylift included a map of Minnesota with Pennington county and surrounding area highlighted, an information sheet on the new Ag Information Center at the Thief River Falls AVTI, and several news articles about Minnesota farmers that were printed in the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Hopefully, Lillevold said, the hay

Elm Disease Has High Prevalence In City Report

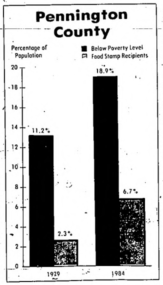
City forester John Johnson reported Tuesday night to the Thief River Falls city council that Dutch elm dieseae in Thief River Falls has increased significantly in the last year.

Johnson reported that as of August 11 there are 164 confirmed cases of Dutch elm disease in Thief River Falls. That number can probably be increased by 24 if an aerial survey of the community August 12 is correct. Of the 164 confirmed cases, 54 were on city maintenance property, and 110 are on private property. So far 47 of the public trees and 53 private trees have been removed. The remainder are in the process of being removed.

Dutch elm disease, according to Johnson, has increased dramatically this year, not only in Thief River Falls but region-wide. He noted that Red Lake Falls has reported 200 confirmed cases and Crookston 95. The historical nature of the disease, he said, is to show a significant increase after taking hold in an area, which may take a couple of years. He also said mild winters that do not kill the beetles and uncontrolled areas outside the city limits also add to the possibility of significant increase. He said the river corridors, the area between county road 62 and Greenwood avenue, is devastated.

Johnson said the city has experimented with tree injection to prevent Dutch elm disease, but has not found it practical for boulevard trees. However, it may be beneficial to homeowners with very high value trees. The cost of each injection is about $8 to $10 per diameter inch. He said that when the city was given a demonstration the tree injected continued to die.

Food Stamp Costs Show Increase



Significant increases in numbers of Pennington and Marshall county residents receiving food stamps from 1979 through 1984 have been noted by county social services departments, according to information received by the Times. Percentage of population in the two counties below the federally-established poverty level of income has also increased substantially during that five-year period.

In Pennington county, dollar value of food stamps issued increased from $113,264 in 1979 to a high of $467,073 in 1984. Last year the amount dropped only slightly to $419,511 and this year the total through July is $283,893 — about on a par or a little ahead of last year's pace.

In 1972 the Pennington county total was $169,095, increasing to $195,072 in 1974 before declining steadily to a low of $103,891 in 1978. After the modest rise to $113,264 in 1979 and $185,193 in 1980, the numbers rocketed to $295,479 in 1981, $350,006 in 1982, $460,433 in 1983 and $467,073 in 1984.

Percentage of residents in the county with incomes below the poverty level increased from 11.2 per cent in 1979 to 18.9 per cent in 1984. The number of residents receiving assistance through the food stamp program increased from 350 in 1979 to 949 by 1984 — equalling 2.3 per cent of the population in 1979 and 6.7 per cent of the county population in 1984. In 1985 the number of recipients exceeded the 1,000 mark on at least one month. In July of this year the number of recipients stood at 918, a slight rise from 913 in June.

Level of individual food stamp assistance also increased during the five-year period. Nationally the average from 1979 to 1984 increased from $32.71 to $44.74. In Pennington county the average monthly value of food stamps provided per individual increased from $25.41 to $39.10 (53.9 per cent) while in Marshall County the increase was from $32.17 to $43.15 (34.1 per cent).

Marshall county food stamp costs have also increased substantially during the past five years, but without the dramatic rise seen in Pennington county. In 1980 the stamps totaled $349,038 in Marshall county, increasing to $479,901 in 1981, $462,696 in 1982, a high of $522,884 in 1983, $500,863 in 1984 and $453,636 in 1985. In 1985 Marshall county had an average number of 284 households receiving food stamp assistance each month, sharing an average disbursement of $37,803.

In Marshall county, the percentage of residents with incomes below the poverty level increased from 16.2 per cent in 1979 to 23.6 per cent in 1984. The number of residents receiving assistance through the food stamp program increased from 477 in 1979 to 823 in 1984. In 1979 3.7 per cent of the population in Marshall county received food stamps; in 1984 the percentage had increased to 6.5.

Since the poverty level in both counties has increased more than the level of food stamp participation, assumption could be made that incidence of hunger cannot be directly attributed to reductions in spending for federal programs designed to reduce or eliminate hunger.

Expenditures for these programs has increased substantially over the period — from $10.8 billion during fiscal 1979 to $18.8 billion by fiscal 1984

Council Approves Garbage Rate Hike

Residents of Thief River Falls can expect to see an increase in their utility bill, specifically for sanitation pickup, by October 1. Thief River Falls city council adopted an ordinance that increases the sanitation collection fee by $1 Tuesday night.

New electric utility rate options were also added by ordinance Tuesday night. The new rates are modified rates and regulations for providing electric power for water heaters and space heaters. Basically, three different rates — a rate without load shedding, an 80 per cent load shedding rate, and a 100 per cent load shedding rate — were adopted in the ordinance change.

In the ordinance change for sanitation it was seen by the council as necessary to off-set the cost increase passed on to the city by Future Fuel, Inc. of Thief River Falls, which increased tipping fees to all of its customers. The $1 rate is a flat rate which applies to everyone despite what rate they are paying now and will take effect with their bill on October 1. Currently the average rate among Thief River Falls residents is $5.75. On July 22, the city council passed a resolution to accept a tipping fee increase from Future Fuel to $10.17 per yard, which is a significant increase.

The sanitation department will also be seeking quotes on a vacuum leaf loader. According to Councilman Milan Borsheim the leaf loader could cut anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent of the garbage sent to Future Fuel. Leaves and yard litter will be picked up in a method not yet finalized and the clippings and leaves used as compost on city owned property. Borsheim estimated that the cost of the leaf vacuum could be paid for through the savings in tipping fees in about one year.

Under the new modified rates for electric power for water heaters the rates are $1.50 per month, within the limits of the rates. According to the new ordinance the load control will be furnished by the city and installed by the consumer together with all other equipment, labor and materials which will be furnished and installed by the consumer.

Also according to the agreement, no new electric commercial heating service installation made after Jan 14, 1980, will be served at this rate or any other rate without a load control which will be furnished by the electric utility and installed by the customer at the direction of the

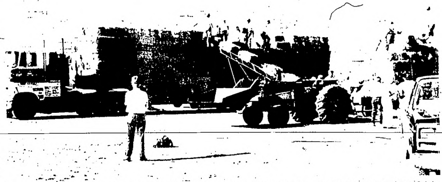
Five Nominated To Serve On Medical Center's Board

Five persons have been nominated to serve on Northwest Medical center's board of directors and election will be held at the association annual meeting September 8 at the Best Western inn in Thief River Falls.

Three of four directors whose terms expire on the board have chosen not to seek reelection. Terms of Dale Dillon, Chris Twomey, Angeline Steinhauer and Dr. R.W. Heinrichs expire and only Dale Dillon has agreed to be renominated.

The nominating committee from the board has placed Dillon in nomination along with James Winjum, Cathy Belmont and Dr. Robert Carter. Terms are for three years and will expire in September of 1989.

In addition to those nominated by the nominating committee, Dr. James Langland has been placed in nomination by the association membership through petition prior to the August 1 deadline. By-laws of the association permit such nomination from among the membership.



HAY BOUND FOR WAYNESBORO, GA. from Thief River Falls reached its destination Monday afternoon. Shawn McClellan, Burke county extension agent, said they were appreciative of the hay. He said it didn't look too good when they first saw it, but once they got into it they discovered the 54 tons of hay were of real top quality. Each of the 12 people receiving the hay got 50 bales. Pictured above are people from the Thief River Falls area who helped make it possible. The response was tremendous, according to Sue Lillevold, Thief River Falls chamber of commerce executive director.

Second Hay Lift Proves As Successful As First

by David Hill
Times Reporter

"Farmers helping farmers," is the motivating force behind much of the effort to assist drought and heat afflicted Southern farmers to feed their cattle. The effort has taken on a new meaning for Pennington and Marshall county farmers, however, because they are now helping a community about the size of Thief River Falls and maybe even themselves. A truckload of bales was shipped from here to Waynesboro, GA, last week and arrived Monday.

Several communities throughout the country have jelled together to, in combined or separate efforts, provide hay to Southern farmers with cattle in drought and heat afflicted areas. Sue Lillevold, chamber of commerce executive director, Thief River Falls, said that this hay lift is a little different from the first because it is being sent to a specific community; and it is a community about the same size as Thief River Falls. The first effort locally involved filling six cars for a 94-car unit train.

Waynesboro, GA, is located south of Augusta, in Burke county, the second largest county in Georgia. The population, however, is just over 6,000 in the community of Waynesboro and around 20,000 in the county. According to Shawn McClellan, county extension agent for Burke county, there are approximately 12,000 beef cattle in the county and 3,000 dairy cattle.

Rainfall for the area during this year is 12 inches below the average and about half of what is normally received. During July there were only three days when the day's high temperature was below 100 degrees. McClellan estimates that 80 per cent of hay that would have been used for winter when the number of cattle in the area climbs to nearly 25,000 head, is already gone. Seventy per cent of the field grass is also gone.

David Hogan and his wife tend 200 head of beef cattle between Augusta and Waynesboro. He and his wife are both 27 and have been in the cattle business for eight or nine years. They are praying for rain.

Hogan said in a telephone interview that he is much better off than many. He has a second job as a city forester and had hay left over from last winter. And because he is better off than many others he was not one of the recipients of hay from Thief River Falls. But then again, only 12 people were recipients of the hay, which was limited to 50 bales per person.

Because of the generous donations from area farmers, Waynesboro, GA, received 628 square bales or 16 tons of hay from area farmers Monday afternoon. This donation was made despite donations made a little over a week before, when area farmers contributed 54 tons of round bales of hay or six train car loads of hay to a 94-car train load.

"There was an unbelievable response from area farmers for this hay lift," Lillevold said.

The response was so tremendous that the chamber is seriously looking for more trucks. Lillevold said they were expecting enough hay Friday to fill one 48-foot truck, and instead got pledges for enough hay to fill three more than the one already sent.

The difficulty in arranging for more hay to be sent south is the prohibitive cost of commercial transportaion. Lillevold said the community chambers involved will pay for some of the fuel, food and accommodations, but they need someone to donate a truck and driver's time. The truck sent to Waynesboro was donated by Bertsch Trucking of Hillsboro, ND, and the driver was Brad Willison. The Waynesboro community chamber in this instance paid for fuel and provided food and accommodations for the driver. To off-set the cost of fuel, they charged $1 per bale to the receiving farmers.

Hogan and McClellan said that everyone is appreciative of the effort. For Hogan it may be only a matter of time before he becomes one of the people in serious need of assistance. Hogan normally has cut 200 tons of hay by this time of year but this year he has been able to cut only 30 tons. At this time he does not plan to reduce the size of his herd but the first to go will be the cull cows. Hogan also said that he has recently noticed large numbers of army worms, which will eat the choicest remaining grass down to the roots. He said the dry weather has helped the worms to grow in number.

McClellan said a lot of people are really starting to feel the crunch. Without grass or their own hay to cut they are forced to purchase hay. McClellan said he has noticed the price of hay increasing from an average $1.50 per square bale to $4 and $5 per bale, and from $25 for a round grass bale to between $30 and $40. When farmers cannot afford hay and there isn't enough grass the cattle have been feeding on corn stover and soybeans and millet if possible. He said there will be some herd liquidation. "But once it starts raining we can get something going," he said with some optimism.

Recently, besides relief from the heat and drought provided by hay from farmers throughout the country, the area has been receiving some rainfall. It hasn't been much or consistent but anything helps, Hogan said.

There are also other possible benefits that could be realized from this second hay lift. As in the first lift, little packages of information about Thief River Falls and the surrounding community were attached to bales of hay. The packages in this haylift included a map of Minnesota with Pennington county and surrounding area highlighted, an information sheet on the new Ag Information Center at the Thief River Falls AVTI, and several news articles about Minnesota farmers that were printed in the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Hopefully, Lillevold said; the hay

Elm Disease Has High Prevalence In City Report

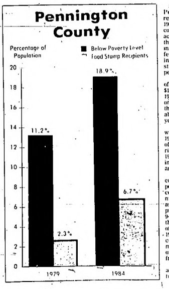
City forester John Johnson reported Tuesday night to the Thief River Falls city council that Dutch elm diease in Thief River Falls has increased significantly in the last year.

Johnson reported that as of August 11 there are 164 confirmed cases of Dutch elm disease in Thief River Falls. That number can probably be increased by 24 if an aerial survey of the community August 12 is correct. Of the 164 confirmed cases, 54 were on city maintenance property, and 110 are on private property. So far 47 of the public trees and 53 private trees have been removed. The remainder are in the process of being removed.

Dutch elm disease, according to Johnson, has increased dramatically this year, not only in Thief River Falls but region-wide. He noted that Red Lake Falls has reported 200 confirmed cases and Crookston 95. The historical nature of the disease, he said, is to show a significant increase after taking hold in an area, which may take a couple of years. He also said mild winters that do not kill the beetles and uncontrolled areas outside the city limits also add to the possibility of significant increase. He said the river corridors, the area between county road 62 and Greenwood avenue, is devastated.

Johnson said the city has experimented with tree injection to prevent Dutch elm disease, but has not found it practical for boulevard trees. However, it may be beneficial to homeowners with very high value trees. The cost of each injection is about $8 to $10 per diameter inch. He said that when the city was given a demonstration the tree injected continued to die.

Food Stamp Costs Show Increase



Significant increases in numbers of Pennington and Marshall county residents receiving food stamps from 1979 through 1984 have been noted by county social services departments, according to information received by the Times. Percentage of population in the two counties below the federally-established poverty level of income has also increased substantially during that five-year period.

In Pennington county, dollar value of food stamps issued increased from $113,264 in 1979 to a high of $467,073 in 1984. Last year the amount dropped only slightly to $419,511 and this year the total through July is $283,893 — about on a par or a little ahead of last year's pace.

In 1972 the Pennington county total was $169,095, increasing to $195,072 in 1974 before declining steadily to a low of $103,891 in 1978. After the modest rise to $113,264 in 1979 and $185,193 in 1980, the numbers rocketed to $295,479 in 1981, $350,006 in 1982, $460,433 in 1983 and $467,073 in 1984.

Hanson-Muzzy Wed May 31 At United Methodist Church

Jonnette Marie Hanson and Mitchell Bruce Muzzy were united in marriage May 31 at a 4 p.m. double ring ceremony at the United Methodist church in Thief River Falls. Parents of the couple are Ms. Helen Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Muzzy, all of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Melvyn Budke officiated at the ceremony, with Mrs. Elaine Idso, friend of the couple, serving as organist. Rocco Wilson, friend of the couple, sang, "My Only Love" and "God, A Woman and A Man."

Silver bows and red roses decorated pews and candelabra, with a large floral arrangement of white carnations, red roses and greenery gracing the altar area. Flowers used for the service were designed by Mrs. Mary Jane Goldstrand, aunt of the bride.

The bride was accompanied to the altar by her mother. She chose a gown of white taffeta featuring a high neckline and close-fitting bodice trimmed with silk rose appliques, sequins and simulated pearls. The sheer, illusion yoke was trimmed with matching appliques, and Elizabethan sleeves came to points at the wrists. A basque waist topped the full skirt, which was trimmed with lace and rose appliques leading to a chapel-length train. Her walking length veil and blusher of illusion net were trimmed with simulated pearls, falling from a lace bridal cap decorated with pearls, sequins and appliqued silk roses matching those on the dress. She carried a bouquet of white roses, babies' breath and greenery, with trailing white satin ribbon streamers and white roses.

Carole Warnecke, friend of the bride, served as her maid of honor. Other bridesmaids were Teresa Anderson, cousin of the bride, Lancaster; Laureen Johnson, sister of the groom, Grand Forks, ND; and Kathi Gustafson, friend of the bride, Thief River Falls. All wore silver taffeta gowns with a sweetheart neckline, short, puffed sleeves falling from a shoulder ruffle, and close-fitting bodice with basque waistline. They wore matching hats of silver taffeta covered with nylon netting and featuring a back pouf. Their bouquets were of red roses, white carnations and lilacs and greenery, interspersed with red and silver ribbons and red ribbon streamers; and wore their gifts from the bride, silver pearl earrings and necklace and a red garter. Twila Nash, friend of the bride from Arvilla, ND, served as her personal attendant.

Kelli Muzzy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Muzzy, cousin of the groom, Thief River Falls, was the flower girl. She wore a floor-length white taffeta gown with white silk overlay trimmed in white ribbon. Puffed sleeves accented the sweetheart neckline. She carried a miniature replica of the bride's bouquet. Tyson [illegible]nke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Warnke, cousin of the bride, Emerado, ND, was ring bearer. He wore black tails with black bow tie and cummerbund and carried a white, heart-shaped ring pillow.

The groom wore black tails and accessories. His boutonniere was of white rosebuds, babies' breath and greenery. Best man was his brother, Darrel Muzzy from Grand Forks, ND. Other attendants were Blair Johnson, Thief River Falls, and Mark Johnson, Grand Forks, ND, both friends of the groom, and Michael Goldstrand, cousin of the bride, Lancaster. All wore black tuxedos with silver grey ties and cummerbunds. Their boutonnieres were red rosebuds with babies' breath and greenery.

Gregg Peterson, friend of the groom, Minnetonka, served as head usher. Other ushers were Scott Muzzy, cousin of the groom, and Michael Beedy and Wade Johnson, both friends of the groom. They wore silver grey tuxedos with black bow ties and cummerbunds, and boutonnieres of a red rosebud.

The mother of the bride wore a floor-length, baby blue gown with blue overlay that was accented with a silver fabric design. The long sleeves were of the same sheer fabric. The groom's mother wore a street-length gown of beige design on cream featuring a full skirt and belted waist. Their corsages were of white rosebuds, babies' breath, greenery and white satin ribbon.

Honored guests were the [illegible] grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W[illegible] Hanson; her godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Chapman; and the groom's grandparents, Mrs. Anne Muzzy and Mr. and Mrs. Odin Hanson, all of Thief River Falls.

After the wedding ceremony, the bride's mother presented a reception for the couple and 200 guests in the church parlors. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Muzzy, aunt and uncle of the groom.

Highlighting the serving table was the three-tiered white wedding cake, decorated with red flowers, white wedding bells and miniature white doves. The pillared creation was topped with a white, lace-trimmed heart with double white silk bells and miniature floral sprays. It was baked and decorated by Mrs. Janis Olson of Newfolden, who also prepared the reception luncheon.

Cutting and serving the wedding cake were Debra Warnke, cousin of the bride, and Debbie Muzzy, cousin of the groom. Mrs. Mary Jane Goldstrand, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Marlene Johnson, aunt of the groom, poured. Chocolate kisses were distributed by Gene Bedard and Matthew Anderson, cousins of the bride.

Serving punch were Pam Broadwell, Shawn Fugleberg and Carrie Sollom, friends of the bride, and Jessica Bedard, cousin of the bride, and Jana Johnson, cousin of the groom, registered the guests. Connie Goldstrand and Roberta Petersburg, cousins of the bride, arranged the gifts and carriers were Paul Johnson, cousin of the groom, and Daniel Goldstrand, Darrin Warnke, David Bedard and Chad Warnke, all cousins of the bride. The traditional tossing of the bridal bouquet was performed by the bride before she and the groom left the church. Carole Warnecke, her maid of honor, was the recipient.

Following the wedding trip to Las Vegas, NV, the bride and groom presently reside at 1128 S. 22nd St., Apt. 101, Fargo, ND. The bride is employed at West Fargo Insurance Agency in West Fargo, and the groom at Allied Aftermarket Fram Division in Fargo. Both are graduates of Lincoln high school. The bride is a graduate of the Thief River Falls AVTI, and the groom a graduate of Northland community college and Moorhead state university.

The Gerald Sjulestads Honored On Their 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sjulestad were guests of honor July 6 at the Ekelund Lutheran church to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. The couple was married at Tabor on Dec. 5, 1936. Attendants at the wedding were Gertie Sjulestad Elg and John Eidelbes, brother and sister of the couple.

GUESS WHO'S 75? AUGUST 20
Love - Family

Dear Readers,
There are many facets to a complete funeral — each requires proper attention. Some matters pertain to the personal affairs of the deceased and his family, to the thoughtful consideration of friends, to the welfare of business and fraternal associates, and to the overall planning and fulfillment of the funeral service. Usually one family member must assume major responsibility.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

Centennial Park Chosen As Likely Spot For New Pool

Centennial park in Thief River Falls has been chosen as the favored site for a proposed outdoor swimming pool. On August 4 the swimming pool committee decided on Centennial park after discussing it with the Thief River Falls park and recreation board.

Tuesday night the park and recreation board and the swimming pool committee presented their recommendation to the city council for general information. Lambert Brunkhorst outlined the pros and cons of the choice for the city council.

The pros of the choice as outlined by Brunkhorst were: (1) It would be a nice addition to the city; (2) there is a large area of land available at that location; (3) it is close to other recreation opportunities including tennis, picnic areas, a boat landing and shade trees; (4) there are available utility hook-ups; (5) it would have high visibility; and (6) the projected growth of the city is in that direction.

The cons of the choice are: (1) Traffic on highway one; (2) accessibility to residents on the east side of the river and the narrow Eighth street bridge; (3) it is near the river; and (4) accessibility problems may necessitate additional structures like a foot bridge along Eighth street bridge or across the river from Pine avenue.

Charlie Oakes, chairman of the swimming pool committee, in an interview, said that Centennial park is owned by the state. The city at one time owned the land but deeded it to the state department of transportation. Gerald Wigness, city clerk, said that he had talked to the regional MN-DOT office and was told that the transfer probably would not be much of a problem.

Eleven sites altogether were seriously considered as possible sites. Besides Centennial park some of the other sites included the sports arena, Floyd B. Olson park, Washington school, Northrop school, LaFave park, Lions park, L.B. Hartz park, land below the cemetery, property near the Best Western, land around Greenwood avenue, and several others were considered.

Oakes said the next step in the process is to nail down the shape, size, designs and other hard costs. Fund raising events in the future may include a telethon on cable channel 3, and an auction.

City And County Accept Hydra-Mac Reorganization Plan

Thief River Falls city council and Pennington county commissioners have accepted a proposed reorganization play by Hydra-Mac, Inc. of Thief Riever Falls. Arve Moser of Moser and Christianson, Ltd., presented the plan to both on Tuesday.

Hydra-Mac, Inc. filed for protection of the courts from its creditors so it could attempt to reorganize (chapter 11) Aug. 10, 1984. Presently there are 48 employees at the plant in Thief River Falls.

The proposal presented to the city and county would release Hydra-Mac from paying penalties and interest on property taxes owed on the tax owed. Tax owed on the two pieces of proerty totals $150,302.57. Penalties on the delinquent tax adds up to $18,464.79, and interest as of August, adds up to $33,498.63.

Concern for the impact of losing 48 jobs in the community was one of the main reasons both organizations accepted the proposal. The payroll for Hydra-Mac is in excess of $600,000. According to reasons listed by Moser for the proposal, the loss of those dollars would have yet another impact on the already depressed economy.

Other reasons listed for the proposal include: "The loss of employment could have an effect on the school district if any of the lost jobs result in loss of students due to forced moves out of the community; forgiveness of interest and penalties would only affect the cost of money during the period in arrears; the fear of setting a precedent if the interest and penalty were forgiven is different than that of Arctic Enterprises because if the plan is not accepted the creditors with priority would leave little left for others; the situation is not similar to the farming community problems because the state legislature hasn't rolled back industrial real estate taxes due to the depressed economy in Northern Minnesota. Instead, the burden has shifted to more of a non-agricultural base; and that if we want to attract other business to the community and if we don't help an industry in the community by not doing everything we can to keep that industry, then we are looking at the future with an unrealistic perspective."

Moser pointed out that since there are other creditors there is no guarantee that the plan will be accepted or that Hydra-Mac will be successful.

You Can LOSE MONEY in those "HIGH YIELD" BOND FUNDS.

Many heavily advertised investments—even those involving government bonds or mortgages backed by a government related agency—are subject to market risk!

You can lose some of your capital if interest rates turn against you. This includes any investment whose market value fluctuates on the basis of interest rates in general.

If you must sell before it matures, there's a chance you may be paid less money than you invested. And many of these investments never mature. They are shares in perpetual pools of securities—not a wise investment if your main investment objective is preservation of capital.

Many people wrongly believe that if they invest in government-related securities, the government will stand behind the 100% return of their principal at any time. This is not true!

Certainly the government guarantees it will pay off its securities 100 cents on the dollar when they mature. But it will not protect you from market loss. This in no way compares with the insured safety of our accounts and CDs. Preliminary Okay Given TRF Waste Treatment Plant

Minnesota pollution control agency has made a preliminary determination that Thief River Falls should be reissued an existing national pollutant discharge elimination system (NPDES) and state disposal system permit to continue to discharge into the designated receiving water. Comments from the public are welcome within a comment period which ends on August 29.

The permit will be reissued by the Minnesota pollution control agency for a term of approximately five years. Upon issuance, this reissued permit will supersede the previously issued NPDES permit that expired on March 31, 1986.

The application, draft permit and other documents are available for inspection and may be copied any time between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Copies of the public notice are available at the permits section of the division of water quality, Minnesota pollution control agency, 1935 West county road B2, Roseville, MN, and at the agency's regional office located at 714 Lake avenue, Lake avenue plaza, suite 220, Detroit Lakes, MN; (218) 847-1519.

Thief River Falls operates a treatment facility for wastewater from normal domestic sources near the airport in Thief River Falls. Wastewater from a two-cell stabilization pond, which is designed to treat an average influent flow of up to 6,750 gallons per day, flows into a county ditch. The average flow into the ponds is well below the limit. The average is 2,000 gallons per day. The notice from the Minnesota pollution control agency states that there has been no reported discharge in recent years and there are no designed bypass or overflow points known to exist in the disposal system.

On the basis of preliminary staff review and application of applicable standards and regulations, the Minnesota pollution control agency has made a preliminary determination that a permit should be issued for construction of and or discharge from the facility subject to certain effluent limitations and special conditions.

The director's determination that the permit should be issued, according to the notice, is tentative. Interested persons are invited to submit written comments upon the proposed permit. Any comments submitted are required by Minnesota law to include the following information: a statement of the person's interest in the action, a statement of the action the person wishes the agency to take, and reasons supporting the person's position.

During the comment period, any person may submit a request for a public informational meeting or a contested case hearing the proposed permit action. A public informational meeting is an informal meeting which the agency may hold to help clarify and resolve issues. A contested case hearing is a formal proceeding before a state administrative law judge.

Remembering days past is part of the new packages of memories available at the Northwest Regional library in Thief River Falls. The library now has a "bi-fokal" kit entitled "Remembering the Depression" and "Remembering Farm Days" available for check-out until January.

Bi-fokal kits are program sets of cassettes or records, sometimes slides or art prints, stories or scripts and manuals with program suggestions. While the material has been geared to the senior citizen's interest, it can be checked out and enjoyed by all ages. Below is a description of the kits.

"Voices from the Depression" describes in story and folk song how people survived Black Tuesday, "Beans, bacon, and gravy," seven-cent cotton and 40 cent meat, dust bowl farms and union struggles. The kit includes: a 140 slide and tape program, 25 copies of the booklet "Words from the Depression," a sing-along tape of "So Long, It's Been Good to Know You," a cassette tape called "Remembering Depression Radio," a large-print skit complete with props, Colliergraphs, a contest featured bi-weekly in "Collier's," FRD's alphabet agencies, 25 copies of a page of alphabet soup to decode, a feed or flour sack, apple, tin cup and pencils, and a manual with program ideas.

"Remembering Farm Days," includes a slide tape program, a cassette tape of country music for sing-along and some barn dance tunes, 25 copies of the booklet "Farm Rhythm" in large print, historic photographs of dairying in a picture packet, seeds to touch and identify, and an authentic cowbell, several books, and a manual with program ideas, helpful hints and a bibliography of related materials.

Council Okays Rate Hike For Garbage Service

utility. Such service is subject to interruption during peak hours at the option of the electric utility department.

The city council recognized Tuesday night that the Teamsters union will be filing a grievance on the discharge of Doyle Thompson. The city council also decided to appearl a decision by a district court that basically orders that the city of Thief River Falls continue payment on insurance for Arlen Merril, a former sanitation employee who was on a medical leave of absence for nearly two years before he was fully discharged.

Weeds or wild rice in the Red Lake river may be awhile in being removed. City councilmen voiced their concern over aesthetic appearance and quality of water to the city water supply because of a large amount of weeds and wild rice that has accumulated in the Red Lake river within the borders of Thief River Falls.

Gordon Forester of the Minnesota department of natural resources located in Thief River Falls explained that the situation is the result of stable water conditions this year. He said he would oppose any requested permit to remove the wild rice and vegetation by dredging means if it would be for aesthetic appearances only.

Councilman Don Barron argued that added sedimentation raised the level of the river bottom in areas along the river, which allowed wild rice and vegetation to flourish, which acts as a trap for dead animals and other floating refuse.

Brent Johnson, hydrologist with the Minnesota department of natural resources, explained that the city has two options in the situation. It can apply for an aquatic nuisance control permit, which includes cutting or spraying to control growth, or for a dredging operation permit. The dredging permit would require permission from the department of natural resources, Red Lake watershed district and the pollution control agency, involve an environmental assessment, and possibly an environmental impact statement as well as other requirements. City council moved to proceed with avenues available to them.

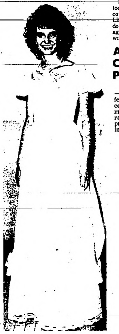
Don Stewart, city planner and Jobs Inc. executive director, appeared before the city council to give an update of the activities of Jobs Inc. Because Jobs Inc. is under budget expenditures this year, it offered the county and city to suspend and halt payments of dedicated grant money from the governmental bodies. The amount adds up to about $6,250 per agency. Both readily accepted, but the city referred the matter to the finance committee. Stewart informed the council that the Over the Horizon Backscatter (OTHB) radar system indications are favorable for area receiver location, and that the updated employee statistics for the station is now 50 employees, most of which would be security personnel that could come from Thief River Falls.

In other business the city council paid regular and special bills totalling $48,631.35; granted three permits, with one no vote from Councilman Kenneth Murphy, to have beer in area parks for Northwest Medical center on August 28, Falls Clinic on August 14, and the Elks club on August 24; established a three stall loading zone in front of Northern Woodwork on South Knight avenue; declared that Jeffrey J. Sebenaler is a police officer and that he is now a member of PERA police and fire fund; and approved a resolution not to replace any trees removed in an easement on the property of Jack Limanen, 1601 Cardinal avenue.

In items for information the council took note that Lakehead Pipeline company had donated $500 for Jaws of Life rescue equipment, Don Wahlbeck donated $100, and Hartz foundation agreed to match $4,500 if that amount was raised by the city also.

SWIMSUIT DIVISION winner at the Miss Thief River Falls pageant in the Lincoln high school auditorium Saturday, August 2, was Kari Hanson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hanson of Thief River Falls.

MISS CONGENIALITY winners at the Miss Thief River Falls pageant competition were Penny Pfann (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pfann of Red Lake Falls and Pauline Lindberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lindberg of Thief River Falls. They each received the same number of votes in balloting among the nine contestants for the Miss Thief River Falls title.



EVENING GOWN and on-stage personality winner August 2 at the Miss Thief River Falls pageant in the Lincoln high school auditorium was Debra Erickson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Carroll Erickson of Thief River Falls. She also won the personal interview and talent competition enroute to the Miss Thief River Falls title and a trip to the Miss Minnesota pageant next spring.

Area Food Stamp Costs Increase In Past Five Years

—an increase of 74.1 per cent. Overall federal spending increased 92.7 per cent from 1979 to 1985. The only other major items increasing at a greater rate than nutrition assistance programs were defense spending, interest payments on the national debt and support payments for agricultural commodities.

Expenditures for the food stamp program during fiscal 1985 totaled 12.6 billion or 66.6 per cent of all spending for federal food assistance. The program affects more Americans than any other federal nutrition program and food stamps are provided to individuals and households using a formula largely based on income. Most individuals or households with incomes less than the poverty level qualify for food stamp assistance.

Because individuals who qualify are automatically entitled to such assistance, it appears that a substantial number of those individuals legally entitled are not currently accepting such assistance.

lift may also create a market for hay. Hay is an item that has been plentiful in this area, and but for its low value, hay could be a marketable item that would help out area farmers. Because the value of hay is so low it is not feasible to transport it long distances to other markets. Lillevold said the chamber is looking into reduced rail rates.

Participants in this last hay lift included Klem Gigstad, Dean Kaushagen, Iver Anderson, Roger Reuter, Doyle Nelson, John Panek, Mike Kramer, Lyle Swanson, Rich Jorde, Cecil Anderson, Leonard Rondorf, Eugene Rondorf, Larry Belmont, Sue Lillevold, Duane Vatsaas (use of elevator), Neil McEwen, Dave Olin and Wade Joppru. There were others but they decided not to have their names listed.

Jail Bail Event At Summerfest Was Successful

Several people from the Thief River Falls area spent time in jail on July 31 as part of Summerfest activities. The staged event was held by the Thief River Falls Jaycees to raise money for the American Heart association.

The 18 citizens arrested were handed over to the American Heart association to participate in the organization's "Jail Bail for Heart" fund raising event sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees. Each prisoner raised a bail to be released from the jail at 210 LaBree ave. N. The prisoners raised $1,778.63 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Money was also donated by the Fireside Fitness center. The bail money will be turned over to the American Heart association to support research, education and community service programs.

Peggy Mehrkens, event director, said "people seemed to have a lot of fun seeing some of the most prominent citizens in the community come down and be jailbirds." Mehrkens added that "the time each of the volunteers spent raising their bails and staying in our jail is priceless, and the great support the community gave to the event will help the American Heart association fight the number one killer in this country — heart disease."

Deadline To Apply For Property Tax Refunds Aug. 15

Deadline for renters and homeowners to apply for property tax refunds is August 15 this year — two weeks earlier than last year, according to the Minnesota department of revenue.

The revenue department said about 145,000 renters and homeowners have not yet filed their returns out of the 610,000 who are expected to file. The average refund is estimated to be about $315 for renters and about $190 for homeowners.

The department will begin issuing refunds to an estimated 330,000 renters about August 15 and to about 280,000 homeowners beginning September 30. Applicants who wait until the August 15 deadline can expect their refunds within 60 days of filing.

The filing deadline was changed by the 1985 legislature in order to correspond with the property tax deadline which was also moved up two weeks, to October 15, in 1984.

To be eligible for a property tax refund, an applicant must have been a Minnesota resident for all or part of 1985 and have an income under $40,000-$42,000 if the applicant is over age 65 or disabled. Homeowners must have owned and lived in their home on Jan. 2, 1986. Renters are eligible if they rented for all or part of 1985 and if their landlords paid property taxes on their rental units.

If applicants file after the August 15 deadline, their refund will be reduced five per cent for each month it is late, up to a maximum of 25 per cent. A refund will not be issued if a return is filed more than one year after the deadline.

The property tax refund is designed so that persons whose proerty tax is a high percentage of their income will receive a greater refund than whose property tax is a low perentage of their income. Renters receive property tax refunds because a portion of their rent goes to pay property tax bills.

If taxpayers have questions about their property tax refund return or if they need forms, they should call the Taxpayers Services Office at (612) 296-3781 or 1-800-652-9094 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. A taxpayer may also request forms by leaving a message on the department's 24-hour forms request line at 297-3737.

ICCC Board To Meet August 20

Monthly meeting of the Inter-County Community council's board of directors will be held on Wednesday, August 20, at 6:30 p.m. at the Sand Valley Lutheran church in Trail. All board members are encouraged to attend.

Murphy Is Part Of Meeting With State Officials

Ken Murphy of Thief River Falls, board member of the International Coalition for Land and Water Stewardship in the Red River basin, was part of a group that met with Governors Rudy Perpich of Minnesota and George Sinner of North Dakota, Manitoba Premier Howard Pawley and Minnesota State Senator Roger Moe July 31 at the University of North Dakota's center for aerospace sciences. The officials met as members of the commission's advisory committee.

Purpose of the meeting was to discuss with board members the coalition's activities in the basin. These activities include grass roots involvement, stewardship and consensus building on land and water issues.

President Lance Yohe said the primary focus was cooperation among North Dakota, Minnesota and Manitoba on vital land and water issues.

An example from the meeting of the need for cooperation was regarding the Oslo dike situation. Minnesota and North Dakota farmers met and discussed ratifying a plan to set the dikes at equal heights on both sides of the river to protect against a flood that's two feet above the 1975 flood stage. They brought this new proposal to the governors who indicated a willingness to take a look at the proposal.

Heckman Is New Coordinator At Medical Center

Vicki Heckman is the new community services coordinator for the mental health division of Northwest medical center in Thief River Falls. An employee of the Glenmore foundation in Crookston for nearly 15 years, she is a certified chemical dependency counselor.

According to Dr. Steve Levinson, director of the mental health division, she was selected for the position because of her "extensive practical experience and proven effectiveness in working with an exceptionally wide range of formal and informal community resources." Currently a resident of Crookston, she is in the process of purchasing a home in Thief River Falls.

Don Janes, who preceded Heckman as community services coordinator, is now serving as full time program director for Northern Lights, a residential treatment facility operated by the mental health division for the benefit of persons who have chronic emotional difficulties.

Pre-Register To Vote In Primary On September 9

Last day to pre-register to vote in the September 9 primary election is Tuesday, August 19, according to Secretary of Sate Joan Growe.

Growe pointed out that, "Being pre-registered will insure that the voter doesn't have to go through the lengthy process of providing identification on election day."

Anyone needing to register should immediately contact his city clerk or county auditor and have a registration card mailed out. The card should be filled out and returned by 5 p.m. August 19. It is not necessary for the card to be notarized nor is it necessary for it to be witnessed by another voter.

"The total process," Growe said, "takes about three minutes and will save the voter and election officials many problems on election day."

Persons who have never registered, have moved or changed their name, or who have not voted in the past four years must register in order to vote.

In order to be qualified to register, a voter must be: (1) A citizen of the United States; (2) a resident of Minnesota for 20 days preceding the election; (3) 18 years of age by election day; and (4) must not be under guardianship, adjudicated insane, or convicted of treason or a felony without having his civil rights restored.

Voters are able to get registration instructions in braille, cassette or large type if they request it. In addition, every city of the first, second and third class and county seats are required to have a telecommunications device for the deaf to receive voter registration information.

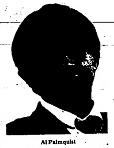
Palmquist Will Show Film Here On Exploitation



Al Palmquist

Al Palmquist will be at the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls on Monday, August 18, to show "Every Parent's Nightmare," a newly-released film dealing with the sexual exploitation of children. The program will begin at 7 p.m.

"Child sexual abuse is America's number one social problem," Palmquist said. He also stated that 20 per cent of all boys and 25 per cent of all girls will be sexually molested before they grow up. Palmquist will give some tips on how to keep children safe.

Palmquist is founder and chairman of the board of Midwest Challenge, an organization dedicated to "healing the hirts of troubled youth." He is also founder and President of Safe House International, a shelter and street ministry which reunites missing children with their families. He was also director of "Every Parent's Nightmare."

In 1978 Palmquist discovered the prostitution pipeline which trapped young Midwestern girls and fed them into an underworld of pimps, slavery and street life. Palmquist made national headlines as a crusader after several widely-publicized rescue trips to rescue these girls who were taken to New York City. Out of these trips he wrote the book, "The Minnesota Connection." Palmquist has made many guest appearances on national television, including the Phil Donahue Show, the Today Show, Good Morning America, P.T.L. club, and in Canada, 100 Huntly Street.

"Every Parent's Nightmare" is sponsored by the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International in Thief River Falls. A free will offering will be taken.

NCC Name Change

Northland Community College Pioneers. It may sound like a Minnesota Community College Conference expansion team, but it actually represents a name change for the Thief River Falls school's athletic teams, beginning with the 1986-87 school year.

Provost Dr. Allen Nichols and athletic director Rick Nelson made the name change announcement this week, following a recently-completed study at the college that investigated the need and desirability of selecting a new athletic team name and symbol.

The Pioneers will succeed the Northmen and Northwomen. They've been the Northmen since Northland fielded its first basketball team for the 1965-66 season, and the Northwomen came upon the scene in 1974-75, following the introduction of women's sports at the school.

Nichols and Nelson said the study was initiated by the Northland student association, faculty members with responsibility in athletics and other interested individuals. A survey was distributed to obtain student opinion, and discussion groups were conducted which viewed the merits of several proposed names.

School officials said a number of names were considered during the process. Pioneers won out, they said, because it "denotes initiative, endurance and character building, all the qualities that are considered significant in the Northland Community College activity program."

First appearance of the Pioneers will be a Wednesday, September 10, volleyball match when Northland hosts Itasca at 6:30 p.m. First home football game for the newly-named Pioneers will be a Saturday, September 27, homecoming contest against Itasca. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m.

Nelson also announced that a change has been made in the previously-announced 1986 Northland football schedule.

A regular season-ending Saturday, November 1, Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) game against Brainerd, slated as a 1:30 p.m. match-up at Prowler Field in Thief River Falls, has been switched to Thursday, October 30. The site remains the same, but the opening kickoff will take place at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to the homecoming contest against Itasca, Northland's other 1986 home football dates will be Saturday, October 4, vs. Vermilion, a 2 p.m. game, and Thursday, October 23, vs. the University of Minnesota-Crookston, another 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Season opener will be a Thursday, September 11, nonconference game against the Moorhead State University junior varsity, a 7 p.m. game at Moorhead. MCCC opener will be a Saturday, September 20, game against Mesabi, a 1:30 p.m. contest at Virginia.

Northland football practice will get underway September 2.

Coach Deb Jacobson will start Northland volleyball practice August 30.

Soccer Standout

Leslie Gail Zimmerman, who has Thief River Falls ties, is a member of the Colorado under 19 girls championship soccer team that won second place honors in the Athens Cup Tournament in Seattle, WA recently.

She is the daughter of Glenda Gausen of Thief River Falls and Robert Zimmerman of Northglenn, CO. She is also the granddaughter of Esther Gausen and the great-granddaughter of Mabel Ihle, both of Thief River Falls.

Zimmerman's Northglenn Thunder soccer team won the Colorado Cup for girls ages 19-under on May 29, then traveled to Seattle for the United States Youth Soccer Association's Far West Regional in June where they placed first against teams from Arizona, Idaho, Washington, Utah, Oregon and California.

They began Athena Cup competition, the national title for the USYSA, on July 30, beating teams from Florida and Kansas before losing to a team from New York.

A 1986 Northglenn High School graduate, Zimmerman, who graduated seventh in a class of 627 students, will enter Metro College in Denver on a soccer scholarship, with plans to major in mechanical engineering.

TRF 13-Year-Olds Win Title

Highlighted by an unusually low-scoring 1-0 championship game win over Crookston, the Thief River Falls 13-year-olds finished their 1986 baseball season with an unbeaten title-winning performance in the five-team, double-elimination Lake Agassiz District Babe Ruth tournament.

Thief River Falls beat the East Grand Forks Reds 4-3, stopped the East Grand Forks Orioles 11-5 and doubled Roseau 10-5 before shading Crookston in the finals of the season-ending tournament played Saturday and Sunday, August 2 and 3, at the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond.

TRF 4, EGF Reds 3

Mike Swanson came up with a game-winning RBI single with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning to snap a 3-3 tie and give Thief River Falls a 4-3 first round win over the East Grand Forks Reds.

East Grand Forks scored in the top of the first inning, Thief River Falls went ahead 3-1 in the third and East Grand Forks tied it with a two-run fifth.

Troy Coltom was 3-for-3, with a double and a triple, while Tim Hugg was 2-for-3, with a double, as Thief River Falls out-hit East Grand Forks 7-4. Hugg was the winning pitcher.

Both sides had two errors.

TRF 11, EGF Orioles 5

Thief River Falls spotted the East Grand Forks Orioles a 4-0 edge in the top of the first inning, but came back for an 11-5 win in Round 2.

Kyle Evenson was 3-for-4, with a double, Dale Martell was 3-for-5 and Danny Hoffard went 2-for-2 as Thief River Falls out-hit East Grand Forks 11-4, scoring three times in the second inning, three more in the third for a 6-4 lead and wrapped it up with a five-run sixth after the Orioles had pulled within 6-5 in the fifth.

Martell was the winning pitcher.

TRF 10, Roseau 5

A seven-run first inning carried Thief River Falls past Roseau 10-5 in the third round of the tournament.

Roseau had a brief 2-0 lead in the top of the first, but fell behind in the bottom of the inning. Thief River Falls made it 10-2 in the fourth, then gave up two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Thief River Falls had just a 5-4 base hit edge, but the winners drew 13 walks. Roseau also had three errors; Thief River Falls had two.

TRF 1, Crookston 0

Tim Hugg won his second game of the tournament with Thief River Falls' fourth complete-game pitching performance by tossing a four-hit shutout in a 1-0 championship game decision over Crookston. Thief River Falls had just two hits, but relied on the strong pitching by Hugg and an error-free defensive effort for the title. Crookston had only two errors in the well-played finale. Only run of the game came in the bottom of the fourth when Tyson Treat lead off with a single. He stole second and scored on a two-out single by Kyle Evenson. Crookston's best scoring opportunity came in the top of the sixth when the visitors had runners at first and third with just one out. But Treat made a diving catch in center field for the second out, and the third out was recorded at the plate when Crookston tried to score on a wild pitch. Catcher Troy Coltom recovered the ball and threw to Hugg covering the plate for the out.

A lead-off single and stolen base in the seventh put a potential tying Crookston run at second, but Hugg struck out the side to end the game.

PRESENTATIONS AT THE conclusion of the Myrle Carlson American Cancer Society Memorial Tournament at the Thief River Golf Club Sunday, August 9, included T-shirts to the winning team members in the 9-hole, Texas scramble. Tournament chairman Bill Corliss (left) and Mrs. Delores Carlson are shown with winning team members, left to right, Dave Onkka, Tim Nyland, Dan Upham and Paul Borchert. The foursome will represent the Pennington County Chapter of the American Cancer Society at the state tournament level September 15 in St. Cloud. The tournament here, named in memory of Myrle Carlson, a long-time Thief River Falls resident and a member of the Board of Education of School District 564 who died of cancer this summer, drew a field of 21 teams despite rain that cut a scheduled 18-hole event in half. The event produced a $500 check that was presented by Mrs. Carlson to Bob Stroble, president of the Pennington County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Other tournament officials included tournament manager Art Welter, putt-off manager Curt Geatz, publicity director Paul Bortnem and lunch director Sylvia Sjoberg. A special award was presented to Mrs. Carlson and the top putter award went to Bob Geatz, with Jim Hellie finishing second and Dick Penning placing third.

Schmidt-Coke and Coors represented Thief River Falls at the 1986 Class B men's state fast pitch softball tournament in Rochester over the weekend, but both teams made quick exits in the 22-team, double-elimination event.

Coors, after receiving a first round bye, was involved in three low-scoring games, beating Villard 1-0, losing to Kiester 1-0 and bowing to West Concord 2-0.

"Our pitching was excellent and our defense was excellent, but our offense stayed back in Thief River Falls," said Coors team manager Maynard Moen. Marty Brown handled the pitching chores.

Meanwhile, Schmidt-Coke also made a competitive showing, but still came up empty-handed in a 3-2 loss to Windom and a 5-2 defeat at the hands of Scandia House of Stillwater.

"We did all right," said Schmidt-Coke team manager Bill Dormady. "They played pretty good ball."

Tim Erb of Detroit Lakes, a tournament addition, did most of the Schmidt-Coke pitching.

Schmidt-Coke was the 1986 Thief River Falls Men's Fast Pitch Softball League champion with a 12-3 record, finishing off a suspended game with Coors that had been logged as a tie in the standings for some time by winning a 12-10 decision in the 13th inning.

Coors finished second at 9-5.

Kevin Sanders wrapped up individual hitting honors, leading the league in hitting with a .525 batting average (32-for-61), seven home runs and 25 RBI.

Todd Ortloff finished with a .567 batting average (17-for-30), but missed qualifying for the batting title by two at-bats (it took 32 at-bats to qualify, according to league statistician Richard Bjerken). Ortloff missed a game, then was sidelined by an injury that kept him from getting his necessary at-bats.

Sanders' .525 average is the second highest figure by a Thief River Falls League player, pointed out Bjerken, topped only by a .533 effort by Gordy Peterson a couple of years ago, he said.

Hunters Will Lose Lost River Area For 1986 Duck Season

Because of the complete drawdown of the Lost River Impoundment (LRP) over-water duck hunting opportunities will not be available this year on this popular local hunting area.

"There may be water in some of the constructed potholes in the impoundment but most of the area will be mudflats," according to area wildlife manager Gordy Forester.

Use of canoes or boats will be impossible and hunters using the area will have to use hip boots to get to the potholes.

The drawdown had been planned for a year ago but had not been implemented because of weather conditions. The reason the DNR is drying the area out is so that it can burn the rank vegetation to improve the overall quality of the marsh area for duck nestling, brood rearing and, after the area is reflooded in 1987, to provide better opportunities for duck hunting, said Forester.

For each additional household member add	2,444	204	47	3,478	290	67

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians and an income scale. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out the form and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school. Households should answer all questions on the form. An application which does not contain all of the following information cannot be processed by the school: (1) the total household income and the amount and source of income received by each household member (such as wages, child support, etc.), OR just the household's food stamp case number if the household is currently on food stamps; (2) names of all household members; (3) social security numbers of all household members 21 years of age or older or the word "none" for any adult household member who does not have a social security number; and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Applications may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If children are approved for free or reduced price meal benefits, the household must immediately report any increases in household income over $50 per month ($600 per year) and decreases in household size to the school.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at that time.

In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced price meal benefits regardless of the household's income. If a household has foster children living with them and they wish to apply for free or reduced price meals for them, the household should contact the school for more information.

Under the provisions of the Policy, the Superintendent will review applications and determine eligibility. Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of that official may wish to discuss the decision with that official on an informal basis. The household also has the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the following official: Jerry Gerardy, School Board Chairman, Route 1, Box 71, Plummer, MN 56748, telephone 465-4372. The Plummer School has a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

In the operation of our child feeding programs no child will be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, DC 20250.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dearest mother and grandmother who was taken away from us one sad year ago, August 10, 1985.

As time rolls on we miss her more
Her loving smile her loving face,
No one can fill her vacant place
When evening shades are falling
And we are sitting alone
To our heart there comes a longing
If she only could come home
No one knows the silent heartaches
Only those who have lost can tell of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one we loved so well
In peace we leave her so quiet and rest
The parting was painful but God knows best.

Begin Preparing For Back To School By Assisting Children

by Linda Albert

The end of vacation is in sight. After all the effort you've put into coping with your kids on vacation, you're looking forward to winding down, giving the kids back to the teachers and heaving a sigh of relief. But wait a minute — your job isn't finished yet. It's transition time — time to get the kids physically and psychologically ready to begin school again with their best foot forward.

Task number one is getting clothes ready. Start thinking about clothes at least a week or two before school opens. Begin by trying on clothes not worn over the vacation and eliminating those items that no longer fit. Then sit down with your children and inventory what's left. Make a list of necessary purchases with each child.

Take your kids with you when you buy school clothing. If you choose what you like, ignoring kids' preferences or the current fads, much of what you buy will remain untouched on closet shelves. You'll have a hassle every morning trying to convince your kids to wear clothes they don't like. Remember, every generation of kids dresses differently. If you force your kids to wear clothes that are similar to those you wore to school they'll feel like outsiders with their peers.

Shopping for school clothes is easiest if you assemble a selection of items that are acceptable to you in style, durability, practicality and price. The kids can make their choices from this selection.

The ritual of laying out clothes for the first day back is important at the close of summer. The time you spend with your child choosing and trying on outfits says to your child, "I care about you. I care about school, let's be ready for tomorrow."

Task number two is assembling and organizing school supplies. First, take an inventory of learning supplies on hand and make lists of needed items. Your kids will have fun picking out their learning supplies themselves. Take them to an office supply store — these places are filled with all kinds of goodies to make schoolwork easier. Some discount stores also have a good supply of school needs.

Surprise your kids with some personalized pencils and notepads. Present these with a big flourish at a "back-to-school ceremony" the night before school begins. Devise your own celebration, with speeches full of positive predictions for the coming year. Serve refreshments. Such family traditions live in kids' memories long after they are grown and graduated.

After you have inventoried and purchased necessary school supplies, you'll want to organize a storage system. Believe it or not, kids can learn to be neat. They can learn to put things away in their proper places. Teach neatness to your kids and their teacher will love you for it, for the neatness habit at home is likely to carry over to school.

The key to teaching neatness is to provide adequate storage containers. Ideally each item should be stored separately in a labeled container. You'll need boxes and cans of all sizes and shapes. Shoe boxes, coffee and canned goods cans, plastic laundry tubs and bowls — all make good storage containers.

If you don't own a label maker, buy one and stock up on lots of colored tape. Kids have fun with these. When they have made the labels themselves, kids are more likely to be careful putting things away. Label both the container and its space on the shelf or drawer.

School supplies that need to travel from home to school and back again need to be bagged, boxed or briefed. In some areas bookbags decorated with cartoon characters are in vogue. Backpacks are favored over kids' briefcases, especially among older kids, in some schools. Your kids can tell you what's in at their school. Like clothes, don't try to buck the trend on this one.

The last step is to prepare your kids mentally and psychologically to learn again. It's amazing how much kids can forget over vacation, even short ones. Children in the early grades are especially prone to memory lapses. Spell anticipate? Multiply 9 x 7? Put commas in the correct spot? Such trivia has been replaced by baseball averages, plots from TV cartoons and sitcoms, conversations with best friends. There's hope, however. What's once been learned can usually be retrieved with a little review.

Review math facts with flash cards. Make your own index cards or buy inexpensive sets of flash cards at a variety or school school store. Make a game out of the review. Quiz each other. You might use a kitchen timer to see how long it takes for your child to do each problem or to see how many can be done in a given period of time. Your child will have fun trying to beat his or her own record.

Another way to review math is to play school with your kids. Take turns being the teacher. Make up work sheets with problems. If you saved any of last year's sheets that the kids brought home, you'll have an excellent guide for what kinds of problems to make up.

Old-fashioned spelling bees in which the whole family can participate will refresh kids' spelling memories. Librarians can advise you about books that are appropriate for your child's reading level that you can read aloud together. Workbooks for home use are available in every conceivable skill area in bookstores and variety stores. Use these as a basis for reviewing, too.

Besides reviewing skills, help your kids get ready to learn by making reasonable plans for improvements. Sit down with last year's report card and talk with your kids about how they feel about each grade. Are they satisfied with it? Do they feel any improvement is needed? If so, what steps do they think they can make to make this improvement? If there any specific help they would like from you? From the teacher?

If more than one area needs improvement, it's best to focus for the time being on just one area. Let the child choose which one. After the first marking period you can choose another area to focus on. Shooting for too many changes at one time spreads kids' efforts too thin and leads to discouragement.

Getting ready is only the beginning. To help your kids succeed academically, you'll need to remain involved with their schooling all year long.

For less money.

Now great coffee flavor costs less. Thanks to "Custom Roasting," a new coffee roasting process, you can get terrific coffee flavor at a lower coffee price.

You see, Custom Roasting intensifies the flavor of coffee beans. It also expands the beans more than conventional roasting methods, so there is more coffee surface area to interact with the water in your coffee maker.

Since you get more flavor from each bean, you use less coffee to get the taste you love. And that saves you money.

To help you save even more, here's a special offer. Just redeem the coupon below and you'll get 40¢ off your next purchase of new Butter-Nut Custom Roast Coffee.

The good news is you save money on coffee. The bad news is you still have to pay for the water.

We Will Be Open Periodic Saturdays

Some years ago I had a private secretary who guarded and protected my schedule almost too severely and to a fault. She gave most people the third-degree of questioning when they came to my office without an appointment.

But every day one little person got passed her without so much as a question. When this little girl finished kindergarten downstairs she would dash upstairs, run pass the secretary who waved her on in, and she'd come crashing into my office always as welcomed as a fresh breath of spring.

Why? She was my daughter! It was not a matter of WHAT she had done nor what she wanted with me that gave her immediate access to me. It was WHO SHE WAS.

And when we approach God, it is not in terms of what we know or don't know; not what we have done or not done, but rather, WHO we are. More accurately, WHOSE we are.

We are His. "We are the children of God; and if children, then heirs, heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ . . ." (Rom. 8:16,17)

Fearing The Liberals

Following comments were written by Richard L. Lesher, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

"I fear the Greeks," Virgil wrote in his famous account of the Trojan horse, "even when they are bearing gifts."

Like Virgil, I am a suspicious sort. I fear the liberals even when they claim to champion family values.

A case in point is a proposed law put forward by congressional liberals to require every business with five or more employees to provide 18 weeks of job-protected parental leave to both male and female workers.

Like that horse outside the gates of Troy, this bill looks harmless enough on the surface. Indeed, 90 per cent of all businesses grant maternity leave to women, and 40 per cent also extend it to men. So what's wrong with a federal law extending the same rights to everyone?

Well, lots of things. To begin with, you can assume the liberals behind this bill have a lot more on their minds besides unpaid maternity leave. The bill would set up a commission to study ways to require paid leave in the future. It would also require companies to grant 26 weeks of disability leave within any one-year period, and guarantee re-employment in the same or similar jobs upon an employee's return. And it would set up a new federal bureaucracy that you can assume would immediately engulf business in a tidal wave of new rules and regulations governing employee-employer relations.

The liberals point out correctly that most European countries guarantee paid parental leave, and a host of other benefits, that make [illegible] for women to juggle work and family responsibilities. What they decline to add is [illegible] this expansion of state-guaranteed [illegible] has virtually killed the job market in Europe at a time when the United States has [illegible] new jobs by the millions.

There is a definite correlation between mandated work benefits and economic growth. The businesses in this country that do not provide parental leave are, almost without exception, those that cannot afford to. To impose such a requirement upon them would sound a death knell for thousands of marginal firms, mostly small, that are struggling to survive. Millions of jobs would disappear overnight.

I wish that for just once the liberals in Congress could come up with a sensible solution to a problem that did not contain a concealed weapon pointed at the heart of the free enterprise system. But they haven't done it yet, and I am beginning to wonder if it is by accident or design.

Maybe Yes, Maybe No . . .

Sometimes it becomes a little difficult to accept the assumptions which politicians draw about themselves and their parties. A recent case in point is a news release from Rep. Dave Jennings, Speaker of the House in the Minnesota Legislature and for a time a candidate for the Independent-Republican gubernatorial endorsement.

Rep. Jennings credits his political party with cutting taxes by $1 billion, increasing state spending by only one per cent and making education funding the state government's top priority. He laments that a major welfare reform bill passed by the I-R controlled House was "shot down" by the liberal DFL Senate and that I-R initiated changes in unemployment compensation laws were vetoed by the governor.

"Every step of the way, House conservatives have been in there, battling for the taxpayer, making sure that tax dollars are spent wisely," he says.

Wellll....maybe yes, maybe no.

Don't you wonder how the I-R party was able to cut taxes, hold the line on spending and push education funding but unable to accomplish welfare reform and unemployment compensation changes? Could there have been just a little help on the former and not on the latter?

Jennings is somewhat right in noting at least a partial change in direction by the legislature in the past 18 months. If the I-R party is really responsible for that, it is worthy of congratulations. Quite frankly, we think he is too eager to take credit for positives and too willing to ignore or discount negatives. It has happened in politics before.

For the record, however, here's how Jennings sees the situation:

"When the big-spenders ran the House, there was no such thing as a 'bottom line.' Their spending committees would meet for months, expanding existing programs and dreaming up expensive new ones," he writes. "Near the end of the legislative session, they'd tally up the price tag for their folly and hand a due-bill to us taxpayers. Using that formula, it's no wonder spending would triple in just over a decade."

Then, according to Rep. Jennings, along comes financial salvation.

"When those of us in the conservative House caucus took control, we were determined to treat the state's budget the same way we treat our family budgets," he says. "When we set our household budgets, we determine how much money we're going to have before we start spending. That bit of common sense has eluded liberal budget-writers in recent years."

Jennings even predicts a future of responsible legislative action. "The current conservative IR majority has raised budget-writing to a new level of responsibility and accountability," he says, "and whoever is in charge of the Legislature will be expected to live up to the yardstick we established these last two years."

Well, Dave, maybe yes....maybe no.

Borrowed Nonsense

"It is good to see you laboring in the vineyard of the Lord, my friend," the traveling preacher said to the farmer. "In all due respect," the farmer replies, "these here plants are soybeans." "Are you a Christian?" the parson pursued. "Johnson," the farmer said. "Jim Christian lives about two miles down the road." "Friend, are you lost?" the preacher asked. "Not me," the farmer smiled. "I've lived on this farm all my life." The parson was exasperated, but moved on to his favorite subject. "Are you prepared for the resurrection?" he asked. "When is it?" the farmer asked. "It could be today, tomorrow, the next day," the preacher answered, happy that he had finally struck home. "Well," said the farmer, "if you go on down past the house, I'd appreciate it if you didn't mention it to the missus. She'll want to go all three days."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

There are three kinds of people in our world today: (1) Those who make things happen; (2) those who watch things happen; and (3) those who don't know what's happening 'till it's all over. Which are you? How about your friends?

Most Americans don't know that America is being weakened in five different ways. These five ways are: Economically, politically, psychologically, militarily and spiritually or morally. The average American should face the bitter facts right now while there is till some time left to save his freedom and his American way of life.

Currency manipulations by the International Monetary Fund, the Trilateral Commission (some very, rich Americans are members — Rockefellers), planning a world business domination by the few. The World Bank and the international bankers are designed to force the world to accept a new money system.

The United States is no longer holding its own against trade competition from the Common Market (Europe), Japan, Hong Kong, Korea and others. Free trade is the big joke of this decade. President Reagan is living backwards in 75 years of American history. The recent defeat of the quota trade bill in the House of Representatives last week is a classic example of the power of the Trilateral Commission. Thousands of American jobs were lost forever in that defeat resulting in an ultimate flood of foreign goods into America.

We sorely need a fresh, Boston Tea Party and dump everything made in Japan into the Pacific Ocean. If President Roosevelt had lived to the end of WW II, there wouldn't have been a Japanese car or truck in this country. FDR was a navy man at heart and when the Japanese destroyed the American Asiatic fleet at Pearl Harbor, he vowed revenge and became sponsor of the atomic bomb. He ordered a day shift and a night shift at White Sands, New Mexico to hasten the discovery of atomic horror.

For over 40 years, the economy of the United States has been in the hands of those dedicated to the creation of a one-world economic and political order. The moral, spiritual and economic foundations upon which this nation was established are being destroyed. The conomy of the United States is being absorbed into a world financial structure.

The designers of this planned takeover are largely in our universities, in our government, in big business, in the unions, in the news media and even in our public schools. Every once in awhile, these people expose their plans and we begin to see what is happening.

To expose this conspiracy, we quote from a speech by the late President John F. Kennedy on Sept. 30, 1963: "Twenty years ago, when the architects of these institutions (Trilateral Commission) met to design an international banking structure, the economic life of the world was polarized in an overwhelming and even alarming measure on the United States. So were the world's monetary reserves. The United States had the only open capital in the world apart from that of Switzerland. Sixty per cent of the gold reserves of the world were in the United States."

Today America is a deficit nation and has to borrow from others on a day-to-day basis to postpone collapse. Today with our huge national debt, we are in financial difficulties. How did all this happen? The American people are certainly unaware of this dilemma, which merely postpones the day when our fiscal chickens come home to roost.

This financial plight will certainly overshadow the upcoming presidential election of 1988. I feel genuinely sorry for the president who follows Ronald Reagan. It won't be George Bush, although I'd like to see the Republican party run him as their standard bearer in 1988. George Bush along with Pat Robertson and Congressman Jack Kemp are a bunch of weak-sisters on the American political horizon.

Tubing on the Red River near River Valley Bridge

Last Sunday a group of families enjoyed tubing on the Red River with its beautiful scenery and winding waterway. They started out near the Darrow Lundeen canoe stop and landed at the River Valley Canoe stop. They had planned to travel to the Rocklanding Canoe stop but darkness came to soon. Those who enjoyed the excursion on the tubes were Brad and Lisa Nelson and boys Ryan, Kyle, Quinton, Tyler, Brent and little Christopher, Kelly and Connie Lundeen and Alison, Adam, Brian, and Nathan, Greg and Gayle Hilgeman, Gary Lundeen, Tasha and Kelsey, Tom and Candy Lundeen, Jeff Lundeen, Kristy Johnsrud of Goodridge, John Kimball of Maryland, Andy and Jimmey Dulka. Looks and sounds like fun.

In 1899 a steamboat, Lilly, built by Olia Hanson and sons of Hickory Twsp, who operated a saw mill, built huge boats for passengers, freight and supplies. The Pioneers naturally didn't have roads to travel years ago so the Red River was used most of the time to travel from the Indian Reservation to Thief River Falls. It would take a couple of days to travel to Thief River Falls from here tubing depending on the swiftness of the water current. Anyway it's fun.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS

There are many ideas that people commonly share about their eyes, however, many of them are no longer considered true. You can test your understanding of these ideas, by deciding whether each of these statements is true or false. 1. You can damage your eyes by using a light that is too dim. 2 You can severely damage your eyes by sitting too close to a television set or by holding a book too close to your eyes. 3. A contact lens can get lost behind the eye. 4. A cataract is a film that is peeled off during surgery. 5. Your eyes will "wear out" if you use them too much, or if you only have one, it will wear out faster. 6. If you need glasses to see clearly, you can eliminate this need by resting your eyes periodically and doing exercises. 7. Headaches are almost always caused by a problem with the eyes. 8. If your eyes are definitely crossed, you can usually outgrow the problem. 9. During a cataract operation, the eyeball is removed from the head and later placed back in position. 10. Most people with glaucoma go blind, even when treated appropriately. 11. It is safe to watch a solar eclipse through sunglasses.

All of these statements are false. Some helpful hints: always wear protective eyewear during sport activities and when using power tools. Have a checkup by your optometrist at least every two years, including a glaucoma check, and immediately report to your eye doctor any loss of vision in either eye.

Meeting For Area Farmers On Radar Site On Sept. 9

Preference for the location of an Over the Horizon-Backscatter (OTH-B) radar system leans toward an area west of Thief River Falls—after a preliminary environmental impact study, according to Tom Kenville, Jobs Inc. project coordinator and liason with the U.S. air force.

With the Over the Horizon Backscatter radar which will be installed on the East Coast, West coast, Central area and Alaska, radar signals are refracted off the earth's ionosphere to provide tracking of aircraft up to 1,800 miles away. The receiver site must be within 50 nautical miles of Grand Forks air force base which will serve as an operations center. The area west of Thief River Falls is located within the 50 nautical mile limit but areas east of Thief River Falls are not.

Jobs Inc. is holding an informational breakfast meeting for interested farmers within the potential site location at 7:30 a.m. September 9 at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. Farmers interested in submitting to negotiations with the air force, which may include selling property, leasing or a combination of both, should bring a legal property description with them to the meeting.

The potential site location for the radar system includes parts of the following townships: Polk Centre, Black River, Bray, Sanders, Numedal and Norden. The site would require four sections of land, or 2,560 acres of land primarily along the ridge area. All the land does not to be adjacent. Further details will be discussed at the meeting.

The time table the air force will follow if Thief River Falls is selected as a site, will also be discussed at the meeting. Construction of the system is scheduled to begin in July of 1988 and is expected to be functional for at least 20 years. The total cost of all of the OTH-B systems is placed at $2.3 billion with total costs for the central system at $600 billion. Last week an updated potential employee report indicated that as many as 50 security personnel, which could come from civilian communities, and five to 10 air force technical personnel would be needed for the radar site.

County Extension Office Compiles Hay Sales List

Pennington county extension office is compiling a list of farmers in the area with hay for sale. It is hoped that this could be used as an information point for hay buyers as they begin looking for hay going into the fall and winter.

In addition to this, and perhaps more importantly, the office is looking for some way to move hay to the southeast United States, where it is badly needed due to severe drought conditions. If transportation could be put together, it would be necessary to move a large volume of hay in a fairly short period of time. This again points to the need for a list of hay producers who would have hay for sale that could be put together on short notice, according to Howard Person, county agricultural agent.

Hay producers in the area who are interested in being put on this list should contact the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116, and indicate the quantity and quality of the hay as well as the type, such as hay, grass, legume and large round or square bales.

Person says we can't promise a market for all the hay that may be listed, but it should serve as a good resource for people who are looking to buy hay, and hopefully a means to put a lot of hay together fast, if we do have an opportunity to move some south.

Northern Motors To Add Franchises Of Michael Motors

Anticipated transfer of Pontiac, Buick and Cadillac franchises from the former Michael Motors dealership to Northern Motors in Thief River Falls is expected to provide a "bigger and stronger" dealer and service organization, according to Michael Kvarnlov, who headed the dealership which closed recently.

Bob Dondelinger, owner of Northern Motors, said that applications have been made for transfer of the three franchises and approval is expected in several weeks. Expectations are that warranty work and service on cars sold through Michael Motors will be handled through Northern Motors.

A number of former Michael Motors employees, including Kvarnlov, who will work heavily in the sales area, have been hired by Northern Motors. Jason Anderson will join the staff as assistant service manager to Marland Kloety, assuring customers that a service manager or writer will be on hand when they contact the shop about vehicle service or repair. Mechanics Allen Anderson and Vernon Erdmann will also transfer, as are two employees in parts and office work.

Kvarnlov said he has been appreciative of those who have patronized the Pontiac, Buick and Cadillac dealership during his five and one-half years of association with it and he encouraged them to bring their vehicles to Northern Motors for service work by the same familiar mechanics. He said he believed the combination of franchises would be a plus for the community.

Dondelinger said he expected the pace to quicken with the additional General Motors lines, but that the additional service staff should make it possible to continue good service to customers of both businesses. "We have good people on our sales and service force and those who joined us from Michael Motors will continue that tradition," he said. "Having an assistant to the service manager should be especially helpful as each will be able to give more individual attention to our customers."

PLUMMER
CARDINALS

WASHINGTON LAWYER or small town athlete, Lorie Skjerven of Plummer fits easily into either mold. A 1980 honor graduate of Pershing high school in Plummer and 4.0 honor student while earning a four-year political science degree in three years at the University of Minnesota-Morris, Lorie graduated in May from Georgetown University law center in Washington, DC. She was a member of the largest class (670 students) ever to graduate from a law school in America. Now employed (as of August 25) as a litigator with one of the nation's largest and most influential law firms — Arent, Fox, Kintner, Plotkin and Kahn of Washington, DC — she is looking forward to pursuing the career she has always dreamed of having. But she remains ever mindful and defensive of the small town background she has and its contribution to her work ethic.

Lorie Skjerven Defends Small Town Background

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"My Lawyer Can Beat Up Your Lawyer" reads the reflectorized bumper sticker attached prominently to the bug deflector on Roger Skjerven's car, parked on the main street in Plummer. It is more than a statement in jest; it is symbolic of the pride in family and community shared by members of the Skjerven family.

Roger and Pollie Skjerven's eldest daughter, Lorie Skjerven Gildea, is one of the very few graduates of Pershing high school in Plummer to enter the legal profession and certainly the first female to do so. Pollie Skjerven's classmate in Pershing's 1955 graduating class, Dale Craft, is now an attorney in Moorhead. Archie Kuoppala, a graduate of the class of 1931, also went on to law school, according to local Plummer historian Avis Froiland.

And Lorie wasn't satisfied to pick up her Juris Doctorate from just any law school. She earned her way into Georgetown University's law center, considered to be the top law school in the nation. Competing with many third and fourth generation law students carefully screened and selected for admission to the school, she graduated this spring in the top 10 per cent of her class of 670 students, earning the magna cum laude honor designation.

A 1980 graduate of Plummer high school, Lorie was always on the honor roll and one of three honor students in the class at graduation time. Knowing that she would benefit for admission consideration at Georgetown from an impressive college career, she carried 20 credits per quarter and attended summer sessions to complete a four-year program at the University of Minnesota at Morris in three years. She earned a bachelor of arts degree in political science and maintained a 4.0 grade point average.

In the fall of 1983 she headed for the East coast to enter the Georgetown university law center which has a campus in Washington, DC, separate from the university itself. It was an eye-opening and challenging experience.

"For as long as I can remember I never wanted to be anything but a lawyer," Lorie said. "Maybe some of it came from watching the old Perry Mason shows on television. And I can remember when I was a little kid my mom told me, 'You better be a lawyer because you sure like to argue.' Even when I had some doubts about my abilities during college and law school, I never lost the desire to be a lawyer."

Her interest in the Washington, DC, area was intensified between the second and third years of college when she served as an intern in the office of Congressman Arlan Stangeland in Washington. It was there that she met Andy Gildea, the congressman's press secretary, who is now her husband. After six years away from college, Andy will enter the Georgetown law school this fall in quest of his own law degree.

Convention City Sees Changes Since 1952

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Where were you in 1952? Recently Roger Tunberg was digging through some boxes of his mother's possessions following her death and uncovered a pamphlet of Thief River Falls, convention city for Northwest Minnesota. It provides an interesting comparison of the way things were to what they are today.

During the time this pamphlet was being written, world news consisted mostly of the Korean war and talk about the "Reds". On a national news forum a federal court ordered the university of Tennessee to admit four negroes; on May 9, 77 police officers in Brooklyn were indicted for taking bribes; on June 27, juvenile narcotics was reported to be an epidemic nationwide; on July 9, color television tests started; in August, William Randolph Hearst's heirs were locked in a dispute over the estate with Marion Davies.

Things were at a much slower pace in Thief River Falls as they probably always have been, but it was a town experiencing change and growth. In 1952 Thief River Falls was trying to attract more conventions and establish a market through its location on a map — the center of a rural area on a popular highway to Winnipeg.

At the time the pamphlet was written, Thief River Falls had a population of 7,201, the two hospitals had recently merged and had 150 beds, Oakland park Tuberculosis sanitarium still operated, the newspaper came out weekly and the advertiser monthly, the police and fire departments had seven policemen, one matron, traffic patrols, five paid firemen, and 20 volunteers; the postal receipts were $83,868.51, KTRF with 250 watts at 1230 kilocycles served northwestern Minnesota, enrollment at the three public schools was over 2,000, there were two theaters and Wisconsin Central airline used DC-3 planes to land at the Thief River Falls airport which was not paved or lighted.

Today Thief River Falls has a population of about [illegible] on the 1980 census, the hospital has [illegible] beds and 20 bassinettes plus a 90-bed CNC unit, Oakland park tuberculosis sanitarium is an abandoned shell, the newspaper comes out semi-weekly, the advertiser weekly, the police and fire departments have 11 policemen, the police chief, one part time staff member, six paid firemen, and 24 volunteers, the postal receipts were $1.2 million last year, radio stations serve a much wider market — KTRF added KKAQ, KSNR entered

Cynthia Morkrid & Jon Nessen United In Marriage June 7

Cynthia Ann Morkrid and Jon William Nessen were united in marriage June 7 at Zion Lutheran church. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Morkrid and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Nessen, all of this city.

Rev. Vernon Severson and Rev. Richard Larson officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony, with approximately 200 guests participating in the marriage celebration. Barb Sundre and Jim White sang selections of "You and I" as prelude, "God, A Woman and A Man" following the sermonette, and "The Lord's Prayer." Lori Fanfulik played a guitar rendition of "Wedding Song" during the lighting of the unity candle.

Organist, Mrs. Carl Nordvall, friend of the couple, played processional of "Bridal Chorus" as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The altar area was decorated with two pink bow-trimmed candelabra and a large bouquet of gladioli, pink and white carnations, daisies and babies' breath. Acolytes for the service, wearing gray trousers and ties and white shirts, were Chad Homme and Chris Beaucage.

The bride chose a traditional white satin gown with Schiffli embroidered high collar, Victorian Wedgewood lace and point d'esprit bodice, and Renaissance sleeves trimmed with Wedgewood lace. Twenty-five pearl buttons accented the bodice back. The full skirt featured pick-ups topped by satin flowers and a Wedgewood lace-trimmed hem which flowed to a semi-cathedral train. Her fingertip veil and blusher fell from a headpiece of imported silk flowers and pearl sprays. She carried a cascading bouquet of shell pink roses, pink carnations and babies' breath.

Maid of honor, Patty Sabol, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids Nadine McDilda, Natalie Olson and Julie Johnson, friends of the bride, and Mishawn Homme, cousin of the groom, approached the altar to the organ strains of "Canon in D. All wore soft pink, sheer-over-satin gowns with the full sleeves worn off-the-shoulder accented with a silk rose. A back-bowed satin sash accented the full, ruffle-trimmed skirt. They wore their gifts from the bride, pearl earrings and necklaces. In their hair they wore combs with an open rose, rosebuds and babies' breath and carried lace fans with pink roses and carnations and babies' breath.

Jamie Sabol, the miniature bride, wore a white satin gown similar to that of the bride, with flowered pick-ups and lace-trimmed hem and a matching veil. She also wore a small Black Hills gold heart necklace, a gift from the bride. The groom's cousin, Greg Homme, was the miniature groom, wearing white tails, cummerbund and tie, and pink rose boutonniere.

The groom was attired in white tails with white bow tie and cummerbund, and pink open rose boutonniere. Mike Nessen of Minneapolis served as his brother's best man. Other attendants were friends, Dennis Jesch and Loren Rux, brother of the bride Allan Morkrid, and cousin of the groom Scott Hemmestvedt. The gentlemen of the wedding party wore gray tails, cummerbunds and ties, with pink rose boutonneres. Serving as ushers were Ed Sabol, brother-in-law of the bride, and Roger Jablinske, uncle of the groom, wearing gray tuxedos with gray accessories. They also wore pink rose boutonneres.

The mother of the bride wore a long gown of pale pink with lace over-jacket, and the mother of the groom wore a long gown of light rose with a sheer jacket. Both wore pearl earrings and necklace accessories, and corsages of soft pink roses with babies' breath.

Honored guests were grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Jablinske and Mr. and Mrs. Obert Homme. A special floral arrangement on the altar was in memory of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Einar Severson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morkrid.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony, with Mr. and Mrs. Alan Homme and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Frederickson as host couples. Gracing the serving table was a three-tiered white and pink wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, featuring bridal stairs, leading to adjoining cakes, upon which were miniatures of the bridal party. A flowing fountain decorated the base of the cake, with an open Bible side cake displaying names of the bride and groom and a Bible verse quotation.

June Sundre, aunt of the bride, and Kathy Opdahl, aunt of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake; Sherry Knutson, cousin of the bride, and September Hemmestvedt, cousin of the groom, served punch; and Val Mattison, friend of the bride, presided at the guest book. Waitresses were Roberta Opdahl, Diana Olson, Linette Olson, Darla Hemmestvedt, Kim Seracki and Colleen Kayser.

The bride's personal attendants were her sister-in-law, Tawnya Morkrid, and firend, Lori Fanfulik, and Kim Swanson served as flower attendant. Scrolls were distributed by the bride's niece, Amber Morkrid, and programs and rice by the bride's nephew, Joey Sabol, and groom's cousin, Jason Homme, who wore gray trousers, white shirts and pink and gray ties. The groom's cousins, Chris and Shane Opdahl, carried the gifts.

Out-of-town guests were from Minneapolis, Crookston and Anoka; Larimore, Petersburg, Michigan and Grand Forks, ND; Webster, SD; Scottsdale, AZ; and Kennewick and Brier, WA.

Following a wedding trip to the Black Hills, the couple is at home in Thief River Falls, where the groom is employed at Oakland Park nursing home and the bride at Digi-Key. Both are graduates of Lincoln high school, and the bride of the Thief River Falls AVTI legal secretarial program.

the market and a radio station at the AVTI (KSRQ) was added; color television and a host of options including cable are available and almost considered necessities.

In 1951 there were only three public schools. The Thief River Falls schools have increased in size and student population by a significant amount. The high school has expanded, Franklin Middle school was built along with Mark Twain elementary and Washington elementary. Since 1951 Northland community college and the AVTI have also been added. Today the student population is around 3,500 in elementary through post high school education.

Crops, according to the 1951 pamphlet, consisted mostly of flax, oats and hay. Potatoes were also an important crop. Today, according to Howard Person, Pennington county extension agent, few of any potatoes are grown and the main crops are wheat, barley and hay. Oats and flax are secondary and sunflowers and soybeans have been introduced to the area.

Changes in the dairy market since 1951 also demonstrate some significant changes. In 1951 there were 21 creameries and cheese factories within a radius of 40 miles of Thief River Falls. Today there are not more than six, most of which are only collection points or have taken on other farm service lines.

For many years, Thief River Falls has been one of the top turkey processing and shipping points in the state. In 1951, over four million pounds of turkey were processed and shipped to other markets. In 1951, two large hatcheries also produced thousands of chicks and turkey poults. The hatcheries no longer exist here. Processing, however, has continued to grow, producing 23½ million pounds last year and an estimated 30 million pounds this year.

All of the figures in the comparison take into account an very limited section of the community. The comparison does not take into account people and businesses that have come and gone. Because of these limitations and others it cannot possibly be used to measure the entire extent of change in the community of Thief River Falls. But it does help put time and changes that have happened to "convention city" into perspective.

"Now it's my turn to put food on the table," Lorie laughed, noting that she has been offered a position in the law firm of Arent, Fox, Kintner, Plotkin and Kahn in Washington, DC, and will begin work there August 25. She took her bar examination in Virginia July 30 and 31 and will have the results in October.

One of few midwest students in the law school class — the largest class ever to graduate from any American law school — Lorie was fiercely proud and defensive of her small town upbringing and her family name. One professor in particular refused to attempt to pronounce Skjerven, asking instead "is there anyone in the class from Plummer, Minnesota?" Pressed about pronunciation of the name, she would reply, "Skjerven, just like it's spelled."

Asked by one professor where Plummer was located, she startled her eastern-dominated classmates with the response, "For the purposes of this class, we'll say it's just west of Manhattan, out in America." In private discussions she found that many of her well-traveled classmates were interested in the midwest although they had never been here and had no desire to make the trip.

During her law school days she showed the midwestern work ethic. "I watched her come home from a full day of classes and study at least seven hours a night, every week night throughout law school," her husband Andy says with obvious pride. "She is outspoken in her advocacy of the values and strengths instilled by an upbringing in small town Minnesota.

"Away from her legal work, she still has her small-town laughter and devotion. She plays second base for our softball team and is active at church. She is still the little girl who trudged with short steps through the snow outside the Falls Mall with the strings on her hood pulled so tight that only her eyes showed, or who played volleyball and basketball aggressively against the Lincoln high school Prowlers."

Lorie appreciates the small town values. "I think people understand each other better and know how to help more in rural America," she said. "The atmosphere in law school was very competitive and I found that hard to get accustomed to," she said, "but that could be the atmosphere in any law school, not just Georgetown. I've adjusted to the Eastern lifestyle now and I think I'm learning to fit in."

This is a good time to be a woman in the legal field, she said, noting that nearly half of her law school class was female. "I've never been a feminist," she said, "and I don't want to be given any special consideration because I'm female. I'll be satisfied to be allowed to prove my abilities."

She lauded the guaranteed student loan program which she said made it possible for her to study in the evenings instead of work, although she did work in a small litigation firm while in college. And she listed graduation as the most gratifying part of her law school experience.

Attending her graduation were her parents, younger brother James and sister Peggy (Mrs. Kermit Genereux), who attended with Kermit and their daughter Kyla. Peggy is an accountant with Moser and Christianson, Ltd., in Thief River Falls.

"I had several advantages in earning my degree," Lorie said, "especially the love and guidance of good parents. But an important point needs to be made. The local schools laid a solid foundation. If you listen and work hard in Minnesota's public schools, you can compete effectively with anyone in America."

Don't argue with Lorie; "My Lawyer Can Beat Up Your Lawyer."

Primary Election Absentee Ballots Now Available

Absentee ballots are now available for the up-coming September 9 primary election, according to Secretary of State Joan Growe.

"Any qualified voter who will be absent from his or her precinct on election day or who is unable to go to the polls because of illness or religious reasons should apply for an absentee ballot as soon as possible," she said.

"No one can vote by absentee ballot simply because he or she doesn't want to be bothered with going to the polls," she said. "Absentee ballots cost the city and county more money to process and put an additional burden on the election judges, therefore only persons with legitimate conflicts may legally obtain absentee ballots."

Voters may obtain absentee ballots from their county auditor by submitting an application stating their name, voting and mailing address, and the reason they will be unable to go to the polls on election day.

An absentee ballot returned by mail must be sent in time to be received in the polling place on election day. However, if the voter returns the ballot in person or appoints an agent to return it, the ballot must be received by the proper election official before 7 p.m. on the day before the election.

Growe also pointed out that braille and cassette instructions for visually impaired absentee voters are available along with instructions set in large type. "Our goal," she said, "is to ensure that all voters have the maximum opportunity to exercise their right to vote."
